ACT TO BLOCK FRENCH STRIKE

TVA IS ACCUSED OF THWARTING SPENDING AUDIT

U. S. Controler Cites Protested Funds.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The acting controler general of the United States today presented to congress objections to expenditures by the Tennessee Valley authority totaling more than 6 million dollars.

Richard N. Elliott.

In a vigorous letter to the congressional committee investigating the TVA, Richard N. Elliott, the acting controler general, protested that the attempts of the general accounting office to audit TVA spending had been blocked in many instances by officials of the authority.

Numerous examples of interference by TVA officials with investigators for the general accounting office were cited by Elliott. He disclosed the disinclination of the TVA to reveal details of spending on a strawberry project, a dairy herd purchase and sale, the printing of social and athletic circulars, and other experiments embarked upon by the government in connection with its trial of state socialization.

Exceptions Later Reduced.

Because of obstacles put in the way of the accounting office, its auditors first noted exceptions to expenditures totaling $18,791,910, Elliott informed the committee. The TVA then permitted an additional inspection of its files and submitted additional evidence in support of its transactions, and the auditors removed exceptions to amounts totaling $12,634,382. There remain, however, Elliott reported, exceptions to amounts totaling $6,157,528 which have been recommended by the auditors.

The strawberry project referred to in Elliott's report concerned an experiment in growing strawberries, freezing them by special apparatus, and then peddling them by a craft of special construction up and down the Tennessee river.

The auditors' curiosity about spending on this project was aroused, Elliott reported, when they sought to verify the propriety of disbursements from an agent officers' $1,000 fund for this project. The facts were originally refused but later supplied on formal request in writing after weeks of delay.

Committeeman Raises Point.

"We don't know yet how many thousands of dollars were spent on this strawberry project," remarked Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.], member of the committee. "When the committee made its inspection trip of the TVA area we were shown many things but not the remarkable boat which was to have been used for distribution of the strawberries.

"Perhaps the TVA officials were at a loss to explain to the committee what the growing of strawberries had to do with the development of power or the improvement of navigation in the Tennessee valley."

The controler general's report said: "In view of the wide scope of the audit requested by the controler general under the law, it is frequently necessary to get access to board minutes, administration correspondence files and office memoranda, and to interview personnel in order to trace the origin of and to verify the authorization and legality of financial transactions.

Tells Refusal of Data.

"The general account field auditors met with obstacles that prolonged the audit and were at times refused such data or told that there was no such authorization or information, nor was it considered necessary."

As specific examples of interference, in addition to the case of the strawberry project, the controler general's report cited the following:

"An effort was made to verify the rentals paid for land occupied by CCC camps. Auditors were referred to the chief forester, who stated in effect that such matters were entirely for his own determination and

YOUTHS PARADE: AN ANSWER TO FARM PROBLEM

America's Future Passes in Review.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The solution to the American farm problem marched four abreast into the Internationtal amphitheater last night. There were 1,211 of them, marshalled behind their leaders. They were members of the 4-H clubs, holding their annual congress in Chicago in conjunction with the International Live Stock show. Yesterday was their day.

The 1,211 were entrants in a tournament of champions. Every one of them had his or her expenses paid to Chicago as the winner of some county, state, or sectional honor. They were tops among 1,255,000 4-H club members. They came from forty-four states, Canada, Porto Rico, and Hawaii.

The Champions of Champions.

Leading the parade were the champions of champions—eighteen winners of the national championships at the 4-H congress. They rode into the arena behind an eight horse team of mountainous Clydesdales. They were the cooking champions, the canning champions, the stock raising champions, the achievement champions, the leadership champions, the placid woman who is the champion club director of the nation.

The 4-H clubs draw their members from the rural school children of the nation. They are America's stay on the farm movement, educating better farmers and farm wives through practical experience. Dr. A. B. Graham, who retired last summer from the United States department of agriculture, started them thirty years ago in Ohio. Today with 7 million alumni in addition to active members under 21, they are too big, their admirers insist, for any politician to monkey with. They fatten little pigs but don't plow them under.

Highlights of Movement.

Last night, for the benefit of the predominantly city crowd that had come to the amphitheater to see the fancy footwork of the harness acts, hunters, and jumpers of the horse show, the youngsters carried signs that gave the highlights of their movement.

"4-H club members own 280,000 head of live stock."

Item in particular: Irene O'Brien of Aledo, 14 years old, standing down in the Illinois delegation, bucked up against the veteran stock breeders of the nation yesterday in the Aberdeen-Angus class for fat cattle from 1,000 to 1,150 pounds and won the class title. Her steer, Mercer II., is a broad, funny little beastie. Today she will lead him into the ring when they pick the grand champion steer, top animal of the entire show.

She has already won the junior feeding contest at this show and the grand championship at the Illinois state fair. Experienced stockmen say she has a good chance to win today.

A Record for Ten Years.

Another sign: "$25,000,000 was the market value of products produced by 4-H club members last year."

Item in particular: Myron A. Johnson, on his father's farm near Boone, Ia., during the last ten years raised eighteen baby beeves, fifty sheep, eight sows, and their litters, eleven acres of corn. He sold his products for $3,642, after winning $411 in prizes with them. That won him the national meat animal project in the clubs this year.

Another sign—"4-H girls' record: Canned 8,200,000 jars of food to make for balanced diet and better health."

Item in particular: Sadie Reed, 20 years old, a Yankee lass from East Poultney, Vt., is this year's national canning champion. In ten years of club work she canned more than 4,000

4 Hurt in Riot as Rivals Raid Silver Shirts

More than 100 men gathered last night in a hall at 5835 Irving Park road to attend a meeting of an organization known as the Silver Shirt Legion of America. Its main tenet is anti-Semitism. It is said to favor Naziism.

Roy Zachary.

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock with Roy Zachary of Snoqualmie, Wash., as the chief speaker. He is described as field marshal in the middle west for the Silver Shirts.

Shortly after the meeting opened more than 100 automobiles in groups of threes and fives drew up and were parked near the hall. From each car alighted two to five men.

Crowd Charges into Hall.

At 8:35 p. m., as Zachary was in the midst of his speech, the doors of the meeting hall flew open. A shouting mass of men charged in. In another moment fists were landing on noses and eyes. A general mêlée followed. Men were knocked down and kicked. A riot call was sent out to police.

First squads arrived from the Jefferson Park station to find fighting still in progress inside and outside the hall. The police themselves joined in the fight, then called for help. More squads, commanded by Lieut. Charles Anderson and Sergt. Edward Strandberg, responded, and quickly brought an end to the disorder.

At the end of the fighting four men were injured. Nine of the attacking force were held for questioning.

Beaten on Speaker's Platform.

The injured, who had attended the meeting, were:

Zachary, who suffered head injuries. He was beaten down on the speaker's platform.

Clarence Sutherland, 44 years old, 5705 Dakin sareet. He suffered a skull fracture, and was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital. His condition is critical.

Frank Starr, 53 years old, 5714 Byron street, bruised about the head.

The alleged demonstrators held were Milton Marks, 21 years old, of 2751 North Whipple street; Dave Forman, 21, of 2525 Division street; Max Kamm, 21, of 2416 Cortez street; Herman Lieb, 19, of 1544 Millard avenue; Irv Botnek, 20, of 1505 South Ridgeway avenue; Seymour Brodofsky, 17, of 2905 Cortez street; Aaron Ragins of 3101 Augusta boulevard, and Julius Rosenthal, 22, a reporter, and William Rice, 22, a photographer for the Daily Record, a newspaper, both of 1838 North Halsted street.

On orders of Capt. Herbert Burns all the demonstrators except Ragins were booked early today in charges of inciting to riot and disorderly conduct. Zachary and the two Starrs also were booked on the same charges. Ragins, named by a witness as the man who slugged Sutherland, police said, was held on open charges pending the outcome of Sutherland's condition.

The meeting was the fourth assembly of Silver Shirts or the German-American bund to be broken up violently in recent weeks. Police were informed that a nameless organization of about 1,000 young men has been formed to oppose the two groups. These men operate, it is said, in the manner of vigilantes, with word for action passing from mouth to mouth. They are described as being pro-Jewish to the extent the bund and the Silver Shirts are anti-Jewish.

TWINS, INSEPARABLE 53 YEARS, TOGETHER EVEN IN MISFORTUNE

Kearny, N. J., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Percy and Cecil Arnot, twins, have been inseparable in a lifetime of 53 years. Percy slipped in the snow Saturday and was taken to a hospital with a broken bone. Today Cecil is in the hospital for an appendectomy. They were put in adjacent beds.

A $100 FIRE TIES UP ACTIVITY ALL OVER A BIG CITY

Miami, Fla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A fire in a transformer box that compelled the power company to shut off current in the downtown district for more than an hour today caused only $100 monetary damage, but:

Elevators were stalled between floors, stranding hundreds of passengers, movie screens went dark, and theaters had to give patrons rain checks; telegraph companies could not send or receive messages; trafic lights went out and a special squad of policemen was detailed on the double-quick to unsnarl trafic jams; dentists had to stop drilling on patients; permanent waves were interrupted in beauty shops, and soda clerks had to shake chocolate malteds by hand.

Loop Pedestrian Knocked Out by a Falling Bottle

Max Shapiro, 35 years old, a furrier, of 622½ Barry avenue, was knocked unconscious yesterday by an empty quart milk bottle which fell from an upper story as he walked in front of 157 North Clark street.

Call on Berle to Repay Aid's $70,000 Theft

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Adolf A. Berle Jr., an original member of President Roosevelt's brain trust and now assistant secretary of state, today was held personally liable for $70,000 of New York City funds stolen by his assistant and spent on horse races and a girl friend.

Adolf A. Berle Jr.

The demand on Berle was made in a report of the thefts placed before Judge George L. Donnellan in General Sessions court, where the cabinet officer's former aid, Hiram C. Connor, 34 years old, was sentenced to three and a half years in Sing Sing prison for forgery.

Berle on Way to Peru.

Berle is now on his way to the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, to which he is a delegate. He has been a successful attorney, is wealthy in his own right, and married eleven years ago into a wealthy and aristocratic family. He was a Columbia university professor and has held various government posts, including connections with the AAA and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

His responsibility in the city fund thefts results from his tenure as New York City chamberlain from 1934 to last spring. The office, known as a sinecure, has been abolished. It carried a salary of $15,000 a year. Its main duties were to deposit money collected by the city controler. Berle's chief duties were to act as an adviser to Mayor F. H. La Guardia.

Put in Trusted Position.

Berle appointed Connor, a $40 a week clerk, as his assistant and subsequently made him head of the real estate division of the chamberlain's office, intrusting him to handling real estate collections.

Connor continued to hold the post after Berle went to Washington last spring as assistant secretary of state, remaining in the chamberlain's office when it was merged with that of the city treasurer.

Last July Connor was arrested and confessed the theft of city funds. An audit showed he had taken $80,000 by forging checks and falsifying book entries. The report made to Judge Donnellan today stated that Berle is responsible for $70,000 of those losses.

Connor said much of the stolen money was bet on horse races. He

Britain Hunts Ghost Slasher for 13 Attacks

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A mysterious slasher wounded his twelfth victim in thirteen attacks within a week tonight in Halifax, Yorkshire. The city's population is terrorized by his razor wielding.

Arrow points to terrorized city.

Striking from dark doorways so quickly and silently that only one victim ever has seen his face, he has given a new spurt to the recent wave of crimes in Great Britain by morons against women and children.

Women going to work are accompanied whenever possible by men. The women carry hatpins, sticks, and bags of pepper for self-defense, but none of the victims has had time to put up a fight.

Three Attacks in a Day.

There were three victims today. The first was Mrs. Constance Wood. She was knocked down and slashed near her doorstep as she left for work before daylight. The assailant cut her twice with his razor before running away. She said the attacker wore a mackintosh—the almost universal garment of British workers—and rubber soled shoes.

After darkness the "fantom slasher" pounced on Mary Sutcliffe, 20 years old, his first victim of a week ago. He seized her in her back yard and cut her chest. A week ago her wrists were slashed as she was shielding her face. Two hours after Miss Sutcliffe was wounded the second time the slasher attacked a married woman near her home and cut her on the arm.

Police surrounded the area and local posses joined the search for the slasher. The police chief of Halifax summoned Scotland Yard to take part in the hunt.

Suspects Three Different Slashers.

Chief Constable A. H. Richardson said there probably are three different slashers. The first one, he believes, is a man who was ousted from a job by a woman since all women victims were employed. The constable said he believed the others got the idea from reading of his attacks.

No attempt at robbery, murder, or rape has been made in any case.

Seen momentarily by Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, who was slashed at her doorstep just before midnight Saturday, the assailant was described as a hideous person, grinning horribly and showing a row of blackened teeth. She said he had a flattened nose.

Feels Blow on Her Arm.

The slasher, said one victim, waited in a dark alley or doorway for her to pass. She felt a blow on the arm. When she reached a street light she found her sleeve soaked with blood.

Nine women and three men have been slashed since last Monday.

The razor is a favorite weapon of British hoodlums and usually is used in the form of a razor blade sewed into the visor of a cap with a quarter of an inch of the corner projecting. During an attack the hoodlum bunches his cap in his hand and slashes his victim.

Public Services Must Run, Premier Orders

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 29 [Tuesday].—With France on the eve of a general strike of 5,000,000 workers and his own political future at stake, Premier Edouard Daladier early this morning requisitioned all public services and warned that civil servants who take part in the protest strike tomorrow against the government's decree laws will be liable to dismissal. The public services include subway and bus systems, and water, gas, and electric plants.

The premier, who yesterday returned a curt "no" to proposals for a compromise with organized labor, thus showed he is determined to make good the pledge he gave the nation in a radio speech Sunday night to break the strike by all available means.

Unionists Seek Showdown.

The extent to which the premier's drastic measures will cripple the demonstration is not yet clear. Leaders of the national labor federation, which includes the majority of French industrial workers and many governmental employés, denounced the requisition measure as illegal and continued preparations for a showdown.

An eleventh hour effort to patch up the differences by compromise was to be made today. Terms of the compromise probably will be a promise by labor leaders to call off the strike in return for the government's pledge to summon parliament as soon as possible to let the deputies vote on the stringent economy decrees and suspension of the forty hour week which brought on a strike movement.

One Attempt Fails.

An attempt to avert the twenty-four hour general strike was made yesterday by moderate political leaders with the blessing of several war veterans groups. The general labor federation was to be asked to call off the strike in return for an advance pledge by the government to negotiate over grievances.

But when the delegation, headed by L. O. Frossard, president of the Socialist and Republican union and former minister of public works, tried to lay this peace formula before Daladier they were informed over the telephone by the premier that he refused to make any commitments before the strike is called off. Union spokesmen gave an equally firm refusal.

Rail Workers Defiant.

The federation of railway workers launched a new warning that they will strike tomorrow despite the government's action in requisitioning the railway system to keep it running.

Although the Renault motor works near Paris and a few other factories shut down in last week's outburst of sitdown strikes continued closed, no new strikes of this nature were reported. On the other hand, several independent labor groups announced they would refuse to take part in tomorrow's demonstration. But the great bulk of the 5 million workers, who belong to the general labor federation, gave no sign of wavering in the demonstration walkout.

Outline Military Procedure.

Government employés' unions totaling 950,000 public servants, including 520,000 railroad workers, defied cabinet orders to disregard the strike call.

Military officials said the requisitioning of public service employés would proceed as follows:

Army authorities would be placed in charge of the companies affected and take over supervision of operations.

If the workers, then working for the army in the interest of national defense, refused to perform their duties or disobeyed orders they would be subject to trial by military courts.

If the regular workers chose to strike and run the risk of court martial, the army could replace them with soldiers who would take over the actual job of driving engines, shoveling coal and selling tickets.

Under Defense Ministry.

The ministry of national defense would be in direct command of the public services after the requisition order became effective. The ministry of public works, normally charged with operation of the railroads, would hand over that responsibility to the ministry of national defense.

The new "mass decree" authorized the government to call back to work Wednesday all striking workers in all public services and specified that workers do not have to be notified individually, but by poster.

Daladier instructed all prefects and government supervisors to telegraph directly to him on Thursday the names of all employés who fail to show up for work Wednesday. This information, he said, will be used in applying "legal penalties."

Labor Replies to Premier.

The general labor confederation in an open letter to the premier last night denied the general strike order was linked with negotiations between the French and German governments for a nonaggression pact, as Daladier charged in his radio talk Sunday night.

The confederation said the demonstration was confined strictly to a protest against the decree laws and it accused Daladier of "suppressing in effect the 40 hour week without discussion." Publication of the new decree, the letter said, "forced the workers to use the single effective gesture left—strikes."

Unions which previously had signified their intention of disregarding strike instructions were being induced to join the strike by labor organizers.

Display Requisition Order.

Walls of buildings in Paris and other cities which have been covered for the last week with posters attacking the government and calling on it to resign, were plastered during the night with official tri-color decorated posters announcing the requisition order. Detachments of mobile guards have already quietly prepared to maintain order in this capital and elsewhere.

The labor federation as well as the government has taken steps to prevent disorders—which in the present state of tension could have most serious consequences—by ordering workers to refrain from street meetings and other demonstrations during the strike period.

One of the things which enrages the political groups of the left most in the present dispute with Daladier, who is their former comrade in the Popular Front, is his assertion that the strike is of a political nature and constitutes an attempt to usurp parliament's right to pass on the decree laws. The leftists point out it is Daladier himself who has refused to convoke the chambers which he originally promised to summon on Nov. 15.

NAZI PLANE OFF ON 9,300 MILE FLIGHT TO TOKIO

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A fast four motored Focke-Wulf Condor plane took off today for Tokio with a crew of five and one passenger, to show the orient, especially Japan, Germany's latest achievements in airplane building.

With only three stops scheduled en route—at Basra, Iraq; Karachi, India, and Hanoe, French Indo-China—it was expected the entire distance of 9,300 miles would be covered in from fifty to fifty-five hours.

Lufthansa officials, however, declared that no record would be sought.

Goanga was known as a fearless opponent of the Iron Guard and was a former state secretary of education. A policeman who attempted to capture the youths was killed.

DANZIG POLICE RAID HOMES IN HUNT FOR JEWS

Unemployed Are Pushed Into Poland.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Jewish quarters today said that arrests of Jews are continuing in various parts of Germany. Many who stayed hidden away fro mtheir homes during the arrest wave of Nov. 10 now are being rounded up quietly, reports said.

Word also came from the Nazi dominated Free City of Danzig of large scale raids in search of Jews within the last few days.

All Jewish boarding houses, hotels, and homes in Danzig, Zoppot, and Olive were said to have been searched. It was reported that Jews who could not prove they had regular employment or who could not produce passports were pushed across the border of neighboring Poland.

Special Store for Jews

In Kassel, where anti-Semitism is said to be particularly strong, a special store has been established where Jews may buy the necessities of life. Most Aryan stores are closed to them. The special store sells purely on a cash and carry basis. Jews are allowed no credit.

That Jewish sympathizers in academic ranks will be treated like Jews was foreshadowed in the current issue of Die Bewegung, Nazi university organ.

"Any professor who thinks he cannot get along without Jewish coworkers—this includes private secretaries, private assistants, and collaborators on periodicals—will be the target of our relentless attacks," said the paper. "We will place him on the same plane with the Jew and treat him like a Jew."

Arthur Kuffler, former president of the International Cotton federation and now head of the "Action Gildemeester" for emigration of Jews, left Vienna for London to confer on collection of funds for a large scale Jewish emigration. Kuffler's plan is to finance emigration by additional German exports.

Hunts Havens in So. Pacific.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today disclosed that Britain was extending her search for homes for Jewish refugees from central Europe to British islands on the south Pacific.

He told the house of commons that communications were being sent to governors of colonies and mandates other than those of British Guiana and the African colonies, which he mentioned last week as possible havens for Jews seeking refuge from Nazi Germany's anti-Jewish program.

He added that the high commissioner for the western Pacific was among the governors addressed. This official, who is governor of the Fiji islands, has jurisdiction over the Gilbert and Ellice Islands, the Solomon islands, Tonga, the new Hebrides, and Pitcairn island, famous as the home of the "Bounty" mutineers.

Last week Chamberlain said the government would study the possibility of leasing at least 10,000 square miles in British Guiana as a Jewish refuge and also immigration possibilities of Tanganyika, Kenya, and Northern Rhodesia in Africa.

ENVOYS WILL GO BACK TO POSTS IN EUROPE SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Diplomatic relations with totalitarian states, whose persecutions of minorities within their borders have aroused the concern of President Roosevelt, will not be curtailed or broken off.

This was indicated in the "Little White House" on Pine mountain here this evening at the close of two days of conferences on persecutions in Germany and Italy. The conferees were President Roosevelt, Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany, and William Phillips, ambassador to Italy.

As they left the President to return to Washington, Ambassador Phillips disclosed that he would sail to return to his post in Italy Dec. 10 or Dec. 14. At the same time Wilson revealed that his assignment as an adviser to the state department is not for an indefinite period as had been reported.

135 Vienna Nazis Reported Shot in Purge of Party

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Nov. 28.—From a trustworthy source it is learned that within the last fortnight an extensive purge has taken place in the local ranks of the Nazi party. This source said 135 party members recently were shot.

[There were widespread reports last June of a purge of Austrian Nazis because they objected to Germans being given the best posts in the annexed country. Denials were made at the time by the German propaganda agencies.]

Making 400,000

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The United States army is now manufacturing 400,000 of the new Garand semi-automatic rifles. They are being stored in the Springfield armory here and will be held for emergency use.

This new infantry gun, which shoots about three times as fast as the present Springfield rifle, is known as the finest weapon of its kind possessed by any army in the world. The semi-automatic rifle fires and reloads with each pull of the trigger until a magazine of eight shots is exhausted. With the old type rifle it is necessary for the rifleman to work the bolt with each shot.

HITLER PUTS ON GLASSES TO SAVE HYPNOTIC EYES

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—News pictures recently have acquainted the German public with the fact that Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who was almost blinded during the world war, now wears glasses on occasion.

His eyes are an important asset to Hitler and recently he has taken measures to protect them. Beginning with the pictures of the signing of the Munich accord of Sept. 29 he has been shown wearing glasses. But the Fuehrer still goes without glasses in public. His followers say that much of his influence is based on the almost hypnotic effect of his glance.

Hitler almost lost his vision during the world war when he was gassed.

BLAME ACCIDENT FOR DEATH OF TWO

Flight from the Land Into Cities Worries Nazis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GOSLAR, Germany, Nov. 28.—"The German girl whose family has long been rooted in the soil and who deserts her duty to the farming community for a more comfortable life in town is like a soldier who deserts from the front to secure a comfortable and safe position in the rear for the duration of the war."

Walther Darre, national agricultural leader, made this statement yesterday in an address to 4,000 farmers assembled at the annual farming congress in Goslar.

Darre added that the time was approaching when steps must be taken to solve the problem of flights from the land. Germany in this way lost 400,000 farm workers during the past five years, or one-fifth of the total number of farm workers, he said. When their families were added, this brought the total loss up to around 800,000, he added.

Points to Lack of Babies.

"One of the results of this," Darre declared, "was that conditions on the land deprived women of the possibility of becoming mothers of large families owing to the way they are overburdened with work."

"I must stress most seriously that this is beginning to damage our national body. What can be done to improve this situation we shall do."

Darre quoted with satisfaction the figures of Germany's record harvest this year. The wheat and rye harvests, he claimed, equaled those of 1913, although the area under grain was 13 per cent less. The potato crop exceeded by over 6,000,000 tons the previous record of 1913. The sugar beet crop was twice as high as in 1932.

Meat production far exceeded the average of the years 1928 to 1932, while, despite the hoof and mouth epidemic, butter production equalled the record of 1936, Darre asserted.

Ridicules Idea of Blockade.

He commented that "this shows that the idea of a blockade of Germany can now be buried as an entirely ineffectual weapon."

Darre estimated the value of Germany's milk production at one billion dollars.

To counteract dissatisfaction in working circles because of the great housing shortage, the high cost of poorer grade food and new restrictions, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, has been visiting Berlin's "misery quarters." He promised immediate relief and threatened to punish landlords who fail to improve living quarters.

CHAMBERLAIN TO TALK PEACE WITH DUCE IN JANUARY

Lord Halifax Also Will Go to Rome.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Britain's traveling prime minister is to talk over with Premier Mussolini in Rome the British policy of European appeasement which has been balked temporarily by Germany's drive on Jews.

The foreign office announced tonight that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, both of whom were in Paris last week on an official visit, proposed journeying to Rome in the first half of January.

The announcement said Mussolini had suggested the trip to Chamberlain when they met Sept. 29 in Munich. Authoritative sources said Jan. 10 was a likely date for the statesmen to meet.

Will Discuss Relations.

It was expected that the discussions would center on improvement of Anglo-German relations, now clouded by Germany's anti-Semitic policy; improvement of Italian-French relations, and the Spanish civil war.

The prime minister was described as confident that by personal contact with Il Duce he might set in motion negotiations which would lead to a broad accord among Britain, Italy, Germany, and France.

The prime minister's expected discussion of an Italian-French understanding probably would affect control of the Suez canal, a concession of a French company in which the British government has a large holding; the French railroad between Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, and Djibouti, French Somaliland; Italy's claims in Tunis; the Spanish island of Mallorca, and belligerent rights for Spanish insurgents.

Not Committed to France.

Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Britain had not committed herself to send an expeditionary force to France in case of war in answering a question concerning his visit to Paris, where defense problems of the two powers were considered.

Chamberlain also said that "no new decision on the question of granting belligerent rights to Generalissimo Francisco Franco [the Spanish insurgent leader] was reached" during the Paris visit.

5,000 POLISH JEWS BEGIN 2D MONTH OF LIFE AS EXILES

WARSAW, Nov. 28. — (AP) — Five thousand bewildered Polish Jews stranded at the border station of Zbazyn today started the second month of a comfortless existence at Poland's front gate and Germany's back door—unable to move in either direction.

A month ago German police rounded up 14,000 Polish Jews, herded them into prisons and barracks and then shipped them to the Polish frontier. The move was made because new Polish citizenship regulations carried the possibility many Polish Jews might be left in Germany bereft of citizenship.

Many entered Poland. But when the Polish government agreed to negotiate with Germany over the Jewish question, 5,500 deportees were still at Zbazyn and were ordered held there by Polish authorities. Most of them are still there, some living in homes, others in barns, barracks, and stables, and some in a flour mill. Some were moved into Poland after the government agreed yesterday to admit all over 65 years of age.

NAZIS THREATEN TO PUNISH POLES FOR DISOBEDIENCE

Hitler Wins King Carol to German Side.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—While Slovaks, Czechs, Poles, and Hungarians are taking pot shots at each other in former Czechoslovakia territory, Germany systematically is breaking down the last centers of passive opposition to her practical leadership on the European continent.

By opposing the ambitious plans of Hungary and Poland, Germany won over King Carol II. of Rumania. He is helping Germany buttress the Nazi position by working out a program for German-Rumanian coöperation. It will start as an economic understanding which will pave the way for political coöperation with the Nazi empire.

Polish Plot Angers Nazis.

Theoretically, Reichsfuehrer Hitler is tied to Poland by a ten year pact of friendship. However, Polish intrigues in Ruthenia [Sub-Carpathian Russia] to help Hungary take over this eastern tip of Czechoslovakia in order to attain a common frontier with the Magyar nation have loosened these ties considerably. So has Poland's extension of her nonaggression pact with soviet Russia.

Whenever Hitler sees fit it no doubt will be easy for him to proclaim that Poland failed in her anti-communistic duties and thus nullify the Polish-German agreement.

Hitler's government, which has taken upon itself to "police the restless groups on the European continent," warned Poland that if she invaded additional Czechoslovak territory the German forces would occupy the Ruthenian corridor. Similar threats were made against Hungary.

Consequently Prague and Bucharest are grateful. Czechoslovakia is accepting German leadership out of physical necessity while Rumania realizes that she will fare well if she joins forces with Germany and helps squelch her potential opponent, Hungary.

Goering to Hunt Bear.

King Carol, during his conversations with Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, invited him to hunt bears in Rumania. Goering, who is master of the German Hunt, accepted with alacrity because he has never hunted bear. His visit to Rumania is scheduled to take place in March. German circles hope that the understanding achieved with King Carol then can be formulated more concretely than it was possible on the monarch's brief visit to Germany. By going to Rumania in the spring, Goering will steal a march on King George VII. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain. They are scheduled to return Carol's state visit in June.

Lest the Poles believe that their treaty with Germany enables them to oppose Germany's wishes—as they did in the case of Ruthenia—Nazi diplomats are preparing new moves in the free city of Danzig and in the Ukraine to punish Poland for her tardiness in heeding Nazi orders. Plans are being made to restrict the last vestiges of Polish influence in Danzig.

At a conference on the foreign office today, Polish diplomats were warned they must be prepared to make final concessions in the matter. Nazi plans for exploiting part of the Ukraine are being discussed with Rumania.

ROOSEVELT O. K.'S KEEPING U. S. TIES WITH PHILIPPINES

But Approves Political Freedom in 1946.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today approved the report of a Filipino-American committee which decided after nineteen months' study that full and final independence should be granted the Philippines on July 4, 1946, as now scheduled, but that mutually beneficial economic arrangements should be continued for fifteen years thereafter.

The suggestion of President Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth that the date of independance might be advanced to 1938 or 1939 appeared abandoned inasmuch as Quezon likewise indorsed the joint report, made public here today.

President Roosevelt said in a formal statement that the report had his approval "as a basis of congressional consideration for the purpose of correcting the imperfections and inequalities of the independence act of March 24, 1934, and for the purpose of making more certain and definite the future commercial relationships between the United States and the Philippines after Philippine independence is attained."

The committee's most important recommendation was that instead of severing economic as well as political ties in 1946 the two countries grant each other tarif concessions on a scale graduated upward until Jan. 1, 1961, when all tarif preferences would be eliminated. The Filipinos contend such a step is necessary in order to prepare Philippine industry for loss of free entry into the American markets.

"Changes must be made in existing law before November, 1940, if the disruption of several Philippine industries is to be avoided," President Roosevelt's statement said.

"In addition, it is desirable that at an early date some definite indication should be given by the legislative and executive branches of the United States government as to the future commercial policy of the United States toward an independent Philippines so that the official and commercial representatives of the two countries can make such adjustments as may be required because of the relinquishment of United States sovereignty over the Philippines in 1946."

A Philippine commission headed by Vice President Sergio Osmena arrived here two weeks ago to assist in working out the necessary changes of the act.

IRWIN SENTENCED TO 139 YEARS FOR KILLING OF THREE

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Robert Irwin, triple slayer, was sentenced today to serve 139 years in prison. Two hours later the former divinity student and sculptor went through the gates of Sing Sing prison boasting that he would be out in ten years.

Robert Irwin. [A.P. Wirephoto.]

As he stood before the bar in General Sessions court, Judge James G. Wallace asked him if he had anything to say before sentence was imposed. That was Irwin's cue for one of the acts that have marked his public appearances. "You represent a rich man's justice," Irwin screamed at the judge.

Irwin pleaded guilty two weeks ago to the slaying a year ago Easter Sunday of Veronice Gedeon, a beautiful artists' model; her mother and their boarder, Frank Byrnes. Judge Wallace imposed sentence of 99 years for the murder of Byrnes and twenty years to life, to run consecutively, for each of the other two murders.

BRITISH PREMIER AND KING DISCUSS RETURN OF DUKE

LONDON, Nov. 28. — (AP) — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today went to Buckingham palace to tell King George about his meeting with the duke of Windsor in Paris Nov. 24. It was understood that the king and prime minister discussed the question of the abdicated monarch's return to England, but officials would not confirm this. King George arranged to go tonight to the royal estate at Sandringham for hunting.

YOUNG LEADERS IN G. O. P. TO VIE WITH OLD GUARD

Newcomers Face 1st Test on Committee Seating.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The youthful leadership that was brought to the front in the Republican party in the congressional and state elections this month is about to meet its first test of strength in contests with the survivors of the old guard leadership.

The rival forces will face each other tomorrow when the Republican national committee holds its annual meeting here. There is the possibility of a clash between them over the seating of Kenneth F. Simpson, dynamic, red-haired young committeeman from New York, and his immediate election to the executive committee.

House Post Also at Stake.

Then there already is in progress a spirited fight for the minority leadership of the house of representatives between Representative James W. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.], a veteran of the old guard, and Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], a younger man who holds to a middle of the road course between conservatives and liberals.

This house contest will come to a head when the 76th congress meets and organizes Jan. 3. The Republicans will elect a new leader to succeed Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, who did not stand for reëlection to the house. Martin served as assistant leader during the Snell régime and rose to prominence in the party as Massachusetts national committeeman and chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee.

Martin considered himself in line for promotion to the leadership and started his campaign to land the job several months ago. His friends say he has been pledged the votes of 125 of the 169 Republicans elected to the next house.

Wadsworth Has Support.

Wadsworth announced his candidacy for the job a few days ago with the support of a majority of the New York Republicans and the prospect of getting a good many votes in Pennsylvania. He is an exceedingly able legislator, reflecting the ultraconservative attitude of antagonism to the New Deal. He was one of the organizers of the Liberty league. He formerly was a senator from New York, being defeated for reëlection in 1926.

Simpson was elected by the Republican state committee of New York to succeed Charles D. Hilles, who resigned several months ago as New York national committeeman.

Hilles was a veteran of the old guards, the ranks of which are fast thinning as a younger and less conservative generation of leaders comes to the fore. Simpson, who is in his forties and of the liberal persuasion, had much to do with engineering the candidacy of Thomas E. Dewey for governor of New York.

Young Republicans

(Story in adjoining column.)

Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R., Mass.), left, represents Young Republicans in contest over minority leadership in the house against old guard of party. Kenneth F. Simpson (right) may be the cause of a clash between the youthful Republicans and the old guard at a meeting of the Republican national committee today. He is a young committeeman from New York.

sometimes lost up to $1,000 a day. At the same time, according to the report made to the court by Irving W. Halpern, chief of the General Sessions probation department, Connor maintained Mrs. Betty Dorfman and her 10 year old son in a Brooklyn apartment, meanwhile neglecting his own wife.

When Berle was informed that he was financially responsible for his appointee's thefts, he paid back $18,000 of the money. But Halpern's report states that the assistant secretary of state must pay out of his pockets about $52,000 more.

The office of chamberlain being a sinecure, the holder was not required to put up a bond. Therefore, it was pointed out, when Berle accepted the responsibility for the city funds he became personally liable for them.

Some of Berle's friends contended that the bond of $30,000 which Connor was required to post as a general city employé might compel the bonding company to repay that amount of the thefts. But Halpern said today the bonding company's liability did not cover losses in the city chamberlain's office.

POPE ATTENDS TWO SERVICES IN VATICAN CHAPEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 28.—Pope Pius XI. attended two spiritual services in the chapel of his apartment today, giving further evidence of recuperation from his collapse after a heart attack on Friday.

Moreover, the pontiff decided to receive in audience a large party of newlyweds on Wednesday. This was a departure from his custom of suspending audiences during the week of spiritual exercises.

The pope had a fairly quiet night and for this morning's period of meditation and instruction he sat in the small sacristy beside the altar in the chapel. He was screened from the prelates who attended.

The service lasted an hour, divided by a half hour rest period, and the second service in the afternoon was similarly divided.

In fact, no Packard owner has ever awakened one morning, full of pride in his still-new car, only to find that radical style changes have branded it an "out-of-date model."

Does this mean that Packard opposes style changes? Of course not—for change is the essence of progress. But Packard believes that style can, and should be, used in the best interests of the car owner, rather than against them.

This is why Packard makes its style changes with common sense and restraint, rather than with sensationalism.

So, again for 1939, you will find Packards re-styled, more beautiful than ever. But you will also find them unmistakably Packards—no one has to guess what they are.

And, again, you will find new advances in Packard design and construction—new evidences of the quality that contributes a long mechanical life to match Packard enduring identity.

See your Packard dealer today. Discover that a Packard—the car that is built to last longer and look well longer—is surprisingly easy to buy, own and run. It costs nothing to get the facts.

We'll deliver a new 1939 Packard Six 5-Passenger Sedan to your door, with standard equipment for . . . $ 1145

Your present car, if of average value, will probably cover the small down-payment of only . . . . . $ 403

HUNT WOUNDED KIDNAP COUPLE IN CHICAGO AREA

Elude Police in Flight Through 3 States.

Police believed last night that hiding somewhere in Chicago was a desperate young man with a blood stained bandage around his head. With him was a young woman who carries a heavy revolver and has a bullet nick in her left ear.

Federal agents from Chicago, Kansas City, and Detroit, and police of three states have been hunting the pair for twenty-four hours. For half this period—from 12:30 a. m. Monday until 11:30 yesterday morning—they outwitted police in a chase that led across Michigan, Indiana, and toward Chicago.

Gun Fight in Michigan.

During the flight the couple fought a running gun battle with a Michigan state highway patrol near Mottville, Mich. It was in this fight that they were wounded. Then they took to the side roads, kidnaped three persons, and changed twice to stolen automobiles as they doubled back to the south.

They released their kidnap victims near Griffith, Ind. Then they headed north toward U. S. highway No. 6 and Chicago. The kidnaped men reported that the gunman had indicated he was heading for East Chicago, Ind.

Suspects in Bank Robbery.

Federal bureau of investigation agents in Detroit said they believed the two were Benny Dickson, Topeka, Kas., desparado, and his wife, Esther. They are wanted for questioning in connection with a $17,000 bank robbery at Brookings, S. D.

Last Thursday a police squad surrounded a trailer camp at Topeka in an attempt to seize the couple. They escaped, although fifty shots were fired at them as they drove their car through the police lines. It was the warning of the Kansas authorities that put Michigan police on the alert.

A cruising police car challenged the couple near Mottville at 12:15 a. m. yesterday. The pair replied with rifle fire, disabling the motor of the police car. Three hours later the couple, both bleeding from head wounds, appeared at Vicksburg, Mich., almost due north of Mottville.

Here they kidnaped Claude Mennis, a filling station attendant, and Henry Matty, a farmer. They abandoned their own car and stole Matty's machine. They were sighted a short time later at Leonidas, Mich., where they turned south.

Seize South Bend Salesman.

They next appeared on U. S. highway 31, five miles south of South Bend. Louis H. Karr, a salesman of South Bend, was flagged to a stop. The gunman held him up and, turning into a side road, switched from Matty's car to Karr's automobile. All three prisoners were kept in the machine, menaced by a revolver held by the young woman, who was addressed by her companion as "Sally."

Driving north of La Porte and heading south of Chesterton, Ind., they drove toward Griffith, Ind., where they were stopped by a freight train that blocked the highway.

Matty, who had been forced into the trunk on the rear of the car, jumped out and fled. Immediately afterward the gun pair released Mennis and Karr.

Three Abducted in Outlaw Chase

1—Mottville, Mich., where at 12:15 a. m. a gunman believed to be Benny Dickson and a woman exchanged shots with state police and escaped, both wounded. 2—At Vicksburg, near Kalamazoo, at 3 a. m. the couple stopped at gas station, kidnaped Claude Mennis, drove to Henry Metty's home, kidnaped Metty and took his auto. 3—The four sighted at Leonidas, Mich. 4—Traveling by side roads to a point near South Bend, Ind., the couple at about 7 a. m. flagged down Louis Karr. Metty, forced to drive his car, and the couple in Karr's auto drove a mile west where all transferred to Karr's auto. 5—Metty put out. 6—Other two put out at about 11 a. m. 7—Mennis and Karr hitchhiked to Crown Point to give alarm.

Claude Mennis (left), filling station attendant, and Louis H. Karr, salesman, who were kidnaped and held prisoner by fleeing bandit and woman companion. They were released on U. S. highway No. 6, a few miles from the Illinois border.

should be of no concern to the general accounting office. Similar replies were received when inquiry was made concerning free rentals granted to occupants of repaired and reconstructed farm houses acquired with land purchases.

Printing Bill Is Cited.

"A field party was engaged in the verification of expenses, amounting to approximately $60,000 per annum, of the reproduction unit [printing plant] at Chattanooga, Tenn., for printing folders, pamphlets, speeches, athletic and social circulars, which cost later increased to about $80,000 per annum.

"Because of the provision of the law requiring all printing to be done at the government printing office and in view of other expenses incurred by the information division for newspapers, periodicals, books, pamphlets, and other printing matter, extending into vast sums per annum, an effort was made to ascertain the propriety of paying from public funds for work of that nature performed at the reproduction unit plant.

Charges Law Violation.

"A list of the materials and samples thereof was requested. The auditors were referred from one person to another for several days and finally the information was refused by the local officers, after conferring with superiors at Knoxville, as being too confidential. Although a list was later furnished, no means of verification were made available, thereby causing much embarrassment and considerable delay in the audit."

The TVA has assumed the position, Elliott noted, of not being amenable to the provisions of the law governing the audit and settlement of TVA accounts by the general accounting office, "despite the specific provisions of the act." To sustain such a contention, he told the committee, "would in effect nullify the plain provisions of the law."

JUDGE SUGGESTS IMPEACHMENT OF S. DAVIS WILSON

Cites Grand Jury Blast at Mayor's 'Borrowings.'

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The impeachment of Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia virtually was requested today by Judge Curtis Bok in formal communications to Gov. George H. Earle and the presiding officers of the legislature.

The judge accused Wilson of having personally borrowed $53,750 from various business leaders of the city who were in positions to have been granted favors by the municipal government.

Judge Bok is in charge of a special grand jury which for more than a year has been investigating vice and political corruption here. The jury returned twenty-one indictments against the mayor in September, but they were quashed two months later.

Judge Cites Vested Powers.

In his letters the judge called attention to the grand jury's findings and asked "such action as may be proper" against the mayor, pointing out that "house, senate, and the governor are the removing and impeaching agencies provided by law."

The grand jury stated in its report that the mayor's borrowings were "incompatible with the integrity and morality" of his office. It asserted that "whether gifts or loans, such transactions must be condemned both as to makers and recipients."

Listed as the lenders were Dr. Arthur A. Mitten, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company; Sayre M. Ramsdell, vice president of Philco Radio and Television corporation; the Real Estate Trust company of Philadelphia, through John A. McCarthy, vice president, and Samuel F. Houston, president; the Continental Distilling corporation, through its president, Dr. Louis Marks; John P. Connelly, former city solicitor, and Morris Wolf, an attorney.

Varied Political Career.

Wilson gained the name of political chameleon by the rapidity with which he switched from the Democratic to the Republican party and then back again to further his fortunes. He originally was a Democrat, then in turn a Republican city employé, a successful Democratic candidate for city controler in 1933, and Republican victor in the 1935 mayoralty race.

His final party switch in the primary last May landed him in the company of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. boss, and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who backed him in an unsuccessful race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Wilson was defeated in the primary by Gov. Earle, who lost to a Republican, James J. Davis, in the recent election.

WILMETTE DAIRY DAMAGED BY FIRE AFTER VANDALISM

Fire, possibly of incendiary origin, damaged the loading platform at the rear of the Shorewood Farms dairy, 745 Green Bay road, Wilmette, last evening. The flames burned through the platform roof and damaged supporting pillars before firemen under Capt. James J. Brady extinguished the blaze.

One week ago several men broke into the dairy, smashed bottles of milk, and damaged milk containers. They were frightened away when a dairy employé heard sounds of the destruction and summoned police.

William Bartlett, 2352 Ashland avenue, Evanston, manager and part owner of the dairy, denied last evening that union difficulties could be behind the incidents. He said his employés were not union members, but declared that they have not been asked to join a union. He stated that he has had no difficulties with any of his employés.

SAMPLING THE SPICE OF LIFE

By CALEB

VOCATIONAL ADVISERS who are candid in their commitments wisely tell youth-in-search-of-a-career to sample.

Wisely—for the reason that, with rare exceptions, careers are not found until the seekers of careers have first found themselves. And self-finding is ofttimes a process of prolonged sifting. The perpetrator of these lines wanted first to be a locomotive fireman on a railroad; later, professor of Spanish in a university . . . unaware that despite his experimental seekings, his pattern would stay with him and bring him out in the end a commercial writer.

Galli-Curci's heart was set on becoming a concert pianist. Edgar Bergen yearned to be an M. D. Professor Pitkin toyed with five different vocations ahead of his final choice. Roger Babson intended being a preacher; H. L. Mencken's ideal lay in chemistry; Edna Millay tried first to be a pianist, then an actress; Major Bowes, en route to radio, had already succeeded in real estate; Sherwood Anderson in the beginning expected to be a baker. . . .

So, to the young man or woman demanding career-counsel, a considered suggestion would be to do what hand and mind find to do nearest-by; then sample the spice of life for fresh attemptings . . . Not indiscriminately, but watchful for the signal that will one day suddenly say to him, or to her, "Wait!—this is it! This is the one thing you have been tending to."

The process itself has no rules save discretion. It is possible to mistake, as a minister uncle of mine once said, "The lowing of a cow for the voice of God." But it is also possible, as the thirties bring broader judgment and a surer sense of values, to single out, and hold to, the vocation which—for you—offers the unfoldment of all your powers both to serve and proportionately to earn.

The finding of one's self is invariably accompanied and compensated by the finding of one's right work to do in the world, and an acquaintance with life's variety that is certain to add much to one's versatility in that chosen vocation.

INDIANA'S CORN KING GETS CROWN FOR THIRD YEAR

Sets Record in Grain Show at International.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

For the third successive year William H. Curry, Tipton, Ind., yesterday was crowned corn king of North America at the hay and grain show. This is being held in connection with the International Live Stock exposition. He was awarded the 1938 title of grand champion on his ten ear sample of Curry's improved yellow dent, an open pollinated variety, yesterday.

Curry's corn was selected from a thirty-two acre field that averaged eighty-four bushels an acre. He has won five medals in the Indiana corn growers' five year contest, competing with corn gathered from fields that produce an average of ninety-seven bushels per acre. In 1929, 1935, and 1937 he won the medal with corn that averaged 100 bushels or more an acre.

Another Hoosier Is Second.

Peter Lux of Shelbyville, Ind., took the reserve champion title in corn. He won with a sample of Johnson's white.

Corn King Curry, 48 years old, has been an annual exhibitor at the hay and grain show for fifteen years. He is proud of his champion variety of corn because it will produce prize winning samples in other states as well as in Indiana.

"I sold a bushel of my corn last spring to Ray Bolomey of Frankfort, Mo., and Bolomey won first prize with ten ears grown from this seed here today in yellow corn competition from region No. 5," said Curry.

It was the first time in the history of the show that an individual exhibitor has won the grand champion corn title three consecutive years.

Corn Prince Named.

After Curry and Lux received their titles, Richard B. Blackwell of Franklin, Ind., a DePauw university student, was declared crown prince of the show. Then Bobby Riggins of Crawfordsville, Ind., won the reserve championship for Juniors.

Curry says that he avoids hauling off the fertility of his 145 acre farm in ears of corn by feeding his entire crops to his hogs and five Belgian mares. He added that good corn and good hogs go together. His 13 sows have averaged 8 pigs per litter for the last two years.

Champion corn is grown on the Curry farm through the use of good seed and by following a three year rotation of corn, small grains, and clover with an annual application of 125 pounds of commercial fertilizer per acre.

Pennsylvania Wether Wins.

The champion pen of three wethers was exhibited by Pennsylvania State college. They were Southdown wether lambs. North Dakota College of Agriculture, Fargo, won the reserve title with a pen of Shropshire lambs.

Following are the outstanding winners in the fat steer competitions that are eligible to compete for the grand champion beef animal award, the premier premium of the International:

Fat Hereford.

Class: 750 to 875 pounds, Percy Meredith, Maple Park, Ill.; 875 pounds and under 1,000, Clicord Jordon, Art, Tex.; 1,000 pounds and under 1,150, Wyoming Hereford ranch, Cheyenne, Wyo.; 1,150 pounds and under 1,400, Ralph Hess Jr., Verden, Okla.

Fat Aberdeen-Angus.

Class: 750 to 875 pounds, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college; 875 pounds and under 1,000, University of Minnesota, St. Paul; 1,000 pounds and under 1,150, Irene Brown, Aledo, Ill.; 1,150 pounds and under 1,400, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college.

Individual breed champions will be selected from these winners today. The outstanding fat shorthorns also will be selected today.

Hay and Grain Awards.

Hybrid shelled corn—A. C. Stewart of Greensburg, Ind. Reserve was won by Gerald Bayless of Bluffton, Ind.

Threshed grain sorghum—Mrs. Annie West of Edmond, Okola. She also won the reserve award.

H. C. Horneman of Danville, Ill., won the grand champion Belgian stallion award on Jay Farceur 17627. This horse, an aged stallion, was junior champion in 1933.

U. S. BEEF CATTLE ARE DIVIDED INTO 5 CHIEF BREEDS

Five breeds of cattle furnish the United States with most of its beef. These animals, of which splendid specimens are on display at the International Live Stock exposition, have been developed over a long period. They are broader, deeper of body, heavier, and have shorter legs, in general, than cattle used primarily for dairy production. The beef breeds:

Shorthorn—Originated in England, and brought to a high stage of perfection in the county of Durham. It is the largest of the beef breeds, mature bulls sometimes reaching 2,400 pounds. Shorthorns grow fast and are adaptable to American climatic conditions.

Polled Shorthorn—Similar to the Shorthorn in all respects accept lack of horns. Like its cousin Shorthorn, it is red, or red and white in color.

Milking Shorthorn—A strain developed for increased milk production, and favored by farmers who have need of animals to furnish both beef and milk.

Hereford—Developed in Herefordshire, England. Usually deep red with extensive white markings. This breed is hardy and usually does well in the western areas, even where grass is sparse.

Aberdeen Angus—A late comer, first introduced in the United States from Scotland. The typical Angus is hornless and pure black, although many calves are born red and horned. The breed is popular in middle western feeding lots. It is not as hardy as the Hereford.

Dressing Within Budgets.

Still another sign—"4-H club members learn to dress better within the family budget."

Item in general—The girls showed it. And in particular, there was Enid Porter, style revue winner down among the New Mexico delegation. She's also one of the best girl softball pitchers in the southwest.

Not all the stars were up on the wagon behind the eight horse team. As the youngsters massed in the arena, the loud speaker system called attention to some of the rank and filers.

There was Sylvia Hunter, who found enough customers for her homemade bread in William Allen White's town, Emporia, Kas., to support herself through high school and pay for music lessons on the side. And her fellow Kansan, Jack Cornwell, from Stafford county, as a result of his 4-H work, owns a half interest in a herd of 55 purebred Herefords.

2 Youngsters from Arkansas.

Then there were the two youngsters from Arkansas, unfortunately nameless by reason of loud speaker static. The first produced three bales of cotton on an acre. The national average is a half bale. The second raised 118.2 bushels of corn on an acre.

And there was the Michigan delegation, from 27 of the state's 83 counties, that boasts eleven nationalities—Norwegian, Polish, Swedish, English, Irish, German, Dutch, French, Finnish, Danish, and Austrian—all American farm kids.

Michigan was not alone in melting pot exhibits. One of the most astonishing characteristics of the group as a whole was its uniform appearance.

The club members came to the arena from the annual banquet, this year at the Medinah temple, given by Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago packer and chairman of the national committee for boys and girls' club work.

BEST 4-H COOK IN U. S. COMES FROM INDIAN COUNTRY

Mission Preacher's Daughter Wins.

A mission preacher among the Apache and Comanche Indians isn't a man of wealth. In the family of Preacher Adams of the little mission church five miles from Apache, Okla., there are seven mouths to feed, and the preaching must be combined with a substantial amount of gardening and farming.

Apache, Okla., Home of Champion 4-H Cook.

Preacher Adams daily sets himself down to fare which many a man might envy, nevertheless. The reason for this was disclosed yesterday among all the elegance of the Gold Coast room in the Drake hotel.

There the preacher's daughter, and then his wife, got up and took a bow and sat down abruptly to continue eating with shaking fingers the fruit supreme, the double lamb chops, the ices, meringues, and little cakes topped with four leaf clovers, which the Drake's chef offered the cooking queen.

The daughter, Lois Adams, 17 years old, an ash blonde with naturally curly hair and a mouth which naturally curves into smiles, is the 1938 winner of the fourth annual food preparation contest at the 17th annual national 4-H club congress. Her mother, Mrs. Belle Adams, is the 4-H club coach or leader at Apache.

Among all the state and section winners in their green 4-H club hats in the large room overlooking Lake Michigan, Lois was the winner of a $400 scholarship.

Three girls won $300, $200, and $100 scholarships, in this order: Vergie Trent, 18, of Delhi, Minn.; Lavell Christensen, 16, of Bear River City, Utah, and Dorothy Stone, 18, of Windsor, Vt.

In seven years of 4-H club work Lois prepared 4,371 recipes, meals, and luncheons. She completed forty-two projects valued at $1,195.

There are only five families in the parish who are not Indians, but the Indian mothers as well as daughters are extremely interested in 4-H club work, according to Lois.

One of her favorite recipes is that for muffins in which she uses part of their home grown wheat, said Lois. The wheat is ground by the family, the coarse part being used for cereal, the fine for flour. It makes whole wheat muffins that are nutty in flavor.

Pedigreed Hefer and Bull to Be Displayed at Zoo

A delegation of Wisconsin farmers yesterday presented a pedigreed hefer to Chicago school children. A similar delegation from Illinois presented a bull calf. Mayor Kelly accepted both animals and announced that they will be placed on exhibition at the Lincoln park zoo. The presentation was made in front of the city hall.

NEW LABOR LAW TO FORBID UNION CHECKOFF URGED

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Predicting substantial modification of the national labor relations act at the next session of of congress, Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] today proposed that the so-called checkoff be outlawed.

Under the checkoff system which Senator Burke called "pernicious," employers deduct union dues and special union assessments from the pay checks of their employés and pay the funds directly into the union treasuries.

An amendment to the Wagner labor relations act outlawing the checkoff would wreck the C. I. O., since John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. dictator, would probably find little in the treasury of his United Mine Workers' union to finance organization drives in other industries. The mine workers have used the checkoff system of collecting dues as a fundamental of their organization almost since the formation of the union. It is the only way in which mine unions have succeeded in collecting dues sufficient for survival.

Gets 2 Millions from Miners.

Official reports by Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, show that Lewis has taken more than 2 million dollars from the miners to finance C. I. O. organization drives in other industries. The mine union has been Lewis' financial angel as a result of the checkoff system.

Whenever Lewis needs half a million dollars all he has to do is to levy a special assessment of $1 per man on the 500,000 members of the mine workers union and the coal operators withhold the money from the pay checks of the miners. In this way Lewis raised $500,000 for President Roosevelt's reëlection campaign in 1936.

Without the checkoff the mine workers could refuse to pay Lewis' special assessments. Opposition to the checkoff among the miners themselves was an important factor in the defeat of the C. I. O. ticket in Pennsylvania's Democratic primary.

Voted Down in Primary.

Lewis and Senator Joseph P. Guffey [D., Pa.] supported Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the mine workers' union and lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, for governor, and Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia for senator. Both were defeated in the primary election. They failed to carry any of the four important hard coal mining counties of the state.

The American Federation of Labor has the checkoff in only one union, the Progressive Miners of America. Since an amendment to the Wagner act outlawing the checkoff would constitute a vital blow to Lewis' dictatorship, proponents of such legislation are counting upon the acquiescence of the A. F. of L.

Proponents of such legislation also are relying upon a notable precedent established by the railway labor act. This act, which created the national mediation board and which has been remarkably successful in the prevention of railway strikes, makes it unlawful for any railroad employer "to deduct from the wages of employés any dues, fees, assessments, or other contributions payable to labor organizations, or to collect or to assist in the collection of any such dues, fees, assessments, or other contributions."

Senator Burke, who recently returned from Europe where he made an extensive study of labor relations, said that unions in Great Britain, as a result of experience, were strongly opposed to the checkoff. The system, he explained, gives the worker no voice in the levying of assessments and puts him in economic bondage to a labor dictator.

Insists on Amendments.

Senator Burke vehemently denied propaganda apparently inspired by administration quarters that his study of collective bargaining conditions in Europe had led him to change his mind about the necessity of amending the Wagner act. He said he was more convinced than ever that the act should be amended to establish some degree of mutuality between employers and employés.

The senator said he would urge amendments to prevent coercion or intimidation of employés from any source, whether by employers or by outside agitators; to give employers as well as employés the right to appeal to the labor board for redress of grievances and for special elections to determine the proper agency for collective bargaining, and to require contractual responsibility on the part of employés as well as employers.

A. F. OF L. DEFERS RETURN TO WORK AT STOCKYARDS

C. I. O. Strike Continues; Violence Averted.

Chicago's stockyards were still tied up yesterday by a strike called Nov. 21 by a C. I. O. union. Members of an American Federation of Labor union, who had announced they would report for work, postponed their program. They said no live stock was available for handling and that they would be ready later.

Representatives of the Union Stock Yard and Transit company and the C. I. O. group, local 567 of the Stock Handlers' union, conferred in the afternoon. Robert Mythen, a federal conciliator, said "progress had been made" and that the conversations would be resumed this morning. There were reports, however, that the conferees were still far from a settlement.

Refuse Three Demands.

The union has demanded a closed shop, written contract, and a checkoff [collection of union dues by the employers]. On these points the company is firm in refusal. Its officers have maintained that questions of wages, hours, and working conditions can be quickly settled.

There was no violence around the yards yesterday. The C. I. O. union augmented its picket lines only slightly and made no active resistance when a delegation of thirty to forty A. F. of L. men went in to report themselves ready for work.

This delegation was insufficient even for single shift operation of the yards which normally employ 600 handlers. All the men left the yard offices. Officials of their union said that many others were ready to work, but were persuaded by false telephone calls, ostensibly emanating from union headquarters, to stay home.

C. I. O. Scoff at Charges.

The C. I. O. group scoffed at this. They declared the A. F. of L. had only a handful of members and would never be able to furnish an adequate working force. They maintained that they had proved the C. I. O. forces were completely in control and could halt sales in the yards indefinitly.

A. F. of L. leaders said they were rapidly signing up members in the packing houses, and that they would have 2,500 in the Armour plant alone by today. This is comparable to the strength of the C. I. O. there. The C. I. O. men, who declared a "work holiday" at Armour's on Saturday, were at work yesterday, and the firm's hog killing department was working at capacity.

TELLS DIES INQUIRY NEW CONGRESSMAN HEADS RED SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Members of a house committee heard testimony today that one of their colleagues-to-be in the new congress was the head of a communist organization.

Sam Baron of New York told the Dies committee on un-American activities that Vito Marcantonio, elected from New York's 20th congressional district, headed the international labor defense. He said there was not the slightest doubt that the ILD was a "communist front organization."

Baron said he resigned from the Socialist party so he might appear before the committee as an individual only.

Marcantonio is a former representative. Running on the Republican and American Labor party tickets, he defeated Representative Lanzetta [D., N. Y.] in the November election.

DEMOCRATS TAP JOBHOLDERS FOR INDIANA FUNDS

Election Reports Recall 2 Pct. Club Charges.

Crown Point, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Slush fund collections of Indiana's Democratic Two Per Cent club were recalled today by the filing of campaign finance statements in the Lake county court.

One showed that the Lake county Democratic committee took contributions aggregating $18,533 from officeholders and employés and candidates at the last election. The other shows that employés of the various departments of the Hammond city government contributed $1,395 to the campaign chest that reëlected the Democratic mayor, Frank J. Martin.

All Candidates Contribute.

The Democratic committee's report was filed by Treasurer Frank J. O'Rourke. The contributins included:

Judge T. Joseph Sullivan of the Circuit court and court employés, $1,050. Judge Sullivan was reëlected.

Judge John F. Cody and employés, Superior court No. 1, Hammond, $550. Judge Lawrence Becker and employés, court No. 2, East Chicago, $500. Judge Bertram Jenkins and employés, court No. 3, Gary, $500. Judge Homer Sackett and employés, court No. 4, Gary, $500. Judge Harold Strickland and employés, court No. 5, Hammond, $578. All were reëlected.

Clerk of the Superior court and employés, $1,500. George M. Sweigart was then clerk and his chief deputy, Walter L. Mybeck, was elected to succeed him.

Treasurer Raymond Madden and employés, $1,200.

Sherif John Knotts, $1,000. [Although he was not then the incumbent, employés of the sheriff's office were listed as contributing with him.]

Judge William J. Murray of the Criminal court and employés, $300.

Democratic state employés living in Lake county, $1,037.50.

The Hammond mayor's report showed these contributions: sewer department, $301; street department, $457; parks, $150; city hall, $312; water department, $175.

Federal investigation of the Democratic Two Per Cent club was demanded six weeks ago by George R. Jeffrey, former United States attorney. This organization has for years compelled Democratic state pay rollers to contribute 2 per cent of their pay to the Democratic machine.

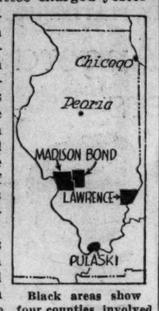
CHARGES NEW PLOT TO STEAL SPEAKER'S JOB

G. O. P. Chairman Replies to Fraud Attack.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chairman A. K. Stiles of the Republican state committee charged yesterday that a Democratic attack on the Nov. 8 election results in four southern Illinois counties has been made as the initial step in a new plot to steal control of the state house of representatives from the Republican majority.



Black areas show four counties involved in vote fraud charges.

The attack was launched in a statement issued at Springfield in the name of the Democratic state chairman, Harry B. Hershey, Mimeographed copies were mailed throughout the state on Saturday for release in yesterday's afternoon newspapers. It alleged that federal agents and state prosecutors had uncovered evidence of wholesale frauds in the four counties named.

Blocked in Earlier Scheme.

Stiles immediately replied that, having been blocked in an earlier scheme to seduce Cook county Republicans into voting for a Democratic speaker, the Democrats had changed their tactics. He declared they had convicted themselves of plotting to misuse the state canvassing board, a body exclusively Democratic, which still must make the final state proclamation of the results of the election three weeks ago today.

Inquiries by THE TRIBUNE in the four counties mentioned by Hershey brought replies from three that there hadn't even been any rumors of fraud there until Hershey spoke. In the fourth, Pulaski county, an unarmed watch—instead of the armed watch Hershey mentioned—is being kept on the ballots because a recount may be asked after the legislature is organized.

Similarly, it was learned that the department of justice is making no investigation of the Illinois election and that none of the state's attorneys in the four counties is even considering a grand jury inquiry.

"Considered by itself," said Republican Chairman Stiles, "this move is ridiculous. Criminal proceedings have not even been threatened. But the move is of tremendous importance because of what it forebodes.

G. O. P. Wins 79 Seats.

"In the election on Nov. 8, the Republicans elected 79 members of the house, two more than a majority, which unless foul play comes into the picture will mean the election of a Republican speaker and the appointment of Republican majorities on all committees. Further, it will mean that the Republican program will go ahead, that state New Deal schemes will be stopped.

"Facing that outlook, the Democratic machine is desperate. It is my conscientious belief that there is no means to which some of its leaders would not stoop if they could possibly steal three seats from Republican winners and give them to Democrats who were defeated.

"Such a theft would give the Democrats a majority. But they know now it is too late to change the proclamations issued by the 102 county clerks in the state. They know, too, that there is no hope for them in filing contests before the legislature itself because the new house will be organized before the contests can be heard.

Four Counties Involved.

"Therefore, and this has been undreamed of until this time, the only hope that the will of the voters can be upset rests in the possibility that there is something the state canvassing board can do to block the seating of enough Republicans on Jan. 4 to enable them to control the election of the speaker.

"The moment you see the list of counties in which the Democrats now charge frauds you recognize the ultimate purpose. Each of those four counties—Bond and Madison in the 47th district, Lawrence in the 48th and Pulaski in the 50th—are in a district in which the Republicans won two of the three seats in the house of representatives. In each of those districts the Republicans captured an additional seat from the Democrats.

"If the certificates of election for those districts were not issued promptly, it would mean that six Republicans and three Democrats would be refused their seats. That would throw the house into a tie—71 to 71 on the day it convenes to elect its officers.

Could Refuse to Obey Law.

"It seems impossible that the canvassing board, which is empowered merely to tabulate the figures sent in by the 102 county clerks and announce the totals, could refuse to obey the law and certify the results of the elections in those three districts. But what other conclusion can we reach as to the purpose of this attack."

Divorce Denied

MRS. GERTRUDE LYONS.

Because Mrs. Gertrude Lyons left him and returned to New York, Dr. Robert E. Lyons of 2807 Diversey avenue asked a divorce yesterday on grounds of desertion. But Mrs. Lyons protested.

She went back to New York at her husband's suggestion, she said, to live with his parents. And the reason was that he was establishing himself in medical practice here and could live more economically alone. Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski denied Dr. Lyons a divorce. Dr. Lyons is 26 years old. Mrs. Lyons is 32.

LEGISLATORS ACT TO CONSOLIDATE 1 ROOM SCHOOLS

Order Bills Drafted to End Rural Waste.

Illinois has 9,925 one room schools—more than any other state. But under bills ordered drawn yesterday by the legislative council, many of these tiny rural institutions with from one to fifteen pupils would be consolidated.

The legislative council directed a committee to have the bills ready when the general assembly convenes Jan. 3. In its final meeting in the Palmer House the council concluded its attempt to pave the way for action by the assembly.

Most of the educators who appeared at the hearing were in favor of consolidation. They agreed with members of the bipartisan council, chosen from both houses of the assembly, that merging of schools should be sought through inducement rather than compulsion.

Would Help Pay Transportation.

One bill would offer state funds in payment of 75 per cent of the cost of transporting children from an abandoned one room school to the consolidated school. Maximum annual payment for one pupil would be $15. This would cost $400,000 the first year, it was estimated.

Another bill would revise the method of distributing state aid to one room schools. Schools would receive the present $11 per pupil annually only for the actual number of pupils. Now the smaller schools are paid for 18 pupils—$198—whether they have one or eighteen.

Half of the 11,980 local school districts have fifteen pupils or less. And 504 downstate schools have from one to five pupils each. This situation is becoming more acute because of a lower birth rate and a shift of population to urban centers, it was stated.

The system of giving eighteen-pupil allowances to smaller schools makes local school boards reluctant to consolidate, according to Benjamin F. Shafer of Freeport, chairman of the legislative committee of the Illinois Education association.

61,000 Pupils "Imaginary."

"Actually, the state is paying for 61,000 imaginary pupils," Shafer said.

It costs about as much to operate a school with one pupil as it does to run one with twenty or more pupils. Following is a tabulation prepared by Dr. Charles M. Kneier, director of the council's research staf:

School attendance.	Cost per pupil.
1	$747
2	374
3	249
5	149
10	75
21-25	35

The extravagance of maintaining schools with few pupils is partly to blame for poor teaching standards, it was said.

Nearly half of the teachers in one-room schools have had no education beyond one year of college or normal school. A fifth of this group have had only high school training. Although educators have fixed $800 as the lowest salary that should be paid, 91 per cent of the teachers receive less, Dr. Kneier's report showed.

Need More Classmates.

Other benefits of larger schools were cited. Mrs. H. M. Mulberry, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, said pupils should have more than a couple of classmates.

John A. Wieland, state superintendent of instruction, said that he believed in consolidation.

"The so-called pressure groups have spoken considerately," said State Senator T. V. Smith (D., Chicago), congressman elect. "We must work through them. But let's think more about the 4,000,000 children who don't send lobbies to Springfield."

7 REPUBLICANS PROPOSED FOR MAYORAL RACE

Committee Begins Search for Best Man.

Chicago Republicans yesterday began an official search for the best mayoralty candidate available for the primary on Feb. 20. The city central committee created a committee of twelve of its members to conduct the search.

Before this step was taken the names of seven possible candidates were presented for consideration. They now are in the hands of the special committee which, it was announced, will hold its first meeting and prepare plans for interviewing each of the seven and possibly several others and otherwise determining their fitness.

Will Report to Committee.

The committee on candidates, it was emphasized repeatedly, will not choose among the several entrants. It will report its findings to the city committee as a whole and then it is possible that one or more possible candidates will be given a hearing and an examination before the entire city organization.

Another point stressed was that the committee is opposed to a repetition of the 1935 city campaign in which Emil C. Wetten, the nominee, tailed to make an active campaign. One speaker after another demanded that a real fight be put up in 1939.

Names Presented to Meeting.

The mayoralty possibilities proposed, in the order in which their names were presented at the meeting in the La Salle hotel, were the following:

F. P. Garbark, treasurer of the Miehle Printing Press company and president of the Pulaski league. Proposed by James C. Moreland, 41st ward.

P. H. Moynihan, former congressman. Proposed by Henry Samuels, 10th ward.

There was almost no oratory in connection with the presentation of the names.

Want Committee Elected.

When the question of appointing a committee on candidates was taken up on the motion of Robert W. Dunn [44th], Chairman Edward F. Moore several times opposed the proposal that he name the "screen test" committee. He insisted that it should be elected—two members from each of the five groups of ten wards. The committee voted him down.

The ten he named, with whom he and Secretary Rohn will sit as ex-officio members, were the following:

North—James B. Waller [43d] and Max Landesman [46th].

Chairman Moore opened the meeting with an appeal to the city organization for an aggressive, united campaign until the election April 4. He said the outcome not only will determine the Chicago mayoralty, but will have a decided effect on the 1940 national election.

An open door meeting in the Capitol building in the evening, called by Committeeman Waller, contributed little toward the selection of a mayoralty candidate. Much of the time was consumed by criticism of the county central committee, which was defended by one of the members in the audience, Patrick Sheridan Smith.

YOU CAN BE GOOD FELLOWS, TOO, SO LISTEN, KIDS!

Junior Organization Will Spread Cheer.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

With due apologies to Ed Sullivan, THE TRIBUNE'S "Looking at Hollywood" columnist, we would like to entitle this story "Listen, Kids," because you are just the folks we want to read this article.

We are going to take for granted that you live in a nice home, your daddy has a good job and you only hear him grumble about twelve times a year, then always around the first of the month. Maybe you are the only child. Or perhaps you have several brothers and sisters. Your mother already is busily engaged making out the Christmas list and you'd bet your last metal soldier that your name is written there. You're a lucky little fellow. Thank goodness there are thousands like you throughout this great city of ours.

Thousands Will Get Nothing.

But listen, kids. Did you ever think about the thousands of boys and girls who won't get a single Christmas present or candy or nothin' for Christmas? It doesn't seem possible, does it? But Honest Injun, it's the truth.

Your Good Fellow editor has great faith in you. You see, he's got a little boy and girl himself and they are putting their pennies away toward a Good Fellow basket for a little boy and girl who'll be passed up by Santa Claus if they don't help out. We wonder if there aren't hundreds of boys and girls in Chicago who would like to help out in the same way. So we are going to organize Junior Good Fellows.

You'll Get a Letter.

You just write to the Good Fellow editor and tell him you wish to enlist and we'll send you a letter telling how to organize your neighborhood gang. Since a basket of toys and candy costs around $4 you'll need about twenty friends at your party. Let's see if we can figure correctly. That would be 20 cents each.

But even before your party you can get the name of your family to whom you are to take the basket. Then you appoint a committee of three to deliver it. You see, that gives you two to carry the basket and one to knock on the door. You'll probably not find a doorbell.

Your Good Fellow editor can hardly wait until Thursday morning to open his mail, because he hopes that his desk will be weighed down with your letters.

AUTO CRASH DESTROYS HIS SENSE OF SMELL; ASKS $31,000 IN SUIT

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Walter McKee, assistant chemist at Princeton university, demands $31,000 damage from Dominick Berlanti for a nose broken in an automobile accident in a suit on trial here today.

McKee told the judge he asked such heavy damages because the accident destroyed his sense of smell and impaired his sense of taste.

"For this reason," said McKee, "I have to have an assistant with me constantly now when I go into the chemistry rooms because I might be killed if dangerous fumes were about and I did not smell them."

The court took the case under advisement.

THE REPUDIATION OF THE NEW DEAL.

The Republican gains at the recent election—81 seats in the house, 8 seats in the senate, 14 governorships, and an immense number of local offices—tell only a part of the story of the repudiation of the New Deal by the American people.

To realize how devastating that repudiation has been it is necessary to begin at the beginning. After the defeat of his court packing proposal, the President determined upon a campaign of vengeance. He would drive from congress every man and particularly every Democrat who had played a conspicuous part in preserving the independence of the court. The refusal of congress to enact the executive reorganization or dictatorship bill heightened his determination.

And so the purge was attempted. Among the senators, Tydings of Maryland and George of Georgia, Gillette of Iowa and Van Nuys of Indiana, Clark of Missouri and Cotton Ed Smith of South Carolina, Adams of Colorado and Lonergan of Connecticut were all marked for slaughter. Through the hot months of the summer and into the autumn the primary campaigns were fought. The voters of state after state expressed their preferences.

When the votes were counted it was found that every one of the senators marked for political death was renominated. Every man whom the White House coterie had entered in the senatorial primaries to effect a purge was defeated.

The purge was successful chiefly in eliminating Congressman O'Connor of New York City, but that result was anything but typical of the attitude of the voters. Maverick of San Antonio, beloved of the President, was soundly licked. So was his fellow Texan, W. D. McFarlane. Senator Pope of Idaho, another loyal supporter of the President, was unable to win renomination. Dieterich in Illinois, who voted for court packing, did not dare even enter the race for renomination. The Democratic nomination went to Scott Lucas, who had gone out of his way as a congressman to denounce court packing when it was not even before the house.

In the primaries the voters refused to defeat the men whose defeat the President demanded and refused to nominate a number of the men who had supported him most vociferously. In New York it was worse still. Mr. Roosevelt wanted his man, Robert Jackson, in the governor's chair, but the suggestion was not even seriously considered by his own party. In the end Mr. Roosevelt was found pleading with Gov. Lehman to run again as the only hope of saving the Democratic party in his home state; and Gov. Lehman was the man who had gone on record against packing the Supreme court to the great irritation of the President and the other New Dealers.

So much for the primaries. What happened in the election scarcely needs emphasis. Mr. Roosevelt's left wing supporters in Minnesota and Wisconsin were repudiated. His man Curley in Massachusetts and his man Quinn in Rhode Island were defeated. His man Murphy in Michigan is out. Throughout New England and in New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Kansas, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, and Oregon the majority of voters have served notice that they disapprove the course the President has been following. Even Congressman O'Connell of Montana, who was to be the agent of the purge in 1940 against Senator Burton Wheeler, was snowed under.

As recently as a year ago the wiseacres were saying that Mr. Roosevelt could not be checked; he was supposed to exert a supernatural power over the American people. How far wrong this estimate was we now know. His opponents in his own party triumphed in the primaries and at the same time many of his favorites were defeated. In the elections the repudiation was even more striking. The results, it should be noted, were achieved despite the fact that Mr. Roosevelt had on his side the largest political slush fund, measured in billions of dollars, which has ever been known.

TRAMPING THE APPIAN WAY.

David Darrah, in his book "Hail, Caesar," the story of Mussolini's rise to complete dictatorial power with particular reference to his handling of news and communications, refers to a young Roman of his acquaintance who remarked that he never had seen the Roman forum and that he never would see it unless Mussolini in the revival of ancient empire glories goosestepped every Italian into reverential visits to the antiquities. This was not an unusual young man.

The past is full of disturbing intimations which youth in self-protection tries to avoid. It links itself more congenially to people in the older periods of life. For youth it is the past and its silent warning is of an ephemerality intolerable to the young blood which flows too confidently to concede that the life it feeds is but a repetition of what happened centuries and centuries before.

Mussolini believes that if he revives the ancient glories he may inspire a now docile people to achieve new ones. They should look back in order to look forward. He is Augustus Cæsar and the Black Shirts are the new legions. They must hear again the sounds of marching feet on the Appian Way and see him in the purple. Rome's captive people again must be numerous.

Italian youth, left to itself, would have nothing of this. It is all dead and Italian youth is alive, and so what of the forum and the monuments to ancient grandeur? You can't have a good time with them. Mussolini may be in luck that he has to drive the people to a simulated interest in what was ancient Rome. It might, if they were sympathetically inclined, teach them too much, because the ancients of that city declined as the wearers of the purple increased in stature. Modern Rome stands upon the débris of destroyed egotisms and enfeebled peoples. Mussolini is apparently unaware that when he uncovers a new bit of ancient Rome he has to dig through forty to fifty feet of overthrown grandeur which is the true memorial of the lives of his predecessors.

FREE SPEECH ON THE RADIO.

Father Coughlin continues to be one of the problem children of the radio. There are others, but he is getting the most attention just now. Sensible people are trying to preserve freedom of opinion and expression and intemperate people are, intentionally or unintentionally, creating all sorts of difficulties. The most vulnerable spot is radio because that permits the most direct and effective appeal to the emotions. It is also already subjected to a greater degree of government jurisdiction than any of the other communications, and the members of the Federal Communications commission, even if they should be disinclined themselves to interfere, are likely to be profoundly influenced by the anger of persons whose sentiments have been offended by some intemperate speaker.

Coughlin isn't the only windjammer who excites prejudices, offends loyalties, and enrages partisans by speeches which arouse hatreds and anger. He was cut off the air Sunday by the managers of stations who refused to give him their outlets for a speech he did not submit in advance, they being certain that it would be another talk which would raise another storm. The simple way to handle Coughlin would be for the individual listener not to listen to him, but the persons who object to what he says feel that the damage would be done not to them by him, but to the public generally by the effect he had on the people who did listen to him. Self-restraint apparently is unreliable. In many instances it does not govern the highest officials of the government itself. They have used the radio to arouse one class of American citizens against another, creating mythical victims and mythical oppressors.

The insanities and stupidities, passions, prejudices, and violence that destroy civilization in Europe have sent their waves into this country to disturb the decencies and liberties which must be retained as the governing principles of American life. Americans cannot afford to allow these self-seeking promoters of prejudice to throw American common sense out of gear. One of the worst things they could do would be to bring down on this country the repression with which individual opinion and the freedom of minorities is oppressed in the lands from which the passions emanate.

We'd like to think that within the laws which govern human conduct people may continue to say what they think and to use any means of communication available to them. If the government steps in, the treatment of opinion will not be gentle and the hand laid on liberty will not be light. The warring cults and sects in the United States might, with advantage to all, reflect that their passions and quarrels all tend to intolerance, which, if it gets governmental expression, will suppress every minority in the country.

YOUTH ON THE FARM.

There used to be a wartime song "How Are You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm, After They've Seen Paree?" the Argus-Leader of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, recalls, in some sensible remarks on "keeping youngsters on farms." We, as city folk, are perhaps less concerned over this problem than our country cousins may be, if the problem exists in any serious degree, for the city is the gainer. Western cities especially have been made by people from the farms. Country boys have risen to all the high places in the land, public and private. As the Argus-Leader says: "Any effort just to hold youngsters on farms, regardless of whether they belong there or in towns and cities, is pure folly." It is worse than folly. It would be tyranny even if it were accomplished by indirection, by exaggeration of both the pros and cons of a free choice.

But we doubt that the problem of keeping youth on the farm is as serious as some theorists think. As the Argus-Leader remarks, "some mighty effective things are being done right now to hold youngsters on the farms"—vocational training in the high schools, the work of the future farmer chapters, the 4-H clubs, to say nothing of the general influence increasing the comforts and resources of country life.

A trip to the stock show is an experience city folk should not miss. It is hard to be pessimistic in such a place. Interested, efficient, happy youth is one of its most striking exhibits. It takes brains and character to raise stock and the youth that is represented in this great exhibition are not longing for Paree. They are living full lives and the cities cannot lure them away.

There are young people who ought to leave the farm, no doubt, but there are many more who will find more happiness in country life and are finding it there than they could ever find in city life.

WHEN THE SHAMROCK WILTS.

When the United States has been represented at the court of St. James's by Americans of English ancestry it did not seem quite unnatural that they should be impressed by their reception in British high society. The case of Ambassador Page is of course the high water mark of this interesting phenomenon, for Page became the most important representative of British diplomacy in the crisis of the great war, and well earned his tablet in Westminster abbey. His memoirs should be a required study for all British secretaries of the foreign office and diplomatic emissaries to America.

But if we have become familiar with Americans "more royalist than the king" we are stumped to find the infection apparently operating in our present emissary, a Kennedy whose pure Hibernian ancestry, at least, can hardly be suspected of heart throbs for England. Has the new king more on the ball than has been credited to him? Or is Mr. Chamberlain scoring another diplomatic victory?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

JEFFERSON IN NICKEL.

All this talk about the pinkishness of the new Jefferson nickel must have been started by some one who had been seeing pink elephants. The specimen that we are adding to our coin collection has a slightly brazen tinge. This trend toward the appearance of a telephone slug is heightened by the Monticello design on the reverse—an alteration, we are informed, of the original prize winning design. The arrangement of the lettering has also been changed, so we hear, for the worse.

The head of Thomas Jefferson in profile on the obverse is, however, an excellent example of the art of coin design. It has life and character, and it expresses the kindly temperament of the author of the Declaration of Independence. Incidentally, it bears a certain resemblance to another theorist about the rights of man—one whose idealism caused the execution of 1,285 persons in 46 days. He was none other than Maximilien François Marie Isidore de Robespierre.

To compare these two in any way would be, of course, grotesque, but—

"The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants; it is its natural manure."

Who wrote that? It sounds like the fanatic French revolutionist, but it was the gentle American statesman and scholar, in seeking to excuse Shay's rebellion.

LINE BOOK FOR 1938

It might turn out to be a first edition of a great American poet. The first edition of Poe's "Tamerlane" was no larger in form and much more meager of content. Today it is worth thousands of dollars.

Methinks, in your quest for the grave of the heir to the throne of France, you have confused your history and orthography. Are you sure that the supposed grave of the lost Dauphin does not contain the missing dolphin, snitched by Halloween pranksters from the Evanston fountain a couple of years ago and hidden in Calvary cemetery?

Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground.

[Here is a fascinating document from the period of slavery. It is a clause in the will of Abel Parker Upshur, secretary of state in the cabinet of President John Tyler, which was admitted to probate in 1844. It was copied from court records in Northampton, Va., by James E. Mears of Chicago.]

I emancipate and set free David Rich and direct my executors to give him $100. I recommend him in the strongest manner to the respect, esteem, and confidence of any community in which he may happen to live. He has been my slave for twenty-four years, during all of which time he has been trusted to every extent and in every respect. My confidence in him has been unlimited; his relation to myself and my family has always been such as to afford him daily opportunity to deceive and injure us; yet he has never been detected in a serious fault nor even in an intentional breach of the decorum of his station. His intelligence is of a high order, his integrity above all suspicion, and his sense of right and propriety always correct and even delicate and refined. I feel that he is justly entitled to carry this certificate from me into the new relations which he must now form. It is due to his long and most faithful service and to the sincere and steady friendship which I bear him. In the uninterrupted and confidential intercourse of twenty-four years, I have never given him nor had occasion to give him one unpleasant word. I know of no man who has fewer faults or more excellencies of character than he.

THE LINE BOOK'S COVER.

Blue stars and mystery. Quite symbolic
Are they of the Line and the contribs, wise,
Who mingle and meet in discreet disguise.

How happy and brave are the masks they wear!
The faces behind may be seamed with care,
And bitter and thankless their daytime task—
What matters, so long as they don't unmask?

Each held in leash by a tiny thread,
Gas-filled bubbles of Fame, perhaps;
Fragile, and destined too soon to collapse.

Eolus.

It's Myriapodous.

The "dous" word problem [find five or more words ending in "dous"] submitted by Zarathustra, 11-25-'38, seems to be the favorite parlor game of Line contributors. Seventeen answers arrived in the next mail. After "tremendous," "stupendous," "hazardous," and "horrendous," the four words that nearly every competitor finds, comes "jeopardous." Then, if you have a scientific turn of mind you can range widely among technical words in zoölogy that contain the Greek combining form "pod," meaning foot. There are dozens of them. Contrib Newcomer submits a list of thirty-six without exhausting the subject.

To a list of fifteen "dous" words B. T. B. adds this postscript:

"We know it is hazardous to try to make the Line, but we are avidous of doing so and if we do it will be stupendous."

Bridges with Roofs.

Admirers of early American covered bridges can find four of them near Danville, Ind. S. E. Reich reports the discovery and gives motoring directions as follows:

"Drive down route 1 from Chicago to route 36; turn east and you will find four covered bridges between route 1 and Danville, Ind. All are south of route 36 but plainly visible."

EDUCATION IN SOCIAL HYGIENE.

THERE was a time when puritanical notions forbade the slightest intimation to the growing child that there was such a thing as sex. Youngsters were obliged to obtain from one another tidbits of "mis"-information—gathered mostly from unreliable sources. Because it was a "horrid" subject—at least one that could not be talked of in polite circles—so-called "facts" were communicated in a more or less clandestine manner and every whisper was surrounded with secrecy—even fear. To some extent a consciousness of deceit filled the minds and hearts of these children.

There can be no question but that elementary lessons in the hygiene of propagation—plant and animal—should be imparted. The risk, of course, lies in arousing morbid curiosity—encouraging the imagination to overemphasize the sex instinct. But the topic can be taught simply—devoid of the implications that everything pertaining to it is evil or nasty. Sound tutelage need not stimulate brooding or indwelling thoughts. Should it do so an unhealthful state of mind will ensue. Neither should the matter be broached in any other way than that of explaining an important but normal function of life.

Enthusiasts in this field are likely to go too far, and I am sure that I have known some instructors and public lecturers who have exhibited a gleeful attitude in shocking their listeners. There must be a common sense ground upon which the dissemination of information can be based and it requires not only a keen appreciation of the objectives sought but great wisdom and gentleness.

Just why fathers and mothers shirk from discussing sex with their offspring is not clear. Most do, however, preferring to leave the task to an outsider. In this connection the family doctor makes an ideal confidant because he can speak from first hand experience of the hazards of venereal infections, painting their pictures truthfully and accurately without the horrors depicted in many highly lauded manuals. Perhaps some parents are unfitted to give such counsel because they do not know anything about it. Physicians' offices are never free from mature individuals who need guidance in the simplest sexual problems. Folklore cannot be relied upon.

One reason why we should be interested in this theme is that youth must be forewarned and thus safeguarded against dangerous experimentation. Furthermore, happiness—even success—depends upon an ideal marriage relationship. It is cruel to permit a young couple to enter upon family life with but hearsay knowledge.

Boys and girls reared in rural communities have many advantages. Animal procreation is to them a matter of course and the birth of a colt or the arrival of a litter of puppies offers a ready means of enlightenment. The class in biology in high school—and every student should take such a course—presents an ideal setting. Pollen, which carries the male elements in plants, fertilizes the egg, and mature seeds are produced which when planted germinate and bring forth the seedling. Zoölogy likewise offers an equally favorable field.

What is the optimum age for such direction? Certainly by the time sons and daughters begin to bud into manhood and womanhood [the age of puberty]. It can be stated that during this year or two the physical forces of the system are utilized largely in the development of certain endocrine glands and organs which have to do with reproduction. At the same time, basic attributes of character are forming.

Every man and woman desires to obtain reasonable harmony between mind and body. There can be no excuse for regarding the human frame with aversion. Rather it is the most perfect creation of nature—a most alluring study. With our children, an approach that is devoid of prudery will inculcate self-respect, make for finer sensibilities, and fix more firmly the principles of morality. We have a list of books and pamphlets on sex education of children. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for this leaflet.

FEEDING PETS.

T. V. writes: A friend of mine—who is very fond of dogs and cats—has the disgusting habit of feeding her animals in the dining room, putting the family dishes on the floor. Another friend has a child who contracted erysipelas from a dog and had to undergo three operations because of this. The first friend claims this is impossible—that dogs heal people by licking their wounds.

REPLY.

Dogs do not heal human sores by licking them, and it is quite possible that disease germs may be conveyed through the medium of dirty dishes. However, most dogs are guiltless of disease spreading. But in the interests of sanitation, give Rover his own dishes.

SORE MOUTH.

T. S. writes: My mouth becomes sore at intervals because of a dental plate. Is there anything that can be used to toughen the gums?

REPLY.

Have your dentist correct all points of unequal pressure. A perfectly fitting plate should not cause the slightest discomfort. You may obtain some help by rinsing the oral cavity with salt solution [a teaspoonful to a glass of water] or one that contains a little alum [5 grains to a glass of water].

HYDRANT REMOVAL.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—There was a hydrant stationed in our front yard by the water works department for the fire department. In June they moved it out to the curb. Since then a patch in our yard and in the street has remained unrepaired, thereby allowing sand to blow in the house every time there is a breeze. Also this mound in the street makes it very uncomfortable for parking or driving.

E. H.

Please be advised that the water pipe extension division of the bureau of engineering replaced cement sidewalk around fire hydrant at the above mentioned location, and removed all surplus dirt and debris.

WHAT C. I. O.'S PRECURSOR DID.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—With the C. I. O. undermining honest unionism, it might be of interest to review the labor union history of Butte, Mont. Prior to 1914 Butte was the strongest labor union city in the world. It was necessary to have an up to date card in a legitimate labor union before one could even make application for any kind of work in Butte. Butte miners' union was known throughout the country for its strength. The mines were working twenty-four hours a day. The camp was wide open. Business was always good. Every one working and every one prosperous and happy.

"Muckle" McDonald came on the scene. He saw an I. W. W. city government and he felt the time was ripe. He organized an outlaw "union" and managed to get a straggling of followers—not the honest workers, but the "red" element which had been boring in gradually. The first act was to call a strike at the mines. The followers of McDonald picketed the mines and beat up the regular men who attempted to work. The union called a meeting, and in its midst the "reds" went to one of the mines and with guns forced their way down the shaft and stole dynamite. Then they returned to the hall where the meeting was being held and blew the front of the building out into the street. They then took the big safe from the meeting place and hauled it down on the flat and with dynamite destroyed it and the miners' union records it contained.

Rioting broke out on all sides, and as the I. W. W. city officials did nothing to prevent it, the leading daily paper, the Butte Miner, called on the governor to step in. He did; he sent Warden Frank Conley from the Deer Lodge pen to take charge. Conley's first act was to proceed to the city hall and order the United States flag raised. Then he appeared at the front of the city hall and addressed the crowd of troublemakers. He had one hand in each coat pocket as he spoke, and at the end he announced he was going to walk through the crowd, and if any one had any personal matters to settle with him—as it appeared from their jeers and boos they might have—he would be glad to accommodate them. He then moved down the steps and the crowd wisely made way for him.

Well, the camp was put under martial law; Conley was in charge. The troops were everywhere. The mines were all closed. The saloons and gambling houses and the block square red light district were closed. Business was shot. Unionism was dead. Finally, when the mines opened again, it wasn't necessary to belong to any labor union. It wasn't necessary to get a "rustling card" in order to apply for a job in the mines. [I still have the card that was issued to me when I worked in the Bell & Diamond before the trouble.]

I left Butte in the fall of 1915 and have never been there since, so I am unfamiliar with the labor situation there now, but I know how it was before the I. W. W., radical, communistic element [which was the C. I. O. of those days] attempted to run things. It looks as though the C. I. O. is heading honest unionism for the same ignominious defeat today which it met back in those stormy days in Butte.

AN EX-MINER.

SKI AND CKI IN NAMES.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—I have discovered that 45 per cent of the recent Polish immigration into the United States bore names ending in "ski" or "cki." Thus, I may safely state, that at present in the United States there are approximately 2,000,000 citizens or citizens-to-be of Polish blood who bear this name-ending. In Chicago and vicinity alone there are at least 200,000 bearers of names ending in "ski."

Names ending in "ski" [for example, Glinski, Sadowski] are in the Polish language capitalized adjectives derived from the name of some locality. These adjectives [of the masculine gender] are equivalent in the English language to proper adjectives ending in "an" or "sh," as European [europejski], English [angielski], Irish [irlandzki]. Originally the "ski" names were created by the Polish nobility 450 years ago. The political domination and cultural development of the nobility at that time induced them to change their names to distinguish them from the common people.

The steps by which a name in "ski" evolved were as follows: A nobleman, who lived, for instance, in the village of Jarek was usually called "lord jareckl," meaning the "lord of Jarek." His brother, who may own the village of Adamow, would be called "lord adamowski." In time the name-title "lord" or "knight" was omitted, the adjective was capitalized, and the name was permanently fixed upon the lord. The name, thereafter, was never changed—not even if he moved to some other place.

So sweeping was this movement among the nobles that by the year 1500 75 per cent of the Polish nobility possessed names ending in "ski." This type of names became popular also in Lithuania and Ruthenia after Poland's expansion into those territories. Before 1600 a third of all Lithuanian names ended in "ski," whereas before the year 1550 there was not a single name with such an ending.

Names ending in "ski" were also adopted by men who migrated from cities into the country and joined the ranks of the nobility. The bulk of the population followed suit. Some nobles gave to the peasants, during the centuries, some, usually funny, "ski" names. When in the nineteenth century the peasantry went out of the control of the nobility they generally assumed real "ski" names. In this process the more ambitious women usually led.

How popular this move was we may see from the fact that about 45 per cent of those Polish immigrants who came to this country bore a name ending in "ski."

FAIR PLAY IN CENSORSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—This morning's press reports indicate that in the future certain radio stations broadcasting Father Coughlin's addresses will require copies of such speeches in advance in order to determine whether they contain statements offensive to certain groups. In other words, censorship is imposed upon free speech.

If this is to be enforced, may I suggest that the same censorship be applied against such speakers as Dorothy Thompson, Mr. Kaltenborn, and others of this variety? In this land of free speech and democracy it would behoove us to permit everybody to express his opinion as freely as the constitution permits.

GRAFTING PURCHASING AGENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—My wife and three children are going to have a mighty slim Christmas. The surplus cash that should rightfully be spent on them must of necessity, for the most part, be spent on gifts for several dozen grafting, chiseling purchasing agents whom I call on regularly and on whom I must depend for a livelihood.

If I fail to place something in the outstretched hands on my next call I will likely find that my competitors have received their business.

Many purchasing agents do not buy for the best interest of their firms. They place their orders where they feel that they, personally, will benefit the most.

Other salesmen will agree with what I say. Presidents and general managers of large concerns would do well to make sweeping investigations of their purchasing departments.

DISGUSTED.

A FARMER SPEAKS OUT.

Fairbury, Ill., Nov. 25.—Speaking for myself and my farmer friends, I think it time some one put a stop to the disgraceful sitdown strikes in the United States. We have read about the strike at the Chicago stockyards. All the cattle, hogs, and sheep come from off the farms and when we farmers take our stock to the Chicago market we have to take whatever they will give us. We do not want charity from the government, but we do want justice and a fair price for what we raise to feed the world.

A HINT TO OUR SANTA CLAUS.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Nov. 25.—We agree with Representative Dies that the retirement of Ickes, Perkins, and Hopkins would be a very good thing for our country. Santa Claus has the power to remove all three of these pests from the feed lot and he may inform us in that fireside chat when he tells us of the mandate the people gave him on Nov. 8 that he has done so. We are patiently waiting for the before-mentioned chat.

QUINN R. HUFFMAN.

WHY THE DETOUR?

Chicago, Nov. 27. — In view of the money and effort spent in straightening out a jog of about seventy-five feet on Damen avenue from Harrison street to Roosevelt road, why is it still necessary to detour Ashland avenue cars over Paulina street from Lake to Roosevelt road? Ashland avenue is no longer a boulevard of fine homes in that stretch, but a business street. West side street car riders never did get a break.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Your editorial, "Privileged Characters," criticizing the grants to federal employés of vacation cruises at half rates on certain government owned liners is very unfair.

Railroad employés, after a few years of service, are given free passes over any railroad in the country. Why not criticize the carriers, instead of the government, which at least makes a charge?

JAP WAR LEADER CHARGES BRITAIN IS HELPING CHINA

Says England Sees Threat to Asiatic Riches.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 28.—Japan and Great Britain cannot see problems regarding China eye to eye and are dangerously near, if not already in, the mud-slinging stage. This became apparent to observers here today in speeches by Japanese leaders and newspaper editorials attacking England.

Lieut. Gen. Eiki Tojo, vice minister of war, warned that "it has become impossible to anticipate when Great Britain will look the new situation in East Asia in the face and awaken to the realization that co-operation with Japan is the only true means of solving the problem."

Says Britain Aids China.

He charged that Britain was backing Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, China's dictator, to the limit because of fear that the success of Japan's continental policy may disturb the foundation of British rights and interests in China and may menace Singapore, Australia and India. Therein, he said, lies Britain's assistance to Chiang.

Tojo said that inquiry into the causes of continued resistance by the generalissimo reveals this is due largely to British, soviet Russian and French assistance, both material and spiritual, to the Chinese national government.

This being so, he said, Japan must be prepared for a long military campaign. He sounded a plea to leaders of munitions and other wartime industries not to relax their efforts.

Predicts War with Russia.

"A soviet-Japanese conflict apparently is inevitable," Tojo said. "There is every possibility that Russia and China may band together as soon as the soviet completes preparations. There is no doubt that the soviet is hastily replenishing heavy industries and bolstering armaments in preparation for a conflict."

The vice minister of war declared the attitude of the United States toward the Chinese-Japanese war was neutral, but said "I must call attention to the fact that the United States government is sticking to old treaties and is unwilling to recognize the changed situation in the far east."

Shells Fall Into Hongkong.

HONGKONG, Nov. 29.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Three Chinese residents were killed yesterday by shells falling three miles inside this British crown colony where hundreds of Chinese soldiers sought refuge from Japanese mopping up the surrounding territory. Several British soldiers were endangered by stray shells and machine-gun bullets, but none was hit.

Only one town in the border area was left in the hands of Chinese guerrillas, at whom the Japanese were aiming their campaign around Hongkong. It was estimated 1,000 guerrillas clung to possession of the town of Stataukok. Fires were raging in other nearby towns. Chinese soldiers fleeing into the British territory surrendered 450 rifles, hand grenades, several field guns, and other equipment. Among the refugees were 800 poorly clad, hungry Chinese troops.

Chiang Divides His Armies.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was reported today to have divided the Chinese army into northern and southern headquarters, with himself taking over the command in the south.

Kuomin [Chinese] news agency said the Yangtze river was designated as the dividing line between the two headquarters.

Reports from South China said Japanese planes carried out extensive raids on a half dozen towns west of Canton.

BUYERS OF MILK IN SUBURBS LIKE PAPER 'BOTTLES'

Housewives who buy their milk at suburban stores like the new paper containers, according to preliminary reports yesterday on the sale of packaged milk in more than thirty Chicago suburbs.

Officials of the Borden and Bowman dairy companies, which began distribution in paper cartons yesterday, said it was too early to determine the comparative merits of paper and glass bottles. But the Dean Milk company, which got a three day jump on the two big companies, reported sales were booming. An official of the National Tea company, one of the store chains using paper containers, said the customer reaction was good.

Ray Bryant, business agent of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, said:

"We don't like paper containers because store sales mean less work for drivers on home delivery. We are not taking any stand now, however. It's out of our control."

That was when Cyril Johnson, Denver business man, saw Miss Elizabeth Sbara, train stewardess. Miss Sbara, a native of Marseilles, was graduated from the Denver General hospital. She has been on the streamliner for two years.

EX-POLICEMAN IDENTIFIED BY 2 HOLDUP VICTIMS

After two robbery victims had identified him, Joseph Hennessey, 42 years old, a former city policeman, was held to the grand jury in bond of $10,000 yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. Nicholas Frecko, 5455 Bernard street, and Mitchell Franks, 50 North Albany avenue, charged that Hennessey had robbed them of $148 and $150, respectively. Both are collectors for the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

SHERIF HITS THE JACKPOT ON 500 SLOT MACHINES

Some people have dropped hundreds of coins into the maws of slot machines. Sherif John Toman yesterday dropped hundreds of slot machines into the maw of a stone-crusher at the Bridewell. Then he pulled the handle. It sounded like 10,000 jackpots falling at once.

When the stonecrusher's plunger came back up there was nothing left but pieces and some stray nickels. Bridewell trusties stepped forward with axes and finished the work. They were awarded the stray nickels for their labor. The pieces of slot machine will be sold as junk. The 500 slot machines were seized during Toman's term as sherif. He leaves that office soon to become county treasurer.

BOOKIE BANDIT'S PRISON SENTENCE CUT TO 30 YEARS

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday reduced the sentence of William Wright, 25 years old, to thirty years in the penitentiary. He was convicted of participating in a robbery of a north side handbook last September and the resulting gun battle in which three persons were slain. Last week Judge Dunne sentenced Wright to forty-five years, but lowered this to forty years when Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach protested. Bachrach then made a motion to vacate the sentence.

In fixing Wright's term at thirty years Judge Dunne said he wanted to make sure that the gunman serves at least fifteen years. "I don't want the whims of the parole board to interfere in this case," he added. "They often let the wrong men out."

Charles Lane, 30 years old, was sentenced Saturday to 199 years in prison for his part in the gunfight. Lane killed John Bozula, proprietor of the handbook, 3633 North Halsted street, during the holdup.

Tony Santucci and John De Bartollo, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Bruno Wojtal, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Eva Linderman, obtaining money by false pretenses, sentenced to 1 year in the County jail; Thurman Skillern, tampering with an automobile, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge James F. ROOSEVELT WILL NAME HIS DOCTOR REAR ADMIRAL

Jumps Dr. Ross McIntire Over Superiors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, is to be named surgeon general of the navy, it was learned here authoritatively tonight. He will succeed Rear Admiral P. S. Rossiter, who is about to retire.

Dr. Ross McIntire.

Dr. McIntire actually is a commander in the navy, though he holds the rank of captain in the navy by virtue of his White House post. The post of surgeon general carries the rank of rear admiral. On appointment to that post Dr. McIntire will be the second man of commander rank in the history of the navy to be named to a rear admiral's rank over the heads of all his senior officers in the grade of captain.

Entered Navy 22 Years Ago.

The first was the late Cary T. Grayson, a lieutenant commander who was made a rear admiral when he was White House physician in the Wilson administration. However, Dr. Grayson continued as White House physician and did not take command of the naval medical corps.

Dr. McIntire entered the navy medical corps from Oregon as a junior lieutenant in 1916. He was a commander on his appointment to the White House in March, 1933, from the naval hospital at Washington.

President's Personal Doctor.

To Dr. McIntire has been given the full credit for the President's excellent health. He has watched his charge daily, accompanying the President on all trips on land and sea.

Among his professional colleagues Dr. McIntire is regarded as an able representative of the medical profession. He specializes in eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases.

'KILLS HIMSELF AS POLICE DASH UP TO SAVE HIM

Chicago Lawn police, searching for a man with a gun last night, came upon him at 63d street and Washtenaw avenue, only to have him kill himself before their eyes. He was Gus Kornblum, 50 years old, a liquor salesman.

He left his room at 6106 South Washtenaw avenue with Benjamin Bakrins, manager of a drug store at 1382 West 79th street, and Patrick Mullen, owner of a tavern at 1351 West 79th street. They told police later they wanted to ask him about a check which he had cashed, and which had been stopped at the bank.

Noting he carried a revolver, they notified police and told them that Kornblum had threatened to kill himself. The police began a search for Kornblum. Policemen Edward Lyons and Joseph Moran intercepted him near his home. As they were about to seize him, he shot himself.

TUNNEL 10 FOOT DRIFTS TO SAVE 100 SNOWBOUND

Bangor, Me., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Airplanes and snowplows tonight were winning a battle to rescue more than 100 CCC youths and hunters, including several women, imprisoned by a blizzard in the northern Maine woods since Thanksgiving. Drifts ten to fifteen feet high and temperatures below freezing impeded the work.

The vanguard of the marooned parties straggled to civilization during the day and most of the others were on their way to freedom. While snowplows attacked the heavy drifts, airplanes flew over the isolated area and dropped packages of food to those still besieged.

A guide sent word by wireless that an unidentified woman had been found in a serious condition. She was taken to a rescue base at Nicatous lake.

Barrymores in New Brunswick.

Miss Barrymore, who opened at the Selwyn last night in Whiteoaks, recently played in St. John, N. B. There are three theaters in the town, two movies and the legitimate, in which Miss Barrymore appeared. Pictures in which her brothers—John in Hold That Co-ed and Lionel in You Can't Take It With You—were being starred were being shown in the other two.

Miss Barrymore had never seen either picture, so she occupied her time outside of the third theater by seeing both movies.

Phrase Reversed.

Neatest impromptu retort of the week-end—that on the Vox Pop program. A young actor, Stewart Colley, was being interviewed.

"Have you ever had to kiss and make up?" he was asked.

"No, but I've had many occasions to make up and kiss," retorted the young actor.

Summary.

One of the less attractive phases of today was put into words by a little old lady who stopped a hurrying pedestrian at Wells and Madison and asked how to get to one of the State street department stores.

"I vish, maybe, you vould valk vid me to the store," she added.

The pedestrian had an important errand in the opposite direction and apologized because he had no time to accompany her.

Or Isn't It Your Problem?

Know your literary Chicago? If so you can guess the identities of various unnamed persons in Kenneth Horan's new book, It's Not My Problem. For instance: the distinguished author of Chinese stories who wears a priceless string of uncut opals; the two popular novelists who are sisters and extraordinarily witty; the writer of exquisite novels a little too finely drawn for public consumption; the novelist with blazing red hair.

Nursery Board Sets Date for Annual Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

THOSE who annually enjoy the North Avenue Day nursery's benefit supper-dance will mark Oct. 7 on their 1939 calendars, if they have them. That is the date the young women on the board of directors have set for next year's party. No other details are decided, but you can count on those smart young women to select a place that will be of interest. They always manage to do that. For instance, this year's party was the opening of the Pump room at the Ambassador East hotel. Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr. is president of the board.

The young Wilsons are among the most philanthropic minded young people in the city, for both of them are active workers for several charities. The nursery is the pet of Mrs. Wilson, formerly Miss Romayne Warren of Detroit, and the North Side Boys' club is her husband's favorite. He is president of the board of this institution, which just moved into the old Eli Bates Settlement house at 621 West Elm street. The grand opening, at least for the board members, was a dinner given last Tuesday night.

Wirt Mortons Will Give Supper Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Morton have invited about 100 friends to a supper party at their home in Lake Forest next Tuesday night following a lecture their house guest, the countess of Listowell, will give. The countess' subject will be "There Will Be No War in Europe." The lecture, to be given in the auditorium of the Lake Forest High school, will benefit the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children.

The countess is to answer "What Does the Youth of England Think?" before members of the Union League club and their guests Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick is giving a dinner party tonight for Mme. Lily Pons, the diminutive coloratura soprano who is here to sing with the Chicago City Opera. Mme. Pons sings tomorrow night in "Lakme."

A daughter was born yesterday morning at the Passavant hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Silverthorne Jr. of Lake Forest. Mrs. Silverthorne is the former Jeanette Dixon, daughter of Mrs. Thornton Dixon of Monroe, Mich. The baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George M. Silverthorne of the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Plan Several Parties for Mary Ryerson.

Miss Mary Ryerson returned from a visit in the east yesterday to find several parties arranged for her within the next few days. Tomorrow Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr. will entertain at a dinner and theater party, and on Sunday Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. will give a hocky party.

On Dec. 11 Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeWitt Shumway will entertain for Miss Ryerson and Miss Margaret Hutchins at a hocky party.

A white elephant to be sold in the Rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital is the price of admission to a jolly party this afternoon. It is the 20th anniversary tea of the shop committee and it is to be given in the Casino. The party is scheduled for 4 o'clock and all the guests will be fairly prompt, for at 4:30 a program of entertainment will start. There will be exhibition dancing by professionals and some songs by Louis C. Sudler.

Pouring tea will be Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II., Mrs. Horace Wetmore, and Mrs. Hampden Winston. Mrs. Frank Hibbard is chairman of the large committee that has planned the party.

Too Much Star Dilutes Drama in 'Whiteoaks'

"WHITEOAKS."

Drama in three acts and four scenes, adapted by Mazo de l.. Roche from her own novel, "Whiteoaks of Jalna." Directed by Stephen Haggard. Setting by Norris Houghton. Presented by Victor Payne-Jennings in the Selwyn theater, Monday, Nov. 28, 1938.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Miss Ethel Barrymore and a sizable group of talented but largely submerged stooges are currently to be seen at the Selwyn theater in "Whiteoaks," a drama purporting to transfer to the stage the rugged Canadian family originally described by Mazo de la Roche in her cycle of "Jalna" novels.

Far from being a full-blooded realization of one of the most arresting families in recent literature, "Whiteoaks" turns out to be much too obviously a "vehicle" for Miss Barrymore. As Miss de la Roche conceived the character of 101 year old Gran, she was earthy, frostbitten, and worldly wise. Miss Barrymore transforms her into an ornamental stage figure in a lace cap, uttering her lines in a grand manner appropriate only to the Delphic oracle.

Miss Barrymore's conception of her duty to her play is a triumph of individualism over subject matter. A fixed smile remains engraved upon her face, even when she is indicated to be flying into a rage. The majority of her lines sound somehow as though they must be heroic couplets by Alexander Pope, and it is only by the strictest attention that the hearer can penetrate through their declamatory outer shell and discover the simplicity of their inner sense.

And then, in the second act, just when everything seems too far from reality to be worth while, Miss Barrymore portrays Gran's death with such absorbing subtlety and delicacy that the entire audience sits rapt, scarcely daring to breathe. When she rises to the occasion, showing us the stuff of which her theater art is really made, we are ready to forgive and forget the evils of the star system, of which we have become distressingly conscious in the preceding hour and a half.

In fashioning the play out of her own novel, "Whiteoaks of Jalna," Miss de la Roche was apparently willing to sacrifice the whole family in order to build the central figure of Gran. For the most part the Whiteoaks are a bloodless crew, standing or sitting motionless while Gran utters her pontifical remarks.

Even young Finch, played as well by Harry Ellerbee as his parsimonious rôle will permit, is too much of a prop—and this to too bad, for the whole point of the drama depends upon having the young musician a strong enough character to evoke a really tense situation when Gran wills her fortune to him instead of to his horsy half-brother Renny.

As Robert Shayne presents him, red headed Renny could hardly smell as strong of the stables as he is supposed to in the novel, for he is too sleek, too well groomed, too Park avenue. The old uncles are more convincing, and Lenore Chippendale makes a magnificent period piece out of Aunt Augusta.

"Whiteoaks" is very, very disappointing. The Whiteoaks are dead; long live Miss Barrymore!

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—They were working late Saturday night, at RKO, on the Astaire-Rogers picture, filming a scene from "Henpecks," the show which led to the wedding of Irene and Vernon Castle and the initiation of a dance career that was to thrill the world. As the hours wore on, the players became more and more wearied and started blowing up in their lines. One old gentleman blew up several times. He turned courteously to Astaire and apologized. Fred threw his arm around the veteran's shoulders. "Take all the time you want," he said with a nice smile. "Any one who discovered Helen Hayes for the theater doesn't need to apologize for anything." The 71 year old veteran was Lew Fields, who discovered Helen Hayes when she was in pigtails at Washington, D. C.

Add look-alikes: Olivia De Havilland and Mrs. Eric Hatch. . . . Not Adolphe Menjou, the Cornell sheik, but white haired Jerome Kern wears the gayest pattern in socks, shirts and cravats. . . . Songwriter Gus Kahn, one of the all time great lyricists, is Hollywood's most rabid football fan, seeing three games each week. . . . At the Hollywood parties, Morrie Ryskind and Dore Schary win all the intellectual games, the big literates. . . . Irving Hoffman garbled the story of Groucho Marx visiting the stock exchange in New York and warbling "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." The punch line is not that Groucho told the special cop that he was entitled to sing a song because he lost $250,000 in the stock market. The copper's critical topper is better: "Don't tell me you made that much dough singing."

No town so jittery over summons servers as this one, and with good reason. When Dorothy Lamour was handed a picture of herself in New York, and learned too late that the person requesting the autograph on the picture was a process server, every star out here made a mental reservation to be on guard against the same trick. That is why often your request for an autograph is dismissed a bit abruptly, because a hundred summonses have been served that way. Golf courses offer an easy entrée, as the guys with papers to serve pick out a fairway or tee near a public road and wait there in ambush until the victim is crouched over a mashie niblick shot, before popping out. The outraged screams of a golfer who has been thus processed reach a singular intensity. "I came out here to relax," moaned one famous celluloid hero, "and now look at me."

Because of the nature of their business and contacts, the movie stars are the targets for more bits of paper than most other professions. People who managed them years ago, people who made musical arrangements for singers who are now biggies, salary attachments, suits for plagiarism, suits for portrait sittings, suits for real or fancied damages—the Hollywood air is white with processes. There was that famous blonde star who diligently avoided being served for nigh on to four weeks. Unwarily, she advertised for a cook. She got the cook, and the summons simultaneously because the cook had been hurried to the star's home by the lawyer's office.

Airports, night clubs, previews, studios, golf courses, polo fields, restaurants, and even doctors' offices expose the stars to those who wish to get at them. They can lock themselves away on their estates and obtain some measure of isolation, but their public appearances are fraught with danger. The reason the movie stars really enjoy the NBC studios out here is that they can drive within the grounds without getting out of their cars. Private elevators lift them directly to their studios, and the studios are so constructed that the audiences can't reach the stage, unless the process server is an Olympic games graduate.

Hollywood is still chuckling over the remark made in all sincerity by Bicknell, of Father Flannagan's Boy's Town football team, after he'd almost personally beaten the Black Foxe prepsters, 20 to 12. The movie stars were asking the young football hero for his autograph. He looked dazedly at Spencer Tracy: "How do you like that, Mr. Tracy! Yesterday I was punk; today they're after my autograph." His observation really sums up this entire town and its history.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The underprivileged boys of our nation are coming in for a lot of attention from movie makers, who seem laudably determined to find out what makes 'em tick and to help them keep better time.

"Boys' Town," founded on fact, was a fine, constructive offering. "Angels with Dirty Faces"—a remarkably far fetched title—has plenty to offer in the way of acting and not much in the matter of story.

A gangster who is a hero in the eyes of a horde of east side lads and a priest who aspires to mean much to them in a different way are forcefully portrayed by James Cagney and Pat O'Brien. The "'Dead End' Kids" furnish adolescent color and plenty of it. Ann Sheridan graces a negligible feminine rôle as only Ann can do. . . .

As boys Father Jerry and Rocky Sullivan had pal'ed and stolen together. Then an incident occurs which sets their feet in diverging paths. . . . Rocky, freed after his last stretch in the big house, finds Jerry devoting himself to boys of the east end, endeavoring to prevent them from becoming public menaces such as Rocky, who, he knows, is their idol—an idol they believe can outwit the smartest cop and lawyer in the world.

Rocky takes a room in the old neighborhood and handles the adoring kids with a high and lavish hand. What they won't do for the priest they gladly do for him, for Rocky's ways of persuasion are the sort they understand. . . .

As the gangster's power grows the priest's wanes. . . . Then comes the day when Rocky finally is captured after a one man shooting battle with cordons of police, following a couple of murders he's committed. He is convicted and sentenced to the chair.

Still the kids admire. Rocky'll beat the rap yet. Never was a jail HE couldn't get out of. . . . Anyhow, he'll die with his chin up.

But this, Father Jerry, in a last talk, begs Rocky not to do. Even though he isn't afraid—and he's not—won't he PLAY yellow in order to loose the hold he has on Father Jerry's recreant boys . . .?

Rocky dies screaming for mercy. . . . The boys, believing it's on the level, again succumb to Father Jerry's influence. . . . Not so good, this finale, I thought, for kids watching the picture. Of course IN the film the end justifies the means. . . .

"Angels with Dirty Faces" drags a bit—but it was doing a land office business yesterday.

See you soon.

Kitchen Towels Adopt Vegetable and Fruit Motifs

BY NANCY CABOT.

Towels may have as definite personalities as individuals when they are embroidered in an outline stitch in the color of the vegetable or fruit in question. Every kitchen will be a more attractive room if these dainty towels are hanging on a convenient rack. With the wide varieties of toweling on the market no two articles need be alike.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the fruit and vegetable towels, No. X-533, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Auto Dealers' Dinner.

Edward Payton will speak on business management at a dinner of the automobile dealers of metropolitan Chicago at the Knickerbocker hotel tonight.

If you want an entertaining gift and one that doesn't run into money, why not consider some of the new games? We came across one recently that is brand new and in for a wave of popularity. It has the advantage of numbers: you can play it like solitare, or two handed or four handed, like bridge, or up to seven handed. And that can't be said for many games.

It is played with special cards which come in a neat little box with a book of directions. Even children can play one of the versions of this game, but adults usually start out learning the four handed game, for you get the hang of it best this way.

The directions explain about the scoring and the penalties. This game is unlike any with which we are acquainted. It is a challenge to all lovers of card garmes.

Opera Fans Get Full Value in 'Die Walkure'

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A strong list of principals and Conductor Henry Weber pooled their efforts last night for a moving performance of Wagner's "Die Walküre." A crowded Civic Opera house saw a presentation of the great "Ring" drama which was packed with interest and marked by an uncompromising sincerity.

Dorothee Manski of New York's Metropolitan made her Chicago operatic debut in the part of Brünnhilde, replacing Kirsten Flagstad on short notice when that hard fighting artist gave up a long struggle against a heavy cold and decided to go to bed. Once Mme. Manski had leaped the terrific hurdle of Brünnhilde's War Cry—surely the cruelest entrance music in all opera—she settled down to a quiet, beseeching manner of singing which filled her part of the second act with royal poetry.

Alexander Kipnis, Russian bass, returned to the Chicago operatic stage after an absence of nearly seven years. In the part of the god Wotan he proved that one of the smoothest textured bass voices in the world possesses all of its old magic. The dignity of his presence and the quality of his stagecraft—there was a phenomenally quick recovery, early in the second act, from what might have been an embarrassing fall—helped to complete a characterization which even the hard to please could not fail to call splendid.

Eva Turner, English soprano who has already given us a de luxe Turandot and Aïda this year, sang Sieglinde in noble fashion. In that magical first act, where Wagner has lavished so many of his finest ideas on his much loved Siegmund and Sieglinde, Mme. Turner took advantage of her countless opportunities for gloriously rounded phrases and for tender, searching tone colorings. Her musical skill and integrity more than compensated for the somewhat stiff and conventionalized character of her acting.

René Maison made a fine, downtrodden Siegmund—a Siegmund who could rise to ecstatic musical heights after the coming of fine weather toward the end of the rainy first act had cheered him up so notably. Douglas Beattie brought to the part of Hunding as much tonal beauty as he dared to use for such a sulky fellow. Hertha Glatz, majestic of person [although she is not at all big] and darkly beautiful vocally, made a likable rather than a terrifying Fricka.

Henry Weber on the conductor's stand held the whole difficult work together and found time for a bewildering number of poignant orchestral effects. Toward the end of the first act he fairly piled the stage with orchestral glamor, saturating the tremendous music with a silver of his own making.

Here is a conductor of German répertoire who is not bound by any of the traditions which demand that Wagner be performed in an absurdly pedestrian manner. On the contrary, he plunges deep into the score for the poetry which underlines nearly every measure.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The Christmas bell as a container for beauty gifts was so popular last year that this year the counters are teaming with them. And they are charming.

One of the nicest gifts you can lay at the feet of a fair lady would be a tingling golden bell that conceals three small flacons of fine and famous perfumes. It's smart, feminine in appeal and not too expensive.

This bell's success last Christmas is responsible for some others making their bow now. A miniature of the golden bell, in red, contains only one flacon of perfume. It's a perfect choice for the small remembrance, to be hung on the tree, used as a party favor, or tucked in as something "extra" in the toe of a stocking.

But our pets of the bell family are those of satin, either red or snow white, the clappers filled with sachet in a lilac scent. These are quite inexpensive and the only thing nicer than one would be a pair, one in each color. They make a pretty gift and can be used for months to come, spreading their fragrance in dresser drawers or closets. Each bell is topped with a silk bow and a bit of holly.

The same house has another suggestion for gift hunters this year with a huge, delicately carved cake of soap in the shape of a crown. It's very close to weighing a pound and comes in pink [which is scented with rose geranium] or a cool blue in the fragrance of verbena. It arrives in a cellophane lidded box and contrives somehow to look majestic and amusing at once. It's another suggestion for those puzzling people who "have everything."

MOTHERS URGED TO USE MORE MILK IN MEALS

According to comparisons recently made by the Milk Foundation, a non-profit health education foundation, Grade A milk provides more essential food elements than any other single food and at a much lower cost. Mothers who have limited food budgets are urged to use a large portion for the purchase of milk because it has been found that Grade A milk is so valuable in helping to protect the health of the family. Few persons realize that a quart of Grade A milk supplies half the daily essential food needs, says the Foundation.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright, 1938. By Elizabeth York Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy plans to sail for Calcutta to marry her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock. Jim's family live next door to the modest English country home where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. Her aunt is opposed to the marriage and would like Nora to encourage Bob Matherson, a rich young bachelor and the new owner of Fairways, a nearby estate, who seems to have fallen in love with Nora. Nora receives a letter from Jim.

INSTALMENT II.

JILTED.

Nora went around the table and gave her aunt a hug.

"You've been so good to me and truly I love you as much as if you were my own mother," she said. "Only . . . well, you see, it's my life and I must live it in my own way."

"I'm going out to see what the garden looks like," she added.

The garden, of course, was looking very lovely, with the autumn foliage and flower borders, and the Virginia creeper beginning to turn red, but Nora Stacy had only used it as a graceful pretext.

She went down the path to the swing seat near the gate and took Jim's letter out of her pocket. When she answered it she would tell him where she had sat to read it, what a lovely morning it was, and that she had had a peach for her breakfast. She always told him every little thing like that.

Now she had the envelope open and in another moment had taken in the whole of its contents.

Dear Little Nora:

I hardly know how to write this without seeming to be a bit of a cad, but for some time now it has seemed a little silly for us to go on being engaged, especially as things are uncertain with me at the moment. I'll bet you have been feeling the same way about it, only you are such a good sport you haven't wanted to say so.

Be a true pal, my darling, and give it out that you have thrown me over. Believe me, it will save a lot of trouble for both of us.

Always your devoted JIM.

What a damnable weapon a letter can be, like a sharp knife, like a bullet shot clean through the heart—but lacking the merciful power of those deadly things to kill.

The swing seat came to a standstill and Nora Stacy sat there trying to believe that some brutal, fantastic dream had her in its toils.

And then a man on horseback came along the turfy road over the common and, drawing rein at Mrs. Callender's gate, dismounted and came to the fence on the other side of which Nora Stacy was sitting in the swing seat, like something made of stone.

It was their neighbor, Robert Matherson.

He was a big man, athletically built, and looked as though he had spent more of his life out of doors than, as was the case, at an office desk with a tape machine at his elbow. He had a careless, whimsical expression that betrayed something of the playboy he was reputed to be, and a square chin and clear-seeing gray eyes which seemed to belie that reputation. Indeed, there was a great deal that was contradictory about this young man, much more than Nora Stacy had as yet discovered.

"Hello—aren't you going to say good morning?" He leaned genially on the top rail of the fence with his arm through the bridle rein, while his chestnut mare daintily nosed his pockets.

Nora got up like a sleepwalker, crushed Jim's letter into her pocket, and went toward him. It was the refinement of cruelty to suffer such agony and be forced to put a smile on one's face.

"Good morning," she said, her lips painfully twisted. "How kind of you to send us the grapes and peaches. Aunt Dorothy was so pleased."

He regarded her with penetrating attention.

"I hope you liked them, too," he said.

Nora nodded and swallowed to clear her throat of a painful lump.

"Yes, I—yes, indeed. I liked them very much."

If only he would stop staring at her—if only he would go away.

"Look here, perhaps I haven't got any right—I mean, perhaps I don't know you well enough to barge in—but has anything happened to worry you? What I mean is ——."

"Me? Why of course not."

"Nora, aren't you ever coming to help with the beds?" Aunt Dorothy shouted from the house. It was obvious she hadn't seen what was now detaining her niece or she would as soon have bitten her tongue.

Nora's face, so pale a second before, flushed crimson, but more with relief than embarrassment.

"I'm awfully sorry," she said, her voice going all queer and shaky, "but my aunt wants me. Will you excuse me, Mr. Matherson?"

He was obliged to excuse her, for she did not wait for his permission.

Nora spoke rapidly, afraid Aunt Dorothy would ask her if she had had any special news from Jim.

"I was talking to Mr. Matherson when you called," she said. "He'd been riding. I thanked him for the grapes and peaches and he said he was glad we liked them."

Again her voice broke and she seemed to be having a little fit of coughing.

"Was that all he said?"

"About all. I asked him to excuse me as you wanted me to help you with the beds."

"You didn't need to tell him that."

"He heard you call out, anyway."

After they had made Mrs. Callender's bed Nora said she would do her own by herself. She went into her room, shut the door, and locked it.

On the dressing table stood an enlarged snapshot of Jim taken in riding kit, or rather the clothes he rode in down at Green Mallows. It showed him hatless and wearing a polo shirt open at the neck. And, of course, he was laughing. Jim always found something to laugh at.

Nora had taken that snapshot, and he had just said she looked like a Skye terrier with her hair falling over her eyes. He had laughed at her in that letter, too, she was sure. O, horrible! She buried her face in her hands and then the tears started.

Mrs. Callender came to the door and rattled the knob.

"I'm going to the village," she said. "Is there anything special you fancy for dinner?"

"No—no, thank you," Nora replied thickly.

It seemed almost incredible that Aunt Dorothy went away again without asking her why she had locked the door.

From behind the curtains she watched her aunt disappear across the common. It would be an hour before she was back.

Within that time Nora had more or less pulled herself together so that at least she was fit to put in a public appearance.

At lunch she said casually, "I thought I had better tell you, I have decided not to marry Jim Murdock after all."

If Nora had dropped a bomb on the table her aunt could hardly have been more astonished.

Mrs. Callender knew all about the trousseau which by now filled a considerable portion of the chest of drawers in Nora's room. She was a wise old woman and she held her tongue except for letting out a mild: "I must say you surprise me!"

But after the first shock was over she could not help showing how pleased she was.

"Why can't I tell her that Jim has jilted me?" the girl wondered. "It would be more honest."

Grooming Is as Important as Ability in the Job Hunt

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"If you are going out to look for a job, remember you have to be able to sell yourself as well as your ability," says Anne Ashenhurst Hummert, who, as head of one of the country's leading advertising concerns, employs more than forty girls in her New York office alone. "Bear in mind that your future employer will be as critical of your personal appearance as of your stenography and typing.

"Unless you are one of those lucky girls who always look as though they had just stepped out of the proverbial bandbox don't start job hunting until you have given yourself a thorough grooming," declares Mrs. Hummert.

Things of which employers are immediately aware when interviewing applicants, according to Mrs. Hummert, include crooked stocking seams, wispy hair, excessive use of cosmetics, slovenly or inappropriate attire, scuffed up shoes and rundown heels, bitten nails, faulty posture, raucous or irritating voice, sallow complexion, and lack of personal daintiness.

"So, before you leave your home, look yourself over carefully in a full length mirror," advises dainty, blonde Mrs. Hummert, who created such a favorable impression upon her last employer, Frank Hummert, that he gave her a permanent engagement.

"Check up your assets and liabilities. Does your hair have the gleam and luster which come from good health and proper care? Do you believe that the only thing you need to do for your nails is keep them clean? Are you one of those perpetually flustered damsels who chew their nails? Does your skin have a natural satiny gloss? Do you make up your face smartly, neither too much nor too little?

"These are just a few questions you should ask yourself," states Mrs. Hummert, "and be sure the answers total up to 100 per cent before you make your appearance for an interview. No matter how capable you are, the impression you make is created the moment you step into an office, before you have taken your first words of dictation.

"You may have been a shining light at school," adds Mrs. Hummert, "or an indispensable person at your last job, but no employer can judge these qualities at first glance. He will judge you by what he sees and it's up to you to make sure that your appearance is as much of an asset as your training and skill."

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BARCELONA, Nov. 28.—The Spanish government is sending to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt one of its most precious artistic accomplishments. It is a complete set, one of five on antique Japanese paper, of the final edition of Goya's etchings.

Each of the four series ["The Caprichos," "The Tauromaquia," "The Disasters of War," and "The Proverbios"] is bound in rich heavy gold tooled parchment, with a parchment slipcase, and the whole inclosed in a wooden box.

Luis Quintanilla, artist who is soon going to New York to work on five frescoes for the Spanish pavilion at the World's Fair, will take the gift to Washington personally.

Ruperez, famous Spanish engraver, worked on the etchings all last year and part of this year, making 150 of each. Of these five are on antique Japanese paper, of which one goes to President Manuel Azana, one to Premier Juan Negrin, one [No. 4] to Mrs. Roosevelt, and the remaining two to the Prado museum.

The holiday "open house" affords one of the simplest and most pleasurable forms of entertainment during the Christmas season. Although it isn't quite December, prospective hostesses already are planning menus and thinking about whom to invite.

What makes the open house so simple is the simple refreshment plan. A hot or cold drink, a little something to nibble, and perhaps a few candies and nuts are the only eatables needed.

OPEN HOUSE REFRESHMENTS.

I.
Frosted, Coconut Coated Baby Doughnuts [Dollar Size]
Hot Spiced Cider
Salted Nuts

II.
Thin Slices of Fruit Cake
Spiced Tea with Lemon

III.
Assorted Open Face Sandwiches
Assorted Christmas Cookies
Orange Pekoe Tea

IV.
Assorted Open Face Sandwiches
Homemade Candies
Fruit Punch

V.
Dainty Nut Bread and Marmalade Sandwiches
Dainty Date Bread and Cream Cheese Sandwiches
Coffee or Tea
Assorted Nuts

VI
Tiny Dark and Light Bread Sandwiches
Glazed Fruits
Hot Spiced Tea with Fruit Juices
Mints and Nuts

Recipes for most of the items in these menus may be found in several of our small booklets. "The New Sandwich Maker" contains recipes for dozens of kinds of open face sandwiches. "Thirst Quenchers" tells you how to make fruit punch and other cold drinks [none of the hot ones is in this booklet]. "Simple Homemade Candies" is described by its title.

"Tips on Tea Parties" and "Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes" also will be of help. Any of these booklets will be sent for 5 cents in stamps. All five of them will be mailed for 25 cents.

And then there's our bigger, printed holiday book, "Holidays and Holiday Meals," which costs 23 cents by mail and contains menus and recipes for all kinds of Christmas and New Year's affairs.

Because the recipe for spiced cider isn't in any of our booklets, and because many hostesses will be serving it, I'm going to print the recipe.

Spiced Cider.

[Twenty-five Servings in Teacups.]
1 gallon cider
1½ pounds brown sugar
6 2-inch pieces of cinnamon
1 tablespoon cloves [whole]
1 tablespoon allspice [whole]
2 large pieces mace
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne pepper

Tie spices loosely in a bag. Add to other ingredients and bring slowly to the boiling point. Boil for fifteen minutes and remove spices. Serve hot.

The Christmas season with its houseful of company means lots of entertaining. The following Mary Meade booklets will help you gracefully over this social season: "Tips on Tea Parties," "Buffet Suppers and Dutch Lunches," "Hostessing with Sunday Suppers," and "The New Sandwich Maker." You'll find them all on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower lobby. Price, 3 cents each; 5 cents each, by mail. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

Superbly Fitted Princess Slip

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PRINCESS SLIP.

Whether you're practical enough to want to make lingerie for your own wardrobe, or wish to create feminine and flattering gifts for your friends this Christmas, we think you will like this princess slip pattern. It creates a superbly fitted garment for under your frocks with the new silhouette. It has an "uplift" line to the bodice, a heart shaped neckline, a smooth, sculptured waist, and a flared skirt below a molded hipline.

All the lingerie silks, including washable taffeta, make up beautifully. White and pastels always have been popular, and this season the dark colors are in favor. Under monotone dresses, especially dark colors, bright hues and gay prints are fashionable.

The neckline and hem may be trimmed with lace in feminine fashion, or a strictly tailored effect may be maintained, with only a monogram on the bodice for trimming. A nice pattern for this is No. E-11012, available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2153 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of lace.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 46: You are West, declarer at three no trump. [Opponents did not bid.] Dummy and your hand are:

YOU [West]	DUMMY [East]
♠ J 10 8	♠ A K Q
♥ A K J	♥ Q 6 5
♦ A 9 8 7	♦ Q 10 3 2
♣ K J 9	♣ 8 4 3

North opened the spade seven. What card do you lead from dummy at trick 2? In a few words state your future plan of play.

LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 39: You are West, defending against three no trump. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

DUMMY [North]
♠ 6 3 2
♦ A J 10 9 5

YOU [West]
♠ Q 10 9 8 5
♥ Q 6
♦ K 8 2
♣ K 10 7

You originally led the spade ten. Your partner played the seven, and declarer won with the jack. Now declarer leads the diamond seven. What card do you [West] play, and why?

[Answer at end of this article.]

NORTH
♦ A J 10 9 5

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 10 9 8 5	♠ 7

♦ K 8 2	♦ Q 6 3
♣ K 10 7	♣ 9 5 2

SOUTH
♥ A J 7
♣ A Q J 6

The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

This deal formed the basis of Question 39, answered below.

West opened the spade ten, which declarer took with the jack. The diamond seven was then led. West, a sound defensive player, promptly put up the king and from that point on, declarer was struggling with a lost cause. Note the dilemma he was in. If he were to play the diamond ace, that would be the last trick he ever would get from dummy and nine tricks would appear a remote chance. Under the circumstances, declarer's best play would probably be to let the diamond king hold in the hope that a subsequent finesse would produce at least two diamond tricks, by finding West with an original diamond holding of the king and queen. If this plan were adopted, declarer actually would make no diamond trick because the subsequent finesse obviously would lose to East's queen.

Note that if West had played low to the first diamond lead, the contract would have become a laydown, even if East made the best defensive play possible of holding up the diamond queen. Without that hold-up, declarer subsequently could finesse against West's king and run four diamonds. With East holding up, declarer would be assured of two diamond tricks and these, in addition to three clubs, three spades and one heart, would produce his game.

The second hand high play, under these circumstances [dummy holding no outside entry] is a standard defensive play known and greatly appreciated by all experts.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

♥ K J 6

♣ K 10 7

WEST	EAST
♠ 10 7	♠ Q 8 5 3 2

♣ Q 8 6 5	♣ 9 3 2

SOUTH
♠ 9 6 4
♥ A 10 7
♦ A 8 5 3
♣ A J 4

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

ANSWER TO LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Q. No. 39: You should play the diamond king. This is by far your best chance to "kill" dummy's suit. Declarer cannot have diamond queen—he would have led it. If you play low, declarer certainly will finesse. If partner wins with queen, declarer will then have an easy finesse against your king, and will make four diamond tricks. For the full effect of putting up diamond king, instead of low diamond, see Today's Hand, above. [No demerit for improper play. Take 25 points CREDIT for correct play, with correct reason.]

City Schools Praised as Finest by Two Women on Board

Chicago has one of the finest school systems in the world the two women members of the board of education told the education department of the Chicago Woman's club yesterday. The speakers were Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, board member for fifteen years, and Mrs. W. F. Heineman, who has been a member for six months.

Mrs. Hefferan qualified her praise by adding, "This has occurred in spite of school boards." She said that in her fifteen years there have been thirty-one changes in school board membership. "The members are not on the board long enough to know about the schools," she said.

Mrs. Heineman declared, "We have better schools than we deserve." She explained that political systems can be used by citizens to obtain their desires in the school system. "A person who doesn't know the name of his precinct captain shouldn't complain about how his government operates," she said.

Christmas Gift Buying Easy for Stay-at-Homes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If you're bothered with claustrophobia, a morbid dread of narrow spaces, no matter what the urge; if you're taking time out nursing some temporary physical disabilities, or if you're just plain lazy, you can still spend money and have Christmas gift giving fun.

The personal shopping services in nearly every store and shop are ready and eager to aid you in your desire to spend and give. Experts of many seasons' shopping for other people are prepared to listen to your hints, desires and orders either by mail, phone or telegram. The longest list holds no terror for these intrepid souls who brave the crowded shops and stores with your list in hand.

They shop as carefully, as thoughtfully as if you did the job yourself. They have an uncanny sense of the problems almost as soon as you relay your difficulties. Hard to please persons on your list are their specialty. No grumpy but important relative has to be worried about when these experts promise to perform. Diffident masculine shoppers actually shuddering over the idea of braving the torments of trying to track something down for kith and kin should pin medals on these interested pinch hit shoppers for their fine service.

So much holiday magic has been achieved by the personal shopping units that the services have outgrown their quarters. From three or four special agents equipped to render first aid for stay-at-homes or timid souls that yerned to spend but didn't dare try the stunt, these bureaus now boast as many as sixty to eighty experienced sleuths. All you have to do is reach for the nearest phone, relay your list, offer such hints as you think about or else preserve a deep, dark silence, tell the amount of money you wish to spend, order the gifts sent in plain or Christmas wrappings. Then forget about the entire business. Wait a very short time and beam over your completed Christmas shopping tied, sealed and delivered

"C" Club Members Who Keep Pledges to Get Certificates

Boys and girls who have kept their "C" club pledges of good citizenship may get certificates of merit issued by Chicago's New Century committee. They must write a letter to Mayor Kelly stating they kept the pledge of obedience, clean living, scholarship, and sportsmanship. Then they must have a parent or teacher sign the letter.

Membership in the "C" club is limited to boys and girls 17 years old or younger. A few weeks ago the citizenship pledge cards were distributed through schools and community centers. Upon signing these the children became full fledge members and received a membership button. The club was organized to promote citizenship and reduce juvenile delinquency.

Teen Age Child Often Enjoys Mature Books

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Are you trying to help your high school boys and girls to the enjoyment of good reading?

I don't mean are you trying to cure them of reading trash—that's another story for another day. But are you interested, provided they have fairly good taste in books, in suggesting or supplying them with books that are not only enjoyable reading, but also worth while reading?

One of the things I enjoy most on Saturday mornings [especially if I can get in an early cup of delicious strong coffee before the family rouses] is to read the book review section of the paper. Almost always there are half a dozen books I'd like to read if I had time, and often there are as many that I know high school boys or girls would enjoy—adult books, I mean.

Adult books are fine reading for the middle or late teens. Don't be afraid to have your child read something of which he may not understand every situation nor all the vocabulary. He's going to meet with just that in life soon, or he already has. It may lead him to ask questions of you or himself, which means it's making him think. This sort of reading is maturing, developing.

AMUSEMENTS.

Thousands Now "ALKALIZE" while they Sleep

IF YOU OVER-INDULGE TAKE "PHILLIPS'" AT BEDTIME TO WAKE UP WITH A SMILE—NO SIGN OF ACID STOMACH

Try This Way—See How Clear Your Head Feels Next Day

NEXT TIME you eat too much — smoke too much — or drink unwisely — do as thousands now do to wake up feeling like a million — that is, alkalize while you sleep.

It's so easy to do — and results are remarkable. For in this way you can relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day.

Just Do This

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water — AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel swell.

Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

Known to Thousands

That is the quick, simple and easy way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

Try this way. See how clear your head feels next day. Notice the absence of dullness and "depression" due to excess stomach acidity. You'll be amazed.

But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article — now either in liquid or handy tablets. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia — the kind many doctors endorse. Keep a bottle always handy in your home — and "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep.

GUATEMALA LAND OF BEAUTY ALONG MOUNTAIN PATHS

Ancient Capital, Antigua, Nestles Among Peaks.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUATEMALA, Nov. 25.—[By Air Mail.]—Guatemala's charm is found in its mountains. In any direction from the city the foothills can be reached in about twenty minutes.

There are many trips to interesting places in the mountains, but the most popular, and well it may be, is twenty-five miles to Antigua, the ancient capital of the kingdom of the "general capitancy" at the time of the Spanish invasion.

Antigua was founded in the year 1541, when the activities of colonization were at their height. The foremost of such activities were the carrying of the Christian religion into all parts of the vast conquered territories and the building of capitals in commanding positions.

Chose Inland Sites.

The majority of the Spanish capitals were constructed on inland sites, far removed from the coast and enjoying the benefits of pleasant climate and bracing air.

Guatemala is unusually rich in sheltered valleys and zones of pleasant climate. The conquerors seemed to have an unerring instinct for the best. Proof of this is furnished in the location of Antigua.

Oxen Yield Road to Cars.

The road is narrow and winding over the mountain and of an improved sand-clay type. Frequently the driver sounds his horn for an ox cart to give the road. All oxen are rigged up in the inefficient, inhuman Spanish style of putting the yoke around the horns instead of around the neck.

The scenery gets prettier as altitude is gained. A delightful little Swiss inn is passed on the way up. Falls, clear and straight, are noticed. They are about 100 feet high and 10 feet across.

The mountain top is 7,500 feet up. Beautiful panoramas are presented on both sides. The hills are steep and covered with heavy foliage—different shades of green with the inevitable flowers, red or yellow.

Antigua, which as capital had 10,000 inhabitants, is now a lazy Indian town of 8,000. The streets are narrow and mostly of cobblestone. The shops are few, dark, small, and dingy. They could not be called stores.

Cathedrals in Ruins.

The central square, about 200 yards on a side, has great charm. Monuments, jacaranda and cypress trees, and flowers form a background.

The chief interest of Antigua is the cathedral ruins. There are about four of them. If the Spaniards gained religious converts in proportion to their churches, they did a large job. The amount of architectural skill and effort involved is almost inconceivable. The largest cathedral, about 300 feet by 500 feet, has domes extending upward some 100 feet. The walls are 8 to 10 feet thick. Intricate patterns of the minutest detail are worked out in stone inside and out.

Earthquakes wrecked the magnificent buildings, but a good part of most of them still are standing. In fact, one is still being used for worship and another for a museum. The latter is unique. It is composed of a series of large rooms, spotlessly clean, exhibiting rare religious paintings and antiques. Surprisingly, there is not a guard or watchman around.

Dancer Gets Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MRS. MARY LOVELAND.

Mary Hannigan Loveland, who dances on the stage, was a surprised bride when her husband, Richard, left on a trip immediately after their honeymoon last June. She was hurt, she told Judge Robert C. O'Connell, when upon his return, Richard refused to tell here where he had gone.

Becoming suspicious, she said, she investigated and discovered that her husband had another wife in Freeport. She added that Richard now is facing a charge of bigamy in Freeport. Mrs. Mary Loveland, who lives at 1540 East 65th place, was granted an annulment of her marriage.

SURFACE LINES GROUPS ASK NEW MERGER BASIS

Further objections to the Shaw plan for merging the surface lines and elevated railway were filed in federal court yesterday by attorneys representing car lines securities groups. Two statements were filed. Both contended that it gives too large a participation to the elevated in a proposed unified company.

One set of objections was filed by the Citizens Transportation Association, Inc., which represents holders of several million dollars of traction securities. It was accompanied by a merger proposal prepared by Prof. Harry G. Guthmann of Northwestern university. Guthmann asserted that securities in a new company should be allotted on the basis of past and future earnings. Such a basis, according to his report, would give a much smaller allotment to the elevated than under the Shaw plan.

Representatives of the two systems continued merger negotiations in an attempt to reach an agreement before Dec. 1. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson last week said that unless an agreement is reached by Thursday he will abandon the present merger efforts and try to work out other reorganization plans to get the companies out of court.

DRIVER ACCUSED IN MAN'S DEATH AT BUS STATION

Arraignment today in the Felony court was ordered yesterday for Fred Barnes, 34 years old, of 2002 Indiana avenue, who is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Herman Herold, 75 years old. Herold was fatally injured Saturday in the bus depot at 22 West Randolph street when a Blue Bird Lines bus driven by Barnes crushed him. He died six hours later in the office of a physician at 31 North State street where he had been taken for X-rays.

The accident was not reported to police, they say, until a physician asked the police to take him to the County hospital. Deputy Coroner Ted Luber yesterday postponed the inquest to Dec. 16.

STOVE OVERHEATS; FIRES HOUSE.

An overheated stove started a fire yesterday in a frame house at 7324 South Carpenter street. Chief George Diener of the 12th battalion estimated the damage at $500.

CORONER'S JURY URGES LIGHTS AT DEATH CROSSING

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that the Grand Trunk railroad install electric flasher signals at the 115th street crossing, near Sacramento avenue, where Policeman Johan Karl Jensen and his wife, Helen, were killed Saturday by the New Yorker, the road's crack eastern flyer.

A few hours before the inquest opened a northbound freight train of the Grand Trunk railroad struck the automobile of Leon Louis, 44, of 5725 South Mason avenue, at the 55th street crossing. Louis, a butcher, was taken to the Southtown hospital in a critical condition.

An unidentified, white bearded man about 75 years old died last night in the Berwyn hospital of injuries presumably suffered when he was struck by a hit and run car. He was found on the pavement at Joliet road and 55th street, McCook.

Edward Kreusch, 16 years old, 1734 Forest avenue, Wilmette, was seriously injured last evening when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile driven by Dr. J. Major Green, 7554 North Claremont avenue, Chicago. The accident occurred at Central avenue and Green Bay road. Dr. Green told police that the boy turned in front of his car so suddenly that he was unable to avoid striking him.

Up until 4 p. m. yesterday 787 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 607 were killed in Chicago, where 18,541 were injured during the same period.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

STEERS CAR WITH HIS FEET; GETS 4 MONTHS IN JAIL

For driving while intoxicated Ray Andres, 23 years old, of Tinley Park, was sentenced yesterday to serve four months in the county jail. When Andres was arrested by Willow Springs highway police Saturday he was found to be driving without shoes and steering with his feet. Sentence was passed upon him by an old family friend, Judge George N. Blatt of Joliet, who is sitting in the County court.

"Friend or not, I must do my duty," said Judge Blatt. "Your family and mine have been friends many years and I am sorry to be put in this position. But I must think of the lives of other motorists."

FALLS FROM FREIGHT CAR; DIES.

Gus Schultz, a switchman for the Acme Steel company, died yesterday at the Roseland Community hospital of a fractured skull suffered when he fell from a freight car in the company yards at 134th and Clark streets, Riverdale. Schultz was 46 years old and lived at 216 East 136th street.

He spoke before the City club in the Sherman hotel. Contractors' bids on the section of the tunnel between Illinois street and Bellevue place will be received Thursday afternoon by Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner.

Ease CHEST COLD misery

First massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

It's got looks— and so have you!

IT makes the eye glad and grateful—you spot that the instant your gaze takes in this suave and sparkling Buick for 1939.

It's sleek and swift and businesslike, lean and clean in every line, the trim bonnet low-set, the graceful upper-structure light-and-airy looking, neat and fine.

Will you step in, please, and look it over closer?

Perhaps the first thing you'll note is the gearshift. Up off the floor and out of knee-way—under the wheel within a few inches hand-travel.

Then for a long moment your eye is caught and held by an instrument panel stunning as a jeweler's display.

But settle back—take that finger-fitting wheel in hand—imagine there's a road ahead of you, long and straight and open . . .

Why, it's almost like being in an open car, with the outlook you've got here!

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

★ DYNAFLASH VALVE-IN-HEAD STRAIGHT-EIGHT ENGINE ★ BUICOIL TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ★ GREATER VISIBILITY ★ HANDISHIFT TRANSMISSION ★ ROOMIER UNISTEEL BODY BY FISHER ★ TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE ★ TIPTOE HYDRAULIC BRAKES ★ CROWN SPRING CLUTCH ★ "CATWALK-COOLING" ★ OPTIONAL REAR AXLE GEAR RATIOS ★ FLASH-WAY DIRECTION SIGNAL ★ SELF-BANKING KNEE-ACTION FRONT SPRINGING

The ruler will tell you there are as much as 413 added square inches of safety plate glass in this Buick, but the area is not the vital thing.

These inches are placed where they count. They take away that closed-in-feeling—let in the light and the air and the open view!

It has a lot to do with making Buick beautiful, this grand expanse of openness!

And like "catwalk-cooling": radiators low where air pressure is greatest—and the lines of the bonnet: broad, clean, aerodynamically better—Buick's stepped-up visibility both sets a pattern and fills a function.

JUST FLIP A SWITCH with the new Flash-Way signal to tell following cars which way you're going to turn. Shows day or night, operates from a small lever on gearshift, looks like a neat monogram when not in use. Standard on all models.

You'll like this marvelously good car—the way it handles, the way it behaves, the way it stands up to the job, the way it leaves you cool and unwearied at the journey's end.

It's one thing among many that Buick's got that you'll want in your next automobile.

STRATTON'S LEG AMPUTATED ABOVE KNEE

SO. CALIFORNIA, DUKE TO MEET IN ROSE BOWL

Blue Devils Accept Trojans' Bid.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—It will be Duke versus Southern California in the Tournament of Roses football game Jan. 2 in Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl.

Southern California officials made the announcement tonight a few hours after the Pacific Coast conference had voted the Trojans the honor of playing for the west in the annual game and Duke had accepted an invitation by long distance telephone to represent the east.

Duke and Texas Christian were the two choices of the Trojans before the final decision. Tennessee had been eliminated because the Volunteers have another game to play Saturday and Southern California desired to select an opposing team immediately.

Fifth Time for Trojans.

It was shortly before noon today that Prof. Hugh Willett of Southern California, president of the Pacific Coast conference, informed Willis C. Hunter, director of athletics, that the telegraphic vote had put the cardinal and gold in the Rose Bowl for the fifth time.

Tied with California for the conference championship, the Trojans practically clinched the nomination last Thursday when they ran over U. C. L. A., 42 to 7. The Bears had beaten U. C. L. A., 20 to 7, earlier in the season, but were trounced in turn by the Trojans, 13 to 7. Southern California's only conference loss was to Washington, 7 to 6.

Trojans Promise a Battle.

"The University of Southern California appreciates the honor conferred upon it by the Pacific Coast conference in being selected for the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena Jan. 2. We are proud of the record made by our teams there and I am sure Coach Howard Jones and the Trojan players will do their level best to see that the far west makes a strong showing at Pasadena.

"The general athletic committee of the university is pleased to announce that Duke university of Durham, N. C., has been selected to represent the east. It has always been the aim of the Pacific Coast conference and Tournament of Roses officials to perpetuate the east-west idea, which was born with the origin of this annual classic.

"Duke's football record of being undefeated, untied, and unscored on in nine games is unequaled by that of any other major team in the nation."

ALL DURHAM CELEBRATES.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—This city of 50,000 went wild tonight when word spread that Duke's unbeaten, untied, and unscored-upon football team had been selected to play Southern California in the Rose Bowl game.

Duke students, led by the sixty piece Blue Devil band, marched from the campus through downtown streets amid whoops and yells.

It will be the fifth football trip to California for Coach Wallace Wade, who made his first excursion to the west coast Rose Bowl game as a guard on the Brown university team in 1916. Later, as a coach, he took three Alabama teams to Pasadena, gaining two victories and a tie.

HEY, MR. HALAS: YOU CAN HAVE STAGG FIELD

The present consists of the use of Stagg field, home of the university's Maroons, as well as the services of Coach Clark Shaughnessy, cheerleaders and student spectators.

The editorial in the Maroon begins by expressing the belief that intercollegiate football at the university eventually will be abolished and that college policies will become more frankly commercial, so teams will be given a decent cut of the profits to the ultimate credit of Alma Mater.

The Daily Maroon will suggest the turning over of Stagg field to the Bears on the following basis:

"The Bears need a home. Professional football teams have been discussing housing problems of late. We offer the Bears Stagg field, complete with sentimental attachments, for a paltry 10 per cent of the gate receipts. With this retaining fee, we can subsidize informal athletics and build up a program of lasting value to the participants. In this way, Stagg field will be disposed of easily, the more easily since we offer a coach as an added attraction. The Bears have been using Shaughnessy's plays all season, and Halas reputedly wants Shaughnessy as a coach.

"The Bears will have the services of a complete cheering section as well as cheerleaders."

IOWA PLANS BIG RECEPTION FOR ANDERSON TODAY

New Coach to Confer on Makeup of Staf.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Anderson, who succeeds Irl Tubbs, formerly of Miami university in Florida, has signed a three year contract with Iowa, it was officially announced today. He will submit his choice of assistants to the board at tomorrow's meeting and accompany E. G. Schroeder, athletic director, to Chicago this week-end for the Big Ten meeting.

May Keep Old Aids.

Anderson's assistants are expected to be Joe Sheeketski, former Notre Dame half back, and Jim Harris, former Notre Dame guard, who were his helpers at Holy Cross, where Anderson coached for six years.

Anderson's appointment had been expected on the Iowa campus for the last week, following substantiation of a rumor that Tubbs would be deposed. His selection is expected to be a popular one with Iowa fans, who have been eager to see a Notre Dame coach at the Hawkeye institution for a number of years. Anderson also will gain support from the fact that he is an Iowa boy.

Starred in High School.

He began his football career at Mason City, where he was a football star in high school before he went to Notre Dame to play with George Gipp under Knute Rockne in 1918, 1919, 1920, and 1921.

Following his graduation from Notre Dame, where he won seven letters in football and basketball, he became coach at Columbia college in Dubuque. Three years later he moved to De Paul university in Chicago, dividing his time between coaching and completing study for his medical degree at Rush Medical school. From De Paul he went to Holy Cross, where his teams won forty-seven games, lost seven, and tied four in six seasons. Holy Cross' only defeat this year was a 7 to 6 setback by Carnegie Tech.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 28.—This announcement probably will move the boys in the city room to boisterous flights of laughter, but the Wake is going on a vacation. It always has been puzzling to this department to understand just why it is so screamingly funny for a sports writer to take a little time off, but invariably some guy in another section of the paper pops up with that time worn inquiry, "Which vacation is this, your summer or winter one?" For some unaccountable reason this brings the sub-editors and copy readers from the Metro and Sunday departments to their feet, in a rousing hysteria of ridicule. As we have pointed out before, it can't be envy, so it must be ignorance. All intelligent people know there is nothing soft about a job in sport. Why, there are days when a fellow has to listen to men like George Halas or George Marshall for two or three hours at a time telling you why the Redskins should have licked the Bears, or vice versa, as we say, when the ladies are present, although heaven only knows what they say when we aren't around. And consider what a terrific ordeal it is to have Joe Lipp explain for hours at a time how he had nothing to do with Referee Johnny Getchell's "fourth down" decision in the Notre Dame-Carnegie game. Those fellows in the local room don't know what work is.

This has been a particularly trying year in sports. We happen to know that five sport copy readers lost their minds trying to figure out the Big Ten football standings, if certain events transpired on the last Saturday of the conference campaign. While this is not looked upon as a serious handicap to a sports copy reader, there are times when it is embarrassing. However, we don't mind climbing up to press boxes around the country and observing the leading sporting events from preferred locations at no cost whatever, because some one must carry the brunt and happily we are soldiers of the masses, and as for the guys in the city room—nertz. At any rate this is the last Wake for two weeks, which no doubt will come as welcome news to the readers.

CREIGHTON AND HANDLER RESIGN AS CARD COACHES

Quit When Team Fails to Reach Expectations.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Milan Creighton and his assistant, Phil Handler, resigned yesterday as coaches of the Chicago Cardinals. Charles W. Bidwill, owner of the club, announced acceptance of the resignations following disbanding of the squad which ended its worst season since 1933, with a 31 to 17 victory over Cleveland on Sunday.

No decision has been reached on a successor, Bidwill said. Several nationally known coaches, from both professional and collegiate ranks, are under consideration for the post to which Creighton was elevated as playing coach in 1935. Handler, also a former Cardinal star, became assistant to Creighton in 1936.

A Turbulent Chapter.

Creighton's resignation climaxes another turbulent chapter in Cardinal history, a chapter replete with disappointments, puzzling circumstances, and inexplicable conclusions, many of which were blamed, unjustly perhaps, on the young coach.

After starring at end for Arkansas for three years, Creighton came to the Cardinals in 1931. He played regularly until 1935 when he was named to succeed Paul O. Schissler. Inheriting a team that finished fourth in the Western division of the National league with five victories against six defeats, he provided the Cardinals with a new offense and kept them in the championship fight until the last game of the season. Needing a victory over the Bears to tie Detroit for the division title, the Cardinals lost that game, 13 to 0, and finished in a tie for third with the Bears.

Bring in New Material.

The showing was encouraging, however, and it appeared that the Cardinals were on the upbeat. New material was brought in, several old timers who resented Creighton's elevation from the ranks to a position of authority over them and who had complicated his task, were dismissed and plans laid for a successful season in 1936. But in 1936 a series of puzzling setbacks began to plague the Cardinals and from then on down through the present season the club has been unable to shake off a jinx that overrode all the assets in playing personnel and schedule shifting Creighton's efforts had provided.

This series of misfortunes was climaxed this year by the loss of nine games in eleven starts.

Creighton Issues Statement.

Nine defeats for a team which had the finest ends in football in Gaynell Tinsley and Bill Smith, the league's outstanding corps of passers in Dwight Sloan, Jack Robbins, and Pat Coffee, excellent blockers in Frank Patrick and Buddy Parker, and what is described by rivals as the best rounded personnel in the league left professional football followers at a loss for an explanation. Creighton provided some of the explanation in his statement of resignation:

"I resign as head coach of the Cardinals," he said, "because I feel a change will be beneficial to me as well as to the team. The team played good enough ball to win eight games this year, but breaks and one thing and another went against us.

"Two men, Gaynell Tinsley and Pat Coffee, due to early season illness, were unable to hit their stride until the season was nearly over. Tinsley reported to the training camp with a cross infection in his back and was in the hospital for three weeks. Coffee, suffering from acute indigestion, reported fifteen pounds underweight.

Friendly with Bidwill.

"In leaving the Cardinals, I do so with the friendliest of feelings toward Mr. Bidwill and the squad; my association with Mr. Bidwill nas been a pleasant one throughout the four years I have coached his team. He has been one of my firmest supporters and one of the first to encourage me when things were going tough for the team and I hope that my successor will be able to give him a championship team next year.

"I definitly intend to continue in

Plowboy to Mound Ace Is Story of Stratton's Career

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Gripping a plow handle is all right in its way, although there is nothing spectacular or comforting about a mule's tail swishing in the face of the gripper. Holding and throwing a baseball is far more satisfactory.

The lad who made this discovery and moved from the Texas cotton fields to major league comforts is Monty Stratton, who until his right leg was amputated last night, as the result of a wound inflicted by accidental discharge of his pistol, was rated among the truly great mound workers of the American league.

The gangling kid who towers 6 feet 5 inches into the sky with very little horizontal displacement, a born Texan slightly Indian on his mother's side, was further proof that great pitchers aren't found on the main highways. You have to go up the side roads.

Monty Had to Labor.

Monty, reared by environment to be a tiller of the soil, but cunningly planned by nature to be a pitcher, was born May 21, 1912, on a 104 acre farm near Celeste, Tex. It wasn't many years before he began to appreciate his life was to be pretty strenuous. His dad died, leaving his mother the sole proprietor of the premises. Monty, by this time of high school age and the proud possessor of a baseball glove, had to lend a hand to the chores. There were cattle, a cotton and a grain patch needing constant attention.

That was back around 1925-'26 and the farm work was so steady Monty appeared at Wagner High in Celeste only during slack periods. But he always seemed able to arrange his farm duties to permit his showing up on days when the school nine was booked for combat. This went on for several years, the teachers being lenient, but Monty finally decided he'd have to surrender his baseball dream and concentrate on farming.

He Wins His First Start.

Monty—that's his full name—wasn't able to carry through his retirement from school and baseball. Some of his school mates visited the farm, informed him there was a big battle coming up with a high school team in a nearby town and that he had to assist as a pitcher. He never had pitched but he did that afternoon and he won the game. That happened in the spring of 1928.

By the following spring Stratton's fame had spread through the countryside. For two years he was in demand for Sunday games, at a price. He pitched for semi-pro outfits in Celeste, McKinney and Quinlan. A team came down from Leonard to Celeste and the 6 foot farm boy whipped the visitors. What he displayed that afternoon made the Leonard boys go home talking to themselves. What they said reached the ears of Jockie Tate, a former Texas leaguer, who always had a blank contract handy in case something good suddenly turned up.

The Lad Turns Pro.

It was a year later before Tate caught up with his man. A team was organized at Greenville, Tex., and Monty was the pitcher. Tate showed up with a contract. Stratton listened to the scout's persuasive talk and when the Greenville team had to disband because of lack of patronage, the gem hunter promised the young man employment for 1933 at Van Alsten, Tex., in the Red River Valley league.

Stratton was a winner from the jump, and in due time there appeared a gentleman bearing a Galveston Texas league contract. The gentleman was a White Sox scout, but the contract had been fixed up by Billy Webb, then the Galveston manager, and now a Sox coach.

When Monty went to Galveston in 1934 it was his first view of a Texas league park, but it didn't stump him. Webb started him off as a relief man and he exceeded all expectations. He pitched a string of eighteen scoreless innings.

The Scouts Are Disappointed.

Major league scouts came rushing in to grab the prize, but the White Sox had helped the Galveston team with players, so had first call. If other big league outfits wanted Monty, the Sox officials decided it might be well not to hesitate. They paid $1,200 for his release and took him to Chicago in May, 1934. By this time he had developed a swell underhand sinker and his high school curve had improved 1,000 per cent. He credits Webb with giving him a lot of pointers during his brief stop in Galveston.

Loses Leg

MONTY STRATTON.

The Sox used Stratton in a game shortly after he reported, but he needed experience, so on June 9 of the same year he was optioned to Omaha, where he finished the season with a mark of nine victories and as many losses. When he went to Omaha he was a sapling, weighing 175 pounds, not much for his height, but at the end of the season he was a portly fellow of 205 pounds. Eventually, all except ten pounds of this excess vanished.

He Pleases the Saints.

Stratton was taken to the Sox' Pasadena, Cal., camp in 1935 and while there showed enough to warant his retention but developed a severe charley horse, so the club had to make room for another man. Stratton was farmed out to St. Paul, where he was such a sensation that he was recalled for the last month of the season. He won one game and lost two for the Sox. At St. Paul he had won eighteen against nine defeats.

When the Sox completed their 1936 spring work Stratton was a finished product. He was one of the regular starters and won his first game as proof that Manager Jim Dykes hadn't errored in his judgment. Misfortune soon began to crowd the lad. The season wasn't a month old before his tonsils started to kick up a disturbance. While the doctors were working to get these in shape so that they could be removed, Monty came down with appendicitis. The appendix was removed and when he recovered from the shock the tonsils were yanked. He didn't pitch until the last few weeks of the season. Even without him the Sox finished only a half game out of second place.

One Mishap After Another.

The season of 1937 added more grief to Stratton's ill-fated career. Early in August, his arm weakened in the seventh inning of a game at New York and he was forced to retire. He finished the season with a record of fifteen victories and five defeats. Before his arm went lame, he had been crippled by a turned ankle, an accident which forced him to forego the annual All-Star game for which he had been named. His place on the All-Star team was taken by Vernon Kennedy.

The 1938 training trip hadn't been completed before Stratton was back on the invalid list. In an exhibition game against the Cubs at Los Angeles last March, he pulled an arm muscle, on the same day Shortstop Luke Appling suffered a fractured ankle. He wasn't able to resume pitching for more than a month after the season had opened, but he won fifteen games. Later he turned an ankle while chasing flies in the outfield.

Prep Players Pick Own Positions; Win 40 to 0

Belleville, Kas., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—In their last game of the year Coach Avy Masterson told the Belleville High school first team, nine seniors and two freshmen, to play any place they wanted. The quarter back went to center, ends to the back field, tackles to ends. Belleville beat Concordia, 40 to 0. It was the team's largest score all season.

OPERATE TO STOP SPREAD OF GANGRENE

Sox Star Undergoes Transfusions.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Monty Stratton, star of the Chicago White Sox pitching staf, underwent the amputation of his right leg tonight, following a bullet wound inflicted when his revolver accidentally discharged in its holster yesterday while he was target shooting on his mother's farm near Greenville, Tex.

The operation, which removed the leg above the knee, was decided upon suddenly after the doctors had expressed the belief that the 25 year old athlete had a chance for a complete, rapid recovery.

Stratton had shown great improvement earlier in the day as the result of a series of blood transfusions administered after he had been rushed to St. Paul hospital here.

Artery Is Severed.

Stratton was placed under an anesthetic at 4:10 o'clock and was returned to his room at 5:20 o'clock. The nurse in charge described his condition as being as "well as could be expected." Shortly after the operation he was given another transfusion.

Blood for the transfusions was given by two of his seven brothers, Hardin and Roland.

Three doctors were in attendance at the operation, after which Dr. Arthur E. Thomasson said:

"The bullet has severed the femoral artery. The artery was tied, but collateral circulation failed to set up and gangrene set in. The leg began to turn black this morning, making the operation imperative."

Dr. Thomasson said Stratton's condition appeared satisfactory, although it still was critical and it would require another twenty-four hours to determine how he would respond. Barring complications, he said, Stratton should recover.

Injured Visiting Mother.

Later tonight, after Stratton had come out from under the anesthetic, Dr. Thomasson reported the stricken star was resting well and that there was no immediate danger of any more serious consequences, although Stratton was weak from the loss of blood.

The accident, which brought to a tragic end one of the most promising pitching careers in baseball, occurred eight miles northwest of Greenville, Stratton's home. He had gone to the farm of his mother, Mrs. L. D. Stratton, to spend the week-end.

Late Sunday he went target shooting half a mile from the house. A rabbit jumped up ahead and Stratton took a shot at it. In replacing the .32 caliber automatic pistol in a belt holster the weapon discharged, the bullet entering below the hip and coursing down behind the knee.

Wife at Bedside.

Stratton crawled within hailing distance of the house along a private road. His shouts attracted his wife, Ethel, who discovered him weak from the loss of blood 250 yards from the house. She picked him up in the family automobile and rushed him to the hospital.

Surgeons removed the bullet from his leg and tied off the femoral artery, but were apprehensive over the prospects of saving the leg. At that time his condition was reported as being extremely critical because of loss of blood and calls were sent out for donors for transfusions. His brothers responded.

Mrs. Stratton and her son, Monty Jr., who was 1 year old today, were in constant attendance at the pitcher's bedside throughout the night and today. Mrs. Stratton was arranging to remain at the bedside tonight, awaiting the crisis, which Dr. Thomasson expected within the next twenty-four hours.

KRIEGER IS DEALT DEFEAT BY CONN, BUT KEEPS 'TITLE'

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 28. — (AP) — Solly Krieger, National Boxing association middleweight champion, dropped a decision in a 12 round nontitle fight tonight to young Billy Conn of Pittsburgh. It was Krieger's first bout since taking the title from Al Hostak in Seattle.

Conn, who weighed 165¼ pounds, outpunched the New Yorker, who weighed in at 163, most of the way to even up for a previous defeat at Krieger's hands.

The 21 year old Conn had met three former middleweight champions—Vince Dundee, Babe Risko, and Teddy Yarosz—and a former welterweight title holder—Young Corbett II.—before he was 20. He beat Yarosz twice and lost one decision to him and lost to the other ex-champions.

S-S-H! DON'T LET GOTTSELIG KNOW CUP PLAY'S OVER

Johnny Keeps Up Pace He Set in Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Russian Johnny Gottselig, hero of the Blackhawks, thinks the Stanley cup playoffs still are going on. And please, if you are a friend of his, a friend of the Hawks, a Chicago hocky fan, or all three, please don't wake him up. It's wonderful the way Johnny's been riding around on the clouds—wonderful for Johnny and life saving for the Hawks.

Gottselig and the Hawks got back from New York late yesterday afternoon and right away everybody was asking if Johnny was feeling in shape to beat the Detroit Red Wings here Thursday night. If Johnny's only accomplishment had been scoring the run with which the Hawks beat the ferocious Rangers Sunday night, perhaps folks wouldn't be gurgling so much about Gottselig. But the skinny gent, who is as much of an old fashioned rover as a member of any line, has been the main offensive artist in most of the Hawk games since the playoffs started last spring.

Leads League Scoring.

Gottselig now is leading the National league scorers with six goals and six assists. In nine games this season he has scored 12 points and has made within one of half the number of goals he made in the entire regular season of forty-eight games last year. Last season Johnny made thirteen goals and nineteen assists.

In the season opener, which the Hawks won from the Americans, 6 to 1, Gottselig started mildly enough, contributing one goal. Against the Leafs in Toronto two nights later Gottselig set up the first goal in a 2 to 0 Chicago victory, when he passed to Mush March 52 seconds before the close of the game. The Hawks scored again in the final minute of play.

Sets Fast Pace.

The next night in Montreal, the Hawks won, 3 to 2. Gottselig assisted Joffre Desilets in the first Chicago goal.

In the Hawks' second home game, against the Canadiens Nov. 13, Gottselig executed what is known in hocky as "the hat trick," the scoring of three goals by one player. The Hawks won, 4 to 3. Johnny was the first Chicago player to do the hat trick before a home crowd in eight seasons. Three years ago, however, Johnny made four goals against the Americans in a New York game.

In the Hawks' third home game Gottselig, like all the other Hawks, scored no points. The Rangers won, 1 to 0, the champs' first defeat of the season. In the fourth home game Gottselig gave the Hawks a lead with a goal in the first period, Toronto tied the score in the second period and the game ended a 1 to 1 tie.

Continues to Get Points.

Last Thursday the Hawks were shocked by a 4 to 2 licking at the hands of the confused Red Wings. Gottselig, however, had assists on both the Chicago goals.

Last Saturday night the Americans, who had been licked here, 6 to 1, returned the compliment by socking the Hawks, 6 to 4. But the Americans couldn't keep Gottselig out of the point column. He assisted in two of the Chicago scores.

Sunday the Hawks faced the very tough Rangers in New York, with a record of ten points scored against them in two of the three games on the trip. Things didn't look very promising as the Hawks went against the Rangers on the New York rink, the same rink on which they had lost, 6 to 4, the night previous. For two periods and 18:37 of the third period the Hawks held the Rangers to a scoreless tie. Then our hero took a pass from Desilets and slammed in the goal that put the Hawks back at the top of the National league, tied with the Boston Bruins and the Americans.

the coaching profession. I feel that my teams have always looked well on the field and have been well grounded in the fundamentals of football. I naturally would like to make some other connection in the National league, but if I am not successful I look forward with a great deal of enthusiasm to entering the collegiate field of coaching. I am already considering several college coaching positions and I feel my eight years of football experience as a player and coach of the professional field will give me an excellent background for any position I might accept."

Statement by Bidwill.

In announcing acceptance of the resignation, Bidwill said:

"I regret the severance of what to me has been a pleasant association with Milan Creighton. I accept his resignation reluctantly. However, I realize from the start that I put Creighton on the spot when I made him head coach of a team that was made up of players he had played with. I wish Milan the best of luck because I have the highest regard for him as a man and a coach."

Among the men Bidwill is said to have under consideration are Ernie Nevers, a former Cardinal star who coached the... for several years; Dr. Clarence Spears, former Minnesota, Wisconsin and Oregon coach now at Toledo University; Dutch Clark, star Detroit quarterback, who has been head coach of the Lions for two years, and Paddy Driscoll, another former Cardinal star, who aided Creighton during the latter part of the 1936 season and who now is head coach at Marquette.

Red Top Entry Takes $500 Stallion Stake

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Kalarama King, owned by Irving S. Florsheim, won the first stake of the live stock exposition's horse show last night in the International amphitheater. It was a $500 event which brought out a field of eight stallions.

By this victory Kalarama King added another spark to the brilliant rivalry between his owner's Red Top farm and the Frances M. Dodge stables, property of Mrs. James B. Johnson Jr. These two exhibitors were tied with six blue ribbons apiece at the end of last night's performance.

A Gratifying Victory.

The stake victory must have been particularly gratifying to Mr. Florsheim, for two of his horses which had won blue ribbons in Saturday night's events had subsequently been beaten by Dodge entries in Sunday afternoon competition.

Mr. Florsheim, whose Red Top farm is located near Libertyville, got away to a good start in the show with three victories on opening night Saturday, when competition was restricted to Chicago exhibitors. Snuffy Smith, a chestnut gelding, and Lovely Venus, a black mare, earned him blue ribbons in three-gaited saddle horse events and Hazelene's Dream won for him in the five-gaited division.

Snuffy Smith Again.

Then on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Johnson, who is the former Frances M. Dodge, sent her Michigan horses into the ring and quickly ran up three victories to tie the score. Her Top of the Town won a three-gaited event in which Mr. Florsheim's Lovely Venus was unplaced and her Harmony Lane scored in a five-gaited competition in which Red Top's Hazelene's Dream was unplaced. Then a tandem composed of Glenavon Reveler and Fleetwood Verbena took a third ribbon for her.

Then Snuffy Smith again took his owner into the lead by winning another three gaited event Sunday evening, after which a Shetland pony tandem composed of Artist's Model and Model's Delight gave Red Top a 5 to 3 advantage.

Mrs. Johnson answered with her harness horse paid, Honeysuckle Rose and Fleetwood Verbena in a later event on the same program and went on last night to tie the score when Fleetwood Creation and King Fusee won a harness pony prize. She moved into a 6 to 5 lead a few minutes later by sending out Shalimer, a chestnut gelding, to take a harness horse ribbon.

Beats Fine Field.

That was how things stood when those eight fashionable horses pranced into the ring for the $500 stallion stake. The Dodge stables weren't represented, but Red Top's Kalarama King encountered some mighty formidable competition from Irving Ellis' King of the Highlands, Fred M. Townsend's King Baron and a number of other high class performers.

The horse was required to do the walk, running walk, canter, rack, and trot. The judges studied them for conformation, style, manners, and many other fine points. At last they gave the blue ribbon to the Red Top representative, with King of the Highlands second. Summaries:

Bonus Soothes Thompson in Hocky Trade

Boston, Mass., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The feelings of Cecil [Tiny] Thompson, the National Hocky league's star goalie, were soothed by a $1,000 bonus today when he learned that he had been sold by the Boston Bruins to the Detroit Red Wings for $15,000 and another player.

Before heading into the midwest to report to Jack Adams, the Detroit manager, Thompson said:

"As far as I am concerned, being traded by Boston to Detroit is a break for me. I should last a few more years there than I would in Boston and when I get to Detroit I'll be among such friends as Owner Jim Norris, Manager Jack Adams, and my old teammate, Marty Barry."

Brimsek Is Recalled.

When he announced Thompson's sale to Detroit, one of the most important transactions in National Hocky league history, Manager Art Ross said that he would recall 23 year old Frank Brimsek from Providence of the International-American Hocky league to take over the Bruins' net.

After summoning Brimsek from Providence, Ross announced that he had obtained Nick Damore of the Hershey, Pa., club as a replacement for the former. Damore is 22 years old and has been playing hocky for four years with the Hershey club in the Eastern Amateur league. He signed a professional contract last month and, according to Ross was the Providence team's choice of a number of goalies the Boston club was in a position to offer.

Thompson, whose home is in Vancouver, is the only National Hocky league goalie to win four Georges Vezina trophies in the league's history. The award is made annually to that major circuit's outstanding goalie. Thompson, who served nine seasons with the Bruins, played on one Stanley cup winning team and on five that won the league's American division title.

SMITH MAY BE THROUGH.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Goalie Cecil [Tiny] Thompson figuratively walked in one door to the Detroit Red Wings' bailiwick today while the Wings' veteran netminder Norm Smith left by the other—and presumably from major league hocky for good.

The $15,000 plus a player deal with Boston whereby Manager Jack Adams of Detroit tried to put the Red Wings back into the National Hocky league race apparently meant an exit from hocky for Smith, who wants only to play with Detroit.

Smith, star in Detroit's two Stanley cup victories, was suspended recently for missing a train, and he refused to go to the Pittsburgh Hornets, Detroit's farm club, when young Harvey Teno was brought here in his place.

Now that Thompson is coming to Detroit, Smith's status is more uncertain. He insisted anew tonight he never would leave Detroit to play with another team. He has a position here with an industrial firm.

JOYCE, BARBARA WIN DECISIONS ON GARY CARD

Willie Joyce took an eight round decision from Sammy Scully and Johnny Barbara whipped Bobby La Monte in another eight round bout in co-features of the professional boxing card presented in the Gary armory last night. A crowd of 1,500 saw the bouts.

Babe Ruth Is Offered Job as Jai Alai Manager

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth, abandoned by baseball, today was offered a job as manager of the jai alai games at the Hippodrome at what was described by officials as "a salary calling for as much as the Babe got from the Brooklyn Dodgers last summer," which was $15,000. Ruth has been a frequent Hippodrome visitor ever since the game started there Sept. 8, and has tried his hand at the sport with some success.

MICHIGAN MEN VOTE HEIKKINEN MOST VALUABLE

The Honor Roll

FIVE Western conference football teams have named their most valuable players. The athletes now become candidates for The Tribune award which is given to the most valuable player of the entire conference. The choices follow:

Illinois—James Hodges, guard.
Purdue—Joe Mihal, tackle.
Indiana—Robert Haak, tackle.
Minnesota—Larry Buhler, full back.
Michigan—Ralph Heikkinen, guard.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Ralph I. Heikkinen, Michigan's star guard, for the second year, today was named his team's most valuable player and candidate for the Chicago Tribune award to the Western conference's most valuable player.

Heikkinen is the first player in Michigan history to be so honored two years in a row.

He's a Fine Play Analyst.

Lacking many of the physical assets of a great linesman—he weighs only 180 pounds and is only 5 feet 10 inches tall—Heikkinen has more than compensated for those deficiencies with an aggressiveness and an alertness which stamp him as one of the three or four greatest guards in Michigan football history.

Although he has a great offensive and defensive charge, Heikkinen's success has been attributed to his vast football intelligence. Clarence

RALPH HEIKKINEN.

Munn, Michigan line coach and himself an All-American guard and winner of the Tribune award at Minnesota, in terming Heikkinen "the greatest guard I have ever seen play" said he has been "amazed by Heikkinen's analysis of play, from the bench and during a game."

Heikkinen has been a key man in the Wolverine line which largely was responsible for the most successful team record since 1933. Offensively he has been a formidable blocker and defensively a standout.

These Teams Remember Him.

His best performances came this year against Michigan's strongest opponents, Minnesota, Northwestern, and Ohio State, as he bolstered defense and led the offensive in each.

Heikkinen, who failed to win a varsity letter as a sophomore because of injuries and illness, will coach next year, preparatory to entering law school for the training which he hopes will eventually lead him to public office.

Duck Hunting in State Ends in Winter Setting

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois duck hunters stacked their water fowl guns last night, for the season on ducks and geese closed yesterday afternoon at 4 p. m. in a winter setting of ice coated marshes. The wintry blast that swept over Illinois the night before Thanksgiving day and continued through the week-end made it difficult for even the ducks to keep some of their favorite water holes open and forced the shooters to don their heaviest clothing for their vigil in the blinds.

This cold snap sent thousands of Illinois river ducks south. Before the temperature dropped they were finding it none too easy to get food in the cornfields. When the ice came many of them were willing to call it a season and head for a more pleasant part of the country.

We were lucky in having a perfect ringside seat for the winter finish to this year's duck hunting season. We were at Cuba Island, the duck shooting marsh owned by L. H. Barkhausen along the lower Sangamon river. This marsh area came through the freezing temperatures with enough water holes open to attract the greenheads. And how the birds were looking for this open water!

On Saturday morning when the temperature was low, a cold northwestern wind was blowing and snow was whipping through willow trees near our blind, the mallards came down out of the sky to the open water in front of us as if they were glad to see it. We could look out across the marsh to what later proved to be another hole kept open by the birds. The ducks told us where it was. They swung low over that part of the marsh, circled a couple of times, and then down they went. Bill Barkhausen and Buck Storey of Milwaukee hiked over to this hole, squatted in the tall grass at the edge of it, and picked up eighteen mallards during a snappy morning hunt.

WELL, WELL, WELL! SO YOU ARE UNCLE STYMIE- OF COURSE I ALWAYS HAD A PICTURE OF YOU IN MY MIND- BUT-HUMPH! A SMALL PICTURE, I DARE SAY.
YES-UGH--- BUT WHERE IS THAT CHARMING WIFE OF YOURS? I MUST MEET HER, UNCLE STYMIE.
WIFE? I HAVE NO WIFE.
BUT I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO MARRY YOUR NURSE.
SO DID SHE. BUT I AM ONE PLUSHBOTTOM THAT HAS ENOUGH SENSE TO KEEP AWAY FROM THE MARRIAGE DEPARTMENT WHEN I GO SHOPPING IN THE BUREAU OF LICENSES.

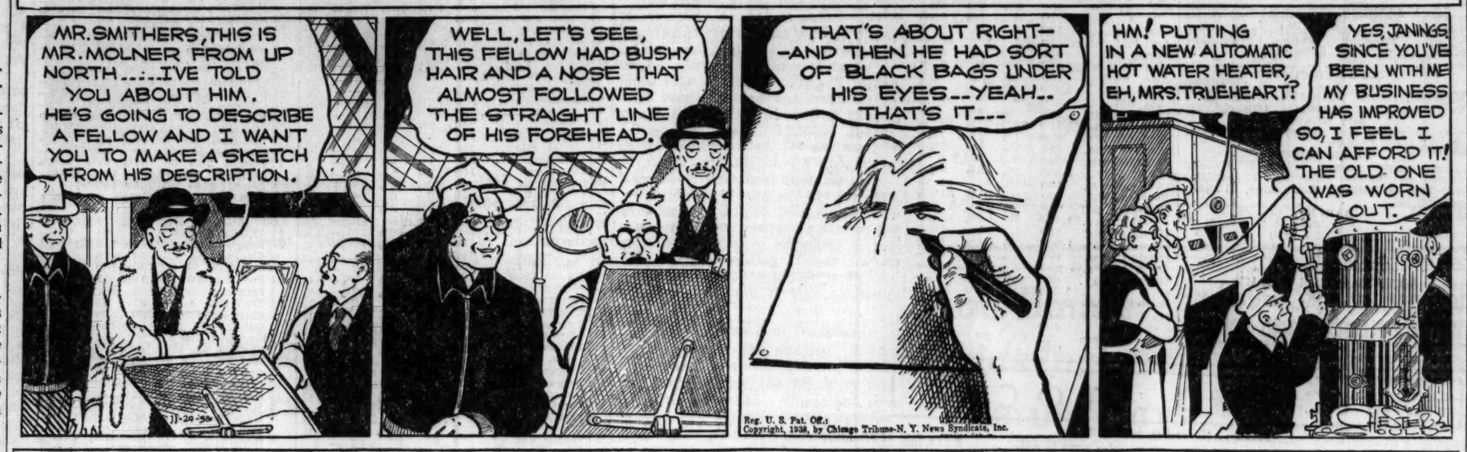
DICK TRACY—Art Class



MR. SMITHERS, THIS IS MR. MOLNER FROM UP NORTH....I'VE TOLD YOU ABOUT HIM. HE'S GOING TO DESCRIBE A FELLOW AND I WANT YOU TO MAKE A SKETCH FROM HIS DESCRIPTION.
WELL, LET'S SEE, THIS FELLOW HAD BUSHY HAIR AND A NOSE THAT ALMOST FOLLOWED THE STRAIGHT LINE OF HIS FOREHEAD.
THAT'S ABOUT RIGHT— -AND THEN HE HAD SORT OF BLACK BAGS UNDER HIS EYES...YEAH.. THAT'S IT---
HM! PUTTING IN A NEW AUTOMATIC HOT WATER HEATER, EH, MRS. TRUEHEART?
YES, JANINGS, SINCE YOU'VE BEEN WITH ME MY BUSINESS HAS IMPROVED SO, I FEEL I CAN AFFORD IT! THE OLD ONE WAS WORN OUT.

TED COX QUITS AS COACH AT OKLAHOMA A.-M.

Stillwater, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Ted Cox resigned tonight as head football coach of Oklahoma A. and M. college at the end of his third and most disastrous season.

Henry P. Iba, director of athletics, said the college athletic cabinet had accepted the resignation.

"My plans for the future are indefinite," Cox said. He declined further comment.

Neither Iba nor members of the athletic cabinet would comment on Cox's probable successor.

Cox's 1938 team ended the season here Saturday by losing to the University of Oklahoma, 19 to 0. It was the eighth defeat of the year for the Aggies, who won only two games. The team lost all four of its Missouri Valley conference contests.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 28.—(AP)—America's touring A. A. U. basketball team lost its first game in Argentina last night, falling before the Boca Juniors, 38 to 33.

PRICES OF HOGS DIP SHARPLY IN OTHER MARKETS

Receipts Heavy at Chief Packing Centers.

A severe decline in the market for hogs at many leading packing centers occurred yesterday as a result of the deluge of stock shipped direct to packers and to open markets not effected by strikes. Farmers were anxious to capitalize on the recent rise, which resulted from the competition among Chicago buyers on other markets last week.

Chicago packers continued to send large buying orders into all open markets and many sent buyers out into the country and to small yards to get supplies. No buying was done inside the stock yards at Chicago, where live stock handlers are on strike, but slaughtering by packers was normal.

Had Reached High Level.

Markets easily accessible to Chicago were run up to a relatively high price position late in the week under brisk competition. Such points were overloaded with hogs yesterday and prices collapsed.

St. Paul received 35,000 hogs, one of the largest supplies in many years. This compared with 13,176 for the preceding Monday and 6,463 a year ago. Prices there fell 40 to 60 cents per hundred pounds. The top dropped to $7.50, from $7.90 on Saturday and $8.10 last Friday.

Other principal markets were equally well supplied. St. Louis reported 23,000 hogs, compared with 13,100 a week ago and 9,600 a year ago. Prices there fell 5 to 15 cents, with the top at $7.85.

Under Pressure of Big Run.

Top hogs at Indianapolis dropped 25 cents to $8.00, under pressure of 15,000 hogs, against 8,800 a week ago and 7,500 a year ago. At Sioux City, where the supply was 13,000, compared with 8,800 on Monday last week, and 3,500 a year ago, the top tumbled 20 cents to $7.35, the lowest point on the "market map."

Cattle at the outside points sold steady to strong compared with last week's close. Sheep and lambs were strong to 25 cents higher.

WHEAT GAINS, CORN SAGS

Spreading operations between the December and May deliveries of wheat and corn accounted for the bulk of trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices swung within a range of ½ cent on wheat and ¾ cent a bushel on corn. Wheat futures closed unchanged to ¾ cent higher. Corn was ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel lower.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Live Stock Housed

November 28, 1938.

STORMY weather during the last week has made it necessary to house the herds and flocks at the experimental farms. Doors of the cattle barn were thrown open to the forty-two Hereford steers at the Du Page county farm last Friday for the first time. The breeding ewes now are running in the sheep barn.

The steers have been in an open woodland pasture since they were brought to the farm about the middle of August. Most of the time the feeders have kept hay before the steers during the grazing season.

Hay Helps Appetite.

One of the men at the farm said the other day: "From our experience with these whitefaced steers this summer and fall I believe that if you have hay it is well to keep it in racks where your steers have access to it while they are on pasture. I think they eat more feed that way than if they are on grass alone, and put on bigger and better gains."

The steers have been fed hay in four racks mounted on feed bunks, as shown in the accompanying illustration. Lately the forty-two head have been fed daily about 400 pounds of mixed hay and 200 pounds of corn silage. In addition each steer gets an average of approximately 8 pounds of whole oats daily.

The oats are scattered over the silage feed in the bunks. The bottom of the hay rack is about 8 inches above the floor of the bunk. This allows plenty of head room for the steers. The racks are firmly fastened to the bunks, which are kept on high, well drained ground. The combination bunks and racks are shifted to new locations regularly. This has been found important in keeping the steers out of mud around the bunks during rainy weather.

Bunks Made of Pine.

The bunks and racks are made of pine. Thus they are light enough to be easily handled, although heavy enough not to be easily tipped over by the cattle.

The manager's present plan is to rough the steers through the winter on a ration that will keep them growing and gaining a little. They likely will not be put on full feed until next summer. Since they were moved where they will have access to the cattle barn, they still have free run of a nearby pasture.

They will continue to be fed silage, a small amount of oats, and allowed to browse in the pasture. The racks have been moved near a stack of mixed hay—clover, alfalfa, quackgrass, and bluegrass, harvested from odd corners on the farm. Later the combination bunks and racks will be placed in the newly paved feed lot on the south side of the cattle barn.

BRITISH POUND GAINS SHARPLY ON U. S. DOLLAR

Closes at $4.65¼, Up 2⅜ Cents.

The value of the United States dollar fell abruptly in terms of the British pound sterling yesterday in foreign exchange dealings. Opening 2 cents higher in New York, the pound gathered strength later and closed 2⅜ cents higher at $4.65¼.

Most other European currencies also advanced. The French franc, which has followed the pound's decline in recent months, gained 0.0125 cent yesterday, closing 2.60¾ cents.

Vigorous operations of the British equalization fund were said in exchange circles to be chiefly responsible for the upswing of foreign currencies. This movement followed a slow decline of many months, due to the transfer of funds from European currencies to the American dollar because of war scares.

British Treasury Behind Move.

The British equalization fund is a huge pool managed by the British treasury to control the international value of the pound.

Traders in New York also attributed the rally in part to increased optimism over French internal conditions, short covering, and to an early beginning of the normal year-end rally of sterling. The latter is usually caused by emigrant remittances, dividend payments and corporation transfers.

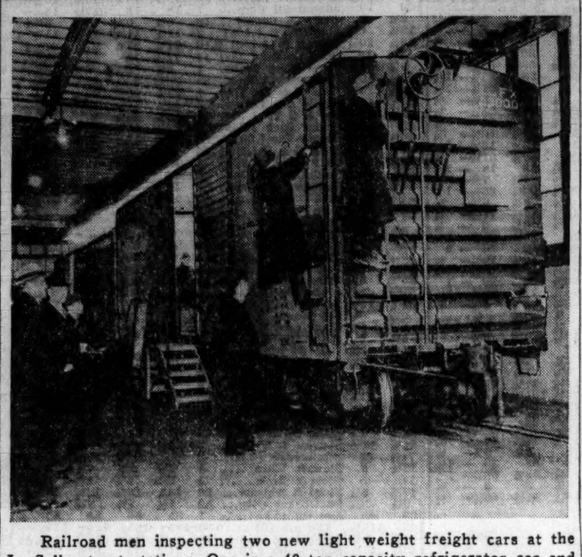
Discount Devaluation Rumor.

New York traders scoffed at London rumors that a devaluation of the dollar is likely. In Washington, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declined to comment on the new rumors and also declined to discuss the trend of the British pound.

A sidelight on the rally was furnished by the London gold market, where there was a delay in fixing the official price because bids had to be revised to the stronger pound. Finally a price of 149 shillings 9½ pence was fixed. This quotation, equal to $34.77, was 2½ pence [about 5 cents] less than the all-time high of 150 shillings established last Saturday.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York announced engagement yesterday of $560,000 gold in England for shipment to the United States. During November $150,000,000 in gold has been sent here from Great Britain.

Light Weight Freight Cars Exhibited



Railroad men inspecting two new light weight freight cars at the La Salle street station. One is a 40 ton capacity refrigerator car and the other a 50 ton capacity box car. Each weighs about four tons less than present standard equipment. The cars were built by the American Car and Foundry company to interest railroads in the possibilities of light weight equipment.

Alloys Reduce Freight Cars' Weight 4 Tons

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Two new light weight freight cars of welded steel construction drew numerous Chicago railroad men to the La Salle street station yesterday. These and other light weight freight cars brought out in recent years by car builders are being discussed by railroad men as offering one way to help ease the carriers' financial problems.

The two cars shown were built by the American Car and Foundry company at its Berwick, Pa., plant. One is a refrigerator car weighing 44,200 pacity of 100,000 pounds. The refrigerator car weighs more, but has a smaller capacity than the box car because refrigeration equipment takes up space and adds weight.

Weight Cut 8,000 Pounds.

Each of the two cars weighs about 8,000 pounds less than conventional cars now in use. This means that through their use a railroad could increase the revenue load per car by about 8,000 pounds. Or it could handle more cars in a train without disturbing the relationship of the power of the engine to the overall weight of the train.

Through freight trains average about seventy cars. By using the new light weight cars it would be possible to add about five loaded cars to the train pulled by an engine exerting the same power as is required to haul a shorter train composed of heavier cars.

What this means is shown in the charges for hauling citrus fruits from California. The charge for oranges is $1.42 per hundred pounds, with a minimum of 36,000 pounds. The gross revenue from a car loaded at the minimum weight traveling from California to Chicago is $511.20. If five extra cars could be hauled without increasing the effort of the locomotive the gross revenue of a seventy car train could be increased by about $2,556 without adding to expense.

Would Be "Clear Profit."

The added revenue obtained by using the light weight cars could be considered as clear profit because it would be revenue produced without extra exertion. Because of the wide variety of rates charged for the many products carried by the railroads, it is difficult to arrive at the ideal in estimating savings that would be made possible by using light weight equipment. In addition, freight cars usually are not loaded to their full capacity.

The two American Car and Foundry freight cars are made of low alloy high tensile corrosion-resisting steel possessing greater strength than the standard steels. A smaller amount of alloy steel may be used to attain the desired degree of strength. This has made possible a reduction in the thickness of plates in the new cars.

The Illinois Central disclosed yesterday that it has exercised its option to take 1,000 additional steel box cars from the American Car and Foundry company on the same terms under which it ordered 1,000 cars earlier this year. These cars will not be of lightweight construction.

CARGILL WILL SEEK TESTIMONY FROM 17 CHICAGO GRAIN MEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Cargill, Inc., a Minneapolis grain company, announced today it will ask permission from the Commodity Exchange commission to subpena seventeen members and former members of the Chicago Board of Trade, including the president, Kenneth S. Templeton.

Cargill has complained to the commission that the board of trade violated the Commodity Exchange act in 1936 and in 1937. The grain company has asked that the board's license under the Commodity Exchange act be revoked or suspended. A hearing in the case was resumed this morning before a special referee for the commission.

A Cargill attorney, Weston B. Grimes, said today the board of trade had submitted only meager information under subpena. A transcript of the minutes of the board's meetings did not identify completely the persons who attended, he added.

The grain company has charged that the board of trade in 1936 failed to give the Cargill Grain company of Illinois, a subsidiary, the required one day notice for delivery of a corn future contract. The second allegation was that the board ordered Cargill to liquidate its long contracts in September, 1937, corn futures, and thus aided in manipulating a decline in prices.

Texas Orders 4 Week-End Oil Well Closings in Month

Austin, Tex., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The Texas railroad commission today ordered four Saturday and four Sunday shutdowns of all Texas oil wells during December, exempting Dec. 17.

STOCKS FINISH LOWER DESPITE BELATED RALLY

Industrial Division Is Hardest Hit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Stocks lost fractions to around 2 points today. Starting lower, the list worked steadily downward so that at one time key issues showed declines ranging to more than 3 points. Support in the final hour enabled the majority of stocks to creep up from their lows.

Transfers totaled 1,237,702 shares. Of 852 issues traded, 637 declined, 74 advanced, and 141 closed unchanged from Saturday's final quotations.

Continued weakness in domestic and foreign copper prices and forecasts of a lower operating rate in the steel industry were advanced as reasons for the selling. Other factors were the internal situation in France and the uncertain foreign exchange market.

All Groups Join Decline.

All sections were affected. Industrial stocks were hardest hit. Steels and motors bore the brunt of selling for a time. Chrysler sold down to 75⅝ before support appeared. It closed at 77¼, off 1¾ points. Similar margins were lost by General Motors, United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Republic Steel.

Aviation stocks were active and lower. Early losses running to around 2 points were pared. Fractional declines ruled at the close.

Anaconda showed the way in the coppers, losing ¼ point in a fairly heavy turnover. Similar losses were marked up against American Smelting and Kennecott. International Nickel and Phelps Dodge lost 1 and 1¼ points, respectively.

Rails Decline Fractionally.

Fractional declines were common in the rails. Leaders were New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern railway, and Santa Fe. Conspicuously weak was Union Pacific, which slumped 2¾ points.

Transamerica, which gave ground Saturday on the Securities and Exchange commission's blast at the management, was among the more active issues. It firmed a fraction.

Farm implement stocks were in moderate supply. International Harvester was the chief sufferer, losing 1 point. In the electric equipments, General Electric lost 1⅜ points and Westinghouse 2¾ points.

Oils lost fractions for the most part. Losses in the merchandising issues ran to 1 point in Montgomery Ward. Rubbers lost up to 1 point.

STEEL OUTPUT IS EXPECTED TO DECLINE AGAIN

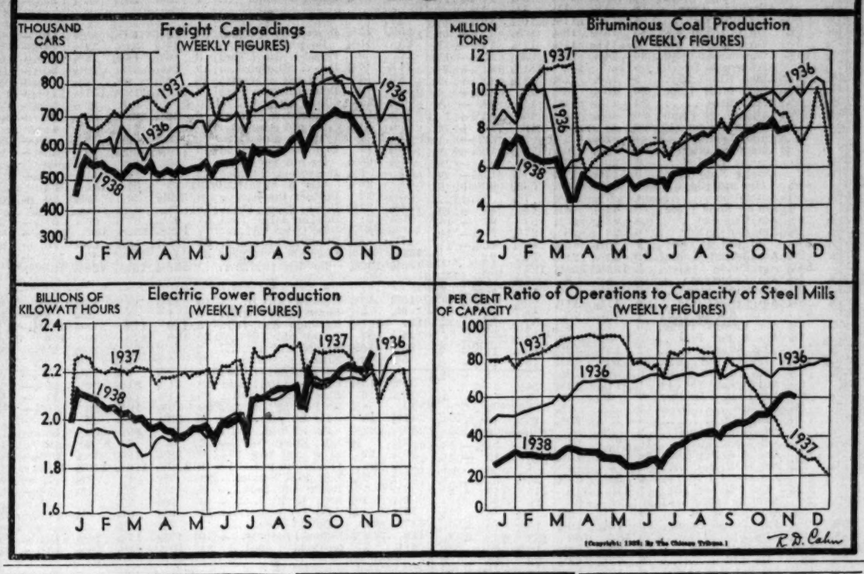
A further decline in steel making may be expected this week, the American Iron and Steel institute predicted yesterday. It estimated that the nation's ingot production rate will drop to 60.7 per cent of theoretical capacity from 61.9 per cent in the preceding week.

The usual year-end cautiousness of consumers was said to be the chief cause for the decline. Buyers at present are ordering on a hand to mouth basis, awaiting action on first quarter prices.

Week's Business Failures Second Lowest This Year

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States for the five-day week ended Nov. 24 totaled 191, second lowest for any week in the year, compared with 203 in the preceding week, Dun and Bradstreet reported today.

Stage of Business as Reflected in 4 Leading Barometers



Shoe Builder Finds Income Sharing Pays

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—H. L. Nunn, shoe manufacturer, told a senate committee today his company has "stopped the senseless buying and selling of labor" and has allotted 20 per cent of gross revenues to its employés as wages.

Gerard Swope "knocks wood" against strikes. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

By that action, he said, the Nunn Bush Shoe company of Milwaukee, Wis., has given its workers the same direct interest as management in the success of the business, insured itself against labor troubles, and increased its productivity.

Nunn was one of three industrial leaders who testified during the day at the hearing on the principle of tax incentives as a means of encouraging profit sharing.

Not Treated as Commodity.

Nunn said his company decided more than three years ago to change its policy of "treating labor as a commodity." By agreement with its employés, the company put into operation a policy by which employés receive 20 cents out of every dollar taken in through wholesale sales. Employés were guaranteed each week a check for 92½ per cent of their former pay for a forty hour week. Weekly checks have ranged from this minimum to 112 per cent of the basic pay since the policy was inaugurated, Nunn added.

"I think," Nunn said, "that if industry will share the gross dollar it will prove more satisfactory than sharing the net dollar."

Swope Tells His Views.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, told the committee, composed of Senators Herring [D., Ia.] and Vandenberg [R., Mich.], that he believed incentive taxation was the only method by which management could be aided in stabilizing employment through an annual wage.

Profit sharing systems, he said, must be geared to profits. General Electric gives 12½ per cent of its net profits to employés after $8 a share has been paid as dividends.

Senator Herring asked if General Electric had had any labor trouble.

Reply Brings Laughter.

The audience at the hearing burst into laughter as Swope rapped his knuckles on the wooden desk in front of him before replying: "Not yet."

Hanford MacNider, president of the Northwestern States Portland Cement company of Mason City, Ia., said he was opposed to both incentive and punitive taxation.

PROGRAM OF DEFENSE STRONG STIMULANT TO AMERICAN BUSINESS

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The magazine Banking today described the United States government's preparations for national defense as "a business stimulant of first importance in the immediate future." The magazine is the official publication of the American Bankers association.

In a December survey of business, William R. Kuhns, editor, wrote: "Directly, through prospective spending of a billion dollars in eighteen months, and indirectly through the mobilization of industry, national defense has occupied a wholly unaccustomed place in the middle of the business picture.

"This is true in other countries as well as in the United States, and the strain on national budgets, here and abroad, will speed up the inflationary processes long at work."

CHESAPEAKE'S HOLDERS VOTE TO LIQUIDATE

Robert Young Wires Surprise Protest.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Liquidation of the Chesapeake corporation, middle holding company in the old Van Sweringen railroad empire, was approved by stockholders at a special meeting today. The vote on the dissolution was controled by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, which voted more than 70 per cent of the Chesapeake stock.

Robert R. Young. He's still fighting.

The approval was unanimous despite a surprise protest wired by Robert R. Young, former chairman of Chesapeake, and present chairman of the Alleghany corporation, top holding company in the rail system. Alleghany owns a majority of the stock of Chesapeake corporation.

Stock Pledged with Bank.

However, Alleghany has pledged its Chesapeake stock shares with Guaranty Trust as collateral for three Alleghany bond issues. Because of this, Guaranty won the right to vote the Chesapeake stock after a court fight with Young. He had previously favored the liquidation of Chesapeake, but reversed his position today.

Young's telegram to Charles L. Bradley, chairman of the Chesapeake corporation, said that he, Young, had just "learned to my surprise" that under the liquidation plan, Guaranty Trust, as trustee of Alleghany bond issues, might refuse to make the Chesapeake corporation's future income available for payment of interest on Alleghany bonds. Young said such action might unjustifiably cause

U. S. TO BORROW 'NEW MONEY' IN DEC. 15 FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau indicated today that the treasury would borrow "new money" on Dec. 15, its next regular quarterly financing date.

The secretary said at a press conference that no borrowing was necessary immediately, but it appeared "sensible" to split up the borrowing that would be necessary between now and June 30, 1939.

Previously, Morgenthau had estimated that this fiscal year's emergency spending program would necessitate borrowing about $2,100,000,000 of which $800,000,000 was borrowed on Sept. 15, leaving approximately $1,300,000,000 to be obtained.

Morgenthau explained that since the treasury has $1,860,000,000 cash in its working balance, it could wait until March before borrowing.

Use of Checks in Chicago Reserve District Declines

Checks written against individual deposit accounts in banks in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Nov. 23 aggregated $1,071,022,000, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. This was a decline of 3.8 per cent from the $1,113,623,000 reported for the preceding week and a drop of 8.1 per cent from the $1,164,910,000 reported for like week of 1937. For the Chicago banks alone, checks written totaled $600,053,000, against $643,577,000 in the like 1937 week.

MEXICAN COURT GRANTS STAY OF 2 OIL SEIZURES

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The federal District court today granted a definite stay of execution against government seizure of concessions and material of the Titiana and Mercedes companies at Monterrey and Reynosa, in Neuva Leon state. The two companies are subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The court also ordered return to the Titiana company of all material already taken from its Rio Bravo property in Tamaulipas state.

The District court at Tampico, Tamaulipas state, on Nov. 26 denied a definite state of execution to the Charro company, joint operator with the Titiana company of the Rio Bravo properties.

FLEXIBLE SHAFT ELECTRIC RAZOR RIGHTS UPHELD

Patent rights of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company in the "Shavemaster" electric shaver have been upheld by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, it was learned yesterday.

An injunction and damage suit brought by the Lion Manufacturing company against the makers of the shaver was dismissed by the court. The plaintif charged that John Bruecker, 2738 Pine Grove avenue, had developed the invention while in its employ and later assigned manufacturing rights to the Chicago Flexible Shaft company.

The court ruled orally that Bruecker was rightful owner of the patents and therefore could assign the patent rights to the Chicago Flexible Shaft company.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Bonds declined today in a session of moderate activity. Rails experienced more difficulty in absorbing selling than the general run of corporate issues and at the finish many of the carriers were off 1 to more than 3 points.

Equally sharp declines were recorded by some of the more volatile industrial loans, buy low yield corporate bonds were steady. Most United States governments were inclined to heaviness on a small turnover, although a few treasuries finished a shade higher.

Restraint shown by buyers was attributed in part to a further slide in the stock market, and this in turn was associated with European unsettlement, particularly in France.

Foreign dollar loans were mixed, with the widest movements on the down side.

Chicago Stocks.

A broad selling wave sent Chicago stocks downward yesterday. Losses in the more active issues ranged from fractions to a point. Zenith Radio closed a point lower. Marshall Field, Electric Household, Great Lakes Dredge, Middle West, Commonwealth Edison, and Hupp Motors lost fractions.

The turnover was 36,100 shares, besides 43,900 Commonwealth Edison rights. This compared with Friday's volume of 28,100 shares, plus 62,900 Edison rights. The rights yesterday closed unchanged at 15 cents.

The Tribune average of 20 stocks slipped 0.42 to 10.78. Only eleven of the 142 stocks traded advanced, 94 declined, and 37 closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Leading Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday in sluggish trading, dealers reported. Stocks of the Northern Trust company and the First National bank each closed $2 lower, and shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company were off 50 cents from Saturday's quotations. The only gain of the day was that of the City National Bank and Trust company stock, which finished $1 higher at $106 bid, $110 asked.

FURNACE MAKER VOTES DIVIDEND ON SENIOR STOCK

But Defers Consideration of Common Payment.

Directors of the Holland Furnace company yesterday ordered payment of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the $5 preferred stock, but deferred action on the common stock disbursement due at this time. The dividend on the senior shares will be paid Dec. 28 to stockholders of record Dec. 9.

Action on the common stock dividend will be considered shortly after Jan. 1, directors said. A. W. Tahaney, secretary, explained that by Dec. 31 the affairs of the present Holland Furnace company, a Michigan corporation, will be concluded and its assets and business will be taken over by a new company of the same name incorporated in Delaware.

Will Get Surtax Credit.

The new corporation will declare the common stock dividend, Tahaney said. By this procedure a surtax credit will be received by the corporation because the dividend will be declared and paid in the same year. The last payment made on the common stock of Holland Furnace was the usual quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share paid Oct. 1. In 1938 the company paid a total of $2 on the common against $1.50 in 1937.

Among usual dividends declared was that of Goldblatt Bros., Inc., operators of several department stores. The company will pay the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the $2.50 preferred stock Jan. 3 to holders of record Dec. 10.

Investors' Guide

N. Y. Shipbuilding.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information regarding New York Shipbuilding corporation?—B. G.

Answer: The New York Shipbuilding corporation and its subsidiary, New York Shipbuilding company, are now engaged solely in building and reconditioning ships. The corporation disposed of other subsidiaries engaged in making electrical equipment several years ago. Most of its business consists of building ships under contract for the United States navy department.

The company's plant is located at Camden, N. J., on the Delaware river. It occupies 191 acres of land with 4,272 feet of water frontage. Rising costs, particularly labor costs, resulted in heavy losses last year. Operations continued unprofitable during the first six months of this year but the report for the nine months ended Sept. 30 showed a profit of $122,537, compared with net loss of $289,147 in the first nine months of 1937. Net loss for the first half of this year was $121,677.

Net loss for all of 1937 was $1,372,038. This compared with net income of $397,737 in 1936. In 1935 the company had a net loss of $1,415,373, compared with loss of $257,965 in 1934 and loss of $24,322 in 1933. Profit was $1,328,191 in 1932.

Funded debt of the company consists of $2,990,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds which will mature Nov. 1, 1946. There are three classes of stock outstanding, including 17,850 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par value, 325,000 shares of $1 par participating stock, and 175,000 shares of $1 par founders' stock.

The founders' stock has the sole voting right except when four successive quarterly dividends are in arrears on the preferred. Preferred stock then has equal rights with the founders' shares. No payments have been made on the preferred stock since Oct. 1, 1936. The last payments on the other classes of stocks were 10 cents each on Jan. 2, 1935. As of April 28, 1938, the Aviation and Transportation corporation owned 6,200 shares of the founders' stock.

China Mail Steamship.

Answer: The company went into bankruptcy several years ago. There was not enough realized on sale of the assets to pay the outstanding bonds in full. The stock is worthless.

Everyday Economics

Aristocratic Voting.

In corporations, the usual procedure for voting by stockholders is to allow one vote for each share held. This rule nearly always applies to common stock. Preferred stock may or may not have voting privileges, depending on the terms under which it was issued and on the laws of the state in which the company was incorporated.

Some of the central banks of Europe, however, have voting methods known as "aristocratic" voting control. These methods place limitations of one form or another on the stockholders' right to vote. For example, in the Bank of England, only shareholders owning more than 500 pounds [about $2,400] of stock are entitled to vote. Each such shareholder has but one vote.

In the National Bank of Belgium, at least thirty shares must be held to acquire the right of one vote, and no shareholder is permitted more than five votes. Sockholders in the German Reichsbank are permitted one vote per share, but no one holder may cast more than 300 votes. These and similar plans are used in some cases to keep the control in the hands of a few individuals.

CHESAPEAKE'S HOLDERS VOTE TO LIQUIDATE

Robert R. Young Wires Surprise Protest.

Representatives of the Guaranty Trust said they were amazed at Young's new position. F. A. O. Schwarz, counsel for Guaranty, said that Young's statements were "vicious and unwarranted."

The Guaranty Trust company, in an answering letter to Young, said that it was ready to amend the Alleghany bond indentures to make current income of Chesapeake during its liquidation available for Alleghany bond interest, provided holders of 60 per cent of the bonds consented to the amendments.

Calls for Reduced Capital.

The liquidation plan approved for Chesapeake today calls for a reduction of its capital from $74,242,000, or $41.25 a share, to a stated value of $179,975, or 10 cents a share, for the 1,799,750 outstanding common shares.

Another meeting of Chesapeake stockholders will be held Jan. 16 to consider further steps in the dissolution plan.

Chesapeake corporation directors will meet in New York tomorrow to vote on the first liquidating dividend. An auction at Adrian H. Muller & Son, New York, of Chesapeake's 69,000 shares of Erie railroad common stock is scheduled for tomorrow.

WORK AND WAGES RISE IN ILLINOIS FOR THIRD MONTH

For the third consecutive month Illinois industrial employment and pay rolls showed increases. This was reported yesterday by the Illinois department of labor. Of the eighteen industrial reporting groups, all but four showed gains in both employment and pay rolls.

October showed a gain of 1.7 per cent in employment over September and a gain of 3 per cent in pay rolls. The increases were based on information obtained from 6,730 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing companies.

The gain in employment was contraseasonal and that the gain in pay rolls was larger than seasonal. As compared with October, 1937, the October, 1938, indices showed decreases of 17 per cent in employment and 20.2 per cent in pay rolls.

For the Chicago metropolitan district alone the gain in employment in October over September was 2.1 per cent and the gain in pay rolls was 2.2 per cent.

FIRM ENDS LONG RECEIVERSHIP; CREDITORS PAID

Gary, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—An unusual chapter in business history was brought to a conclusion today when the Anderson company, Gary, maker of automobile accessories, emerged from a six year receivership. Its creditors have been paid in full and its original officers still are in charge. The company has not resorted to refinancing or reorganization.

Termination of the receivership was ordered by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick in Hammond. He joined with attorneys in declaring the situation unique among the thousands of receiverships which followed in the wake of the 1929 depression.

Payment of a final 15 per cent dividend to creditors paved the way for Judge Slick's action in ending the receivership.

MORE RAILROADS SHOW REVENUES ABOVE YEAR AGO

Santa Fe October Income Up to $2,804,790.

Most railroads reporting yesterday for October continued to show higher earnings than for October, 1937. Among those with increases in net operating income, before other income and fixed charges, were the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Canadian Pacific, the Louisville and Nashville, and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

Interim reports of several industrial and utility companies, on the other hand, showed reduced earnings compared with a year earlier. These included Crown Zellerbach corporation, maker of paper products, the Electric Power and Light corporation, and United Gas corporation.

Santa Fe's Revenue $2,804,790.

The Santa Fe road's net operating income in October increased to $2,804,790, more than double the total of $1,248,651 for the same 1937 month. This brought net operating income for the first ten months of 1938 to $14,056,033, compared with $15,805,892 in the first ten months of last year. October gross revenues of $15,241,355 compared with $15,620,661 in the 1937 month.

Samuel T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe, termed October results satisfactory and said crop conditions were "fair." He added, however, that frost in California had reduced shipments of fruits and vegetables.

Bledsoe declined to predict what action directors might take at their meeting today on the preferred stock dividends. Preferred dividends were deferred last June because of falling earnings.

The cash position of the Santa Fe has improved since that time, Bledsoe said.

137 Roads Report Results.

The Association of American Railroads reported that net railway operating income of 137 class 1 railroads in the first ten months of 1938 totaled $273,709,020. This compared with $531,689,942 in the same period last year and represented a decline of $257,980,922. In October, however, net railway operating income of the 137 roads was nearly $8,000,000 larger than in the same month last year. The October total was $68,565,755, compared with $60,860,439 in October, 1937.
